OPPOSE 'DEVIL HUNTING' IN U.S. MONOPOLY QUIZ

Facts Only, Goal of Committee.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—Congressional members of the national economic committee, created to investigate monopolistic practices and recommend legislation to improve anti-trust policy and procedure, are overwhelmingly, if not unanimously, opposed to the use of the committee's powers for a devil hunting expedition against anti-administration industrialists.

The congressional members favor an objective, fact finding inquiry, with constructive legislation and not political propaganda as its purpose.

May Be Witch Hunt.

The nature of the investigation, however, will depend upon President Roosevelt and the men he selects to represent the six departments and administrative agencies which, with three senators and three representatives, will conduct the inquiry.

Under the terms of the joint resolution creating the committee, the inquiry can be conducted either in the manner of a British royal commission or as a witch hunt, such as the money trust inquisition led by Representative Arsene Paulin Pujo of Louisiana a quarter of a century ago.

Representatives of the justice, treasury, labor and commerce departments, the Securities and Exchange commission and the federal trade commission are expected to be designated by the respective heads of those departments and agencies after conferences with President Roosevelt on his return to Washington, Friday.

Expect Radicals to Be Named.

It is believed certain that these representatives will include Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, the Roosevelt trust buster; Herman Oliphant, treasury general counsel and foremost advocate of the punitive tax on undistributed corporate profits; Jerome Frank, radical Securities and Exchange commissioner, and Leon Henderson, economist of the Works Progress administration.

Henderson, one of President Roosevelt's closest economic advisers, would not be eligible as a representative of WPA, but under the terms of the resolution any member of the committee may designate an alternate to sit in his place. Henderson also might be transferred temporarily to some other agency.

One Roosevelt Supporter.

The congressional members of the committee are Senators Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], slated to be chairman; William H. King [D., Utah], and William E. Borah [R., Idaho], and Representatives Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], Edward C. Eicher [D., Ia.], and B. Carroll Reece [R., Tenn.]. Of these, only one, Eicher, is a fervent administration supporter.

The administration, however, could run the show to suit itself with the vote of only one congressional member, which would give it a majority of 7 to 5.

Moreover, only $100,000 of the $500,000 appropriation is directly available to the committee, while the remaining $400,000 is reserved, to be allocated by President Roosevelt, among the departments and agencies represented on the committee, in his discretion. Thus if Mr. Roosevelt's representatives should decide that the investigation should be dramatized for political purposes just before the November elections, and he should agree, that could be done.

G. O. P. Fears Smear Campaign.

Republicans have drawn attention to these possibilities and expressed the fear that the committee would be used to harass and smear industrialists who might be found to have contributed to the Republican campaign fund.

In an effort to dispel similar fears of business men, administration lawyers, and brain trusters, including those expected to serve on the investigating committee, have been conducting secret conferences with industrialists. Prentiss L. Coonley, assistant to W. Averill Harriman, chairman of the Business Advisory council of the department of commerce, arranged the conferences at the suggestion of Arnold, the trust buster.

The industrialists were assured by the brain trusters that here would be no muckraking, no witch burning, and on the basis of such assurances

Shelve Tobacco Tax in Compromise.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner convened a second special session of the legislature today, in accordance with an armistice agreement between his own and the hostile Chicago Democratic faction.

The agreement called for enactment of an additional relief appropriation of $400,000 monthly for seven months; permission to Chicago to divert about $2,500,000 of its motor fuel tax share for relief, and appropriation of $2,500,000 to the department of public welfare to match a hoped for PWA grant for the building of a new prison and improvements to existing charitable institutions.

Tobacco Tax Rejected.

The Democratic compromise does not, however, include the tobacco tax proposed last night as a relief fund source at a conference of Horner-Courtney and Nash-Kelly leaders. This impost probably will not even see the light of introduction, because at a caucus of house Democrats this morning it was unanimously disapproved.

Thirty minutes thereafter, Gov. Horner agreed to a further relief appropriation of $400,000 monthly until next Feb. 1, reversing his hitherto firm stand that the legislature must produce new revenue before he would let the treasury be tapped again.

This concession was an astonishing one—particularly to the Republican house members—for both the governor and his finance director, Sam Nudelman, have insisted for weeks that far from showing an excess, the condition of the treasury and of estimated income showed a possible deficit of $2,500,000 by the close of the current biennium, July 1, 1939.

No Mention of Reversal.

Yet virtually without argument, Gov. Horner not only approved the new relief appropriation, which will total $2,800,000 by Feb. 1, but he also authorized the further appropriation of $2,500,000 for the state institutions. It is hoped the latter can be matched with a 45 per cent grant from the federal government. The total authorization is $5,300,000.

The governor made no mention of this reversal in the proclamation convening the second special session.

Although it is by no means assured that the recommendations of the house caucus accurately predict the course of the second session, and the concurrent progress of the first special session, the program is one mechanically capable of enactment by next Thursday night, June 30, which is the date set for sine die adjournment of both meetings.

Five legislative days remain before that date, excluding tomorrow, Saturday, and Sunday. This is the exact number of days in which a bill may be rushed through passage in both chambers, under harmonious conditions.

House Advances New Taxes.

The house tonight advanced toward passage two new taxes to be added to the list of excises on modern business. One is entitled a producer tax and the other a user tax.

Both excises are intended to collect the 3 per cent from transactions that now escape the occupational, or sales tax.

THE RAIN MAKER

Warden Saves Killer Ready to Walk to Chair

Michigan City, Ind., June 23.—[Special.]—Robert Shaw, convicted murderer of a law officer, hopelessly paced his cell in the death house of the Indiana state prison here late tonight. Eleven o'clock and then 11:15 passed and the prison clock was ticking off the fateful minutes. At midnight he was to be led to the electric chair.

The silence of the death house was broken suddenly by the approach of several men. Shaw's face paled. A deputy stepped forward out of the gloom.

"You're reprieved until Tuesday," he said curtly to Shaw, then turned away. The condemned man, 27 years old, a British subject, and for a brief period a ferocious desperado who single handed fought 60 members of a posse last December, almost collapsed with joy. He wept.

Drama Behind Scene.

Behind this death house drama was a drama even more unusual. The main actor was Alfred Dowd, the prison warden, who took office only six weeks ago. Dowd saved the murderer's life, temporarily at least. At the last minute—actually at about 11:30—he persuaded Gov. M. Clifford Townsend to grant Shaw a stay.

Warden Dowd's unparalleled intercession was based on the fact Shaw was condemned to death by a judge and not a jury on his plea of guilty. Although not certain as to the law, Dowd felt, he explained later, that neither Shaw nor any man should be permitted to plead his life away without benefit of jury.

Dowd recalled that in 1919 Albert and Thomas Batchelor, brothers, were sentenced to death on pleas at a bench trial, but that the Indiana Supreme court remanded the case for a jury trial. They were then sentenced to life.

Telephones to Judge.

The warden learned Shaw had not been tried by jury while going through the latter's commitment papers at 11 p. m. with the scheduled execution only sixty minutes away. He telephoned Judge Clyde Carlin of La Grange, who had imposed sentence, but the judge said he could not stay the execution.

Dowd then telephoned Gov. Townsend. The question of a man pleading guilty in a capital case at a bench trial was put up to him and the governor promptly granted a temporary stay to investigate Shaw's right in the matter.

Indiana, Illinois, and other states have executed slayers on nonjury convictions.

Shaw shot and killed Deputy Sherif Harry Spice at La Grange last Dec. 3 while being sought as a robbery suspect. He was shot and captured by the posse the following day. Shaw once served a prison term in Tennessee. He was reared in Canada. Canadian friends and Lewis Bernays, British consul in Chicago, sought to intercede for him. He had no relatives or family friends in America.

LA FOLLETTE VISITS JAIL TO SEE EX-AID; REFUSED ADMISSION

Milwaukee, Wis., June 23.—[Special.]—Gov. Philip La Follette and Lieut. Gov. Herman L. Ekern called at the house of correction last night to consult with Thomas Duncan, the governor's former confidential secretary who is serving a one to two year term for manslaughter, but they did not get in to see him.

"I am Gov. La Follette. I would like to see Tom Duncan," the governor told Capt. Henry Bloedel. Bloedel told the governor prisoners are not permitted to have visitors after 4 p. m. Acting Inspector Joseph Drewniak, the only one with authority to alter the rules, was away at the time.

HE STOPS RADIO BY USING AN AX ON ITS OWNERS

For three weeks Giovanni Bianci has tried in vain to sleep in spite of the loud radio of his neighbors on the second floor at 453 North Morgan street. His complaints unheeded, Bianci went upstairs last night to end the nuisance.

With a hand ax he started in to convince the radio owners, James Cutrone and Frank Favizzi. After gashing each of them he stopped the radio and returned to the first floor to sleep.

He slept soundly until Policeman Thomas Egan arrived. Bianci resumed his slumbers in the Racine avenue station. After being repaired by a physician Cutrone and Favizzi returned to their radio.

Kidnaps 2 Sunday Dinners; Trapped by Ransom Note

Key West, Fla., June 23.—(AP)—Sherif K. O. Thompson said the most insignificant kidnaping for ransom on record was solved today. A housewife missed two chickens and found in their coop a note demanding that 20 cents be left under a nearby stone "or you'll never see them alive again." She guessed the identity of the author, the sherif said, and a boy 14 years old was held for juvenile authorities.

Barbara's Dad Fights to Save Her Marriage

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—A move to patch up the quarrel between Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow and his wife, the former Barbara Hutton, over the education of their baby son, Lance, appeared to be under way tonight.

The $40,000,000 American 5 and 10 cent store heiress received a long distance call from Paris following extended conferences between the Danish nobleman and his father-in-law, Franklyn Hutton, at the Ritz hotel in the French capital.

Cancels Airplane Trip.

The count canceled an airplane trip from Paris to London when he learned that a warant for his arrest had been issued by a London court upon representations of his wife and her lawyers. The count canceled the flight after legal advisers warned him that he would be taken to the Bow street police court if he set foot in England.

There, it was disclosed, Haugwitz-Reventlow would have to face a charge of putting his wife "in bodily fear." If any prosecution followed it was understood it would be private, conducted for the countess by her lawyers.

It was understood that the charge placed against the count by his wife does not come within the category of extraditable offenses and if he decides to stay out of England there is no legal process to compel his appearance.

Judge Sticks Around.

T. W. Fry, the magistrate who signed the warant for the count's arrest, remained at the Bow Street Police court until a late hour to be on hand to deal with the case in the event the nobleman turned up.

Countess Barbara was understood to have obtained a court order yesterday granting her temporary custody of her son, who is 2 years old, pending later litigation. Her husband denied he had made any attempt or threat to kidnap the baby.

Today it was confirmed that the Woolworth heiress had made application to have the boy declared a ward of the court to complicate any move the count might take to obtain possession of the baby without his mother's consent.

The family talks in Paris between Hutton, his wife, his son-in-law, and the latter's mother, began this morn-

Forced Labor Decree Pushes Four Year Plan

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 23.—Labor conscription of all German men and women, of whatever profession or trade, was decreed today by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, chief of the Nazi four year plan for economic independence. The decree goes into effect July 1. Persons summoned will be assigned to urgent tasks.

The decree enables Goering to supply the huge national steel works being built in Salzgitter and Linz and other vast economic undertakings with engineers, experts, and workers.

No Age Limits Indicated.

The measure permits Adolf Hitler's government to call upon German subjects of all classes of society to take up work for the state or undergo a special training period. It is anticipated that a majority will be drawn from the ranks of big business enterprises and public offices.

Other than declaring that conscripted persons must be physically fit, the decree indicates no age limits. Nor does it list any exemptions in favor of mothers or those in vital positions.

However, officials explained that "there will be some exemptions."

That Jews also would be included in the sweeping measure was indicated in use of the word "staatsangehoerige"—"dependants of the state," which would include Jews—instead of "staatsbuerger," meaning first class citizens which Jews are not.

Must Grant "Furloughs."

Under the decree employers must grant leaves of absence to employés whose services are needed by the organization in charge of the four year plan. The workers, when called upon to engage in tasks for the state, are entitled to receive at least as much pay as they got in their former jobs. The former employers are compelled to reëmploy the workers when they are released by the government.

The decree makes it much more difficult for workers to choose their jobs. Workers in the most important industries are not allowed to quit even if offered better jobs elsewhere.

Reasons for Forced Labor.

Here are the reasons given for the decree: At the end of May, unemployment had been reduced to about one-third of a million, a large part of which is aged or infirm. On the other hand, the number of German employed had mounted to about 20,500,000, so that, especially among the men of the nation, there were no more reserves left to draw upon for state services.

Officials of the labor ministry have been traveling throughout the country in recent months addressing workers in factories in attempts to pacify those who resent strong regimentation or complain of small pay. The new decree gives the government stronger control over the working population than it ever possessed.

MAYOR ASSURED OF 27 MILLION IN PWA GRANTS

Allotment Made for Wacker Drive.

Mayor Kelly is returning to Chicago from Washington this morning confident that Chicago will get its share of Public Works administration money for the completion of a $62,000,000 public improvements program.

Yesterday the mayor presented the city's case for PWA grants totaling more than 27 million dollars in a conference with Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes. Afterward he said he was satisfied that everything is done except the working out of details.

Four grants totaling $1,460,045 for Chicago projects and one of $571,909 for a state armory in Chicago were made yesterday. The chief city project included is the Wacker drive viaduct link to the outer drive.

Ickes Approves Subway Plan.

According to the mayor, Ickes approved the $31,000,000 plan for three loop subways by saying: "It would be a great thing for Chicago." He also said he favored the $20,936,000 water filtration plant and a $7,000,000 school construction program.

"The subway project is tentatively approved subject to negotiation of the terms of the grant agreement and final arrangements for financing the city's share," Mayor Kelly announced. [PWA grants are 45 per cent of the total construction cost of the project. The city's share of the subway cost is estimated at $17,512,000 and PWA $14,328,000.]

Mayor Kelly told Ickes that the city will advertise for bids within 30 days after an allocation is made and excavating will start within 60 days. He said the subways can be substantially completed before the PWA deadline, June 30, 1940.

Philip Harrington, the city's traction engineer; James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, and Representative Raymond F. McKeough [D., Ill.] accompanied the mayor to Ickes' office.

Project for Wacker Drive.

The Wacker drive extension viaduct approved yesterday is estimated to cost $2,990,000, of which $1,251,000 has been granted by PWA and $1,739,000 would be supplied by the city. An ordinance authorizing the use of motor fuel tax funds for the city's share is now in the hands of the city council railway terminals committee.

Ald. Harry E. Perry [18th], chairman of the committee and a Horner-Courtney man during the recent election, said last night that he will call a meeting early next week to consider extending the drive. "However, there may be more important places to use motor fuel tax money," he said.

A grant of $103,000 was made toward a $247,500 subway on Ashland avenue at 49th street under the Illinois Harbor Belt and Grand Trunk railroad tracks. Motor fuel tax funds have been allotted for the city's share in this project. Both the Wacker drive and Ashland avenue subway projects are under the direction of the board of local improvements.

Two Other Grants to City.

The two other PWA grants made yesterday were $67,500 toward $150,000 worth of street improvements on Ashland avenue from Lake street to Warren boulevard, and $36,000 toward an $80,000 building for the Woodlawn branch public library, 6247 Kimbark avenue. The library board will pay $44,000 of the cost.

The three downtown subways tentatively approved are the first step in the city's traction modernization program prepared last fall by Engineer Harrington.

The plan provides for two track subways in Jackson boulevard and Washington street through the loop, terminating under Grant park, and a State street subway for north and south elevated trains extending from 14th street to Chicago avenue and Franklin street. The Jackson and Washington subways would permit removal from the surface of all east and west street car lines in the loop. The western terminal of the Jackson subway would be at Clinton street and that of Washington street at Desplaines street.

The city's share of the subway construction would be $17,512,000, if PWA approved the request for a $14,328,000 grant. It could be financed either by a loan from the federal government against which the city could pledge securities now in the traction fund, or through the sale of securities in the fund.

The 68 million dollar traction fund is almost entirely invested in tax anticipation warants, about 25 million dollars of which could be converted quickly into cash, according to a recent analysis.

The proposed $20,936,000 south side filtration plant, which also was tentatively approved for a $9,421,000 PWA grant, would be constructed at 79th street. Mayor Kelly contemplates financing the city's share with the sale of city water fund certificates which are retired wholly from water rates.

The major job in the $7,000,000 school construction program is the proposed $3,150,000 south side trade school, to be erected at 85th street and Chappell avenue. The program also includes additions to Lake View, Tuley, and Bowen high schools and several new elementary schools and additions. The school board's share of the cost would come from its current building fund.

Grants also were made yesterday for the following projects in the Chicago area: Cicero, street improvements, $14,727; Lake county, street improvements, $189,000, and Crystal Lake, sewage plant, $45,000.

NEW CHICAGO ARMORY

The Chicago armory projects approved by PWA yesterday and Wednesday are part of a nation-wide program to house units of the National Guard in modern buildings.

Largest of these was $571,909 toward construction of a $1,207,909 two story and basement armory to house 33d division special troops, the 108th medical regiment and the 108th quartermaster regiment commanded by Col. Harold A. Moore. The site for this structure has not yet been chosen but it probably will be placed somewhere on Chicago's northwest side. There is no armory at present in that part of the city.

The grant of $166,909 for construction of a new hangar and headquarters building for the 108th observation squadron fills an emergency need Maj. C. A. McElvain, commanding officer, said last evening.

Thirteen New Ships Coming.

"The National Guard bureau is going to take away our 500 horse power biplanes and begin delivering, very soon, thirteen new $50,000 airplanes with 1,000 horse power motors," the major explained.

"The new ships will be almost twice as large as the old ones and we already are cramped for room. This means that without the new hangar we would have had no place at all to store the new planes."

Mayor Kelly already has promised the squadron four lots on the south side of Chicago airport adjacent to the Hale school, which is on the western boundary, the major said. The new hangar, to cost $370,909 when completed, will be placed there.

Last of the grants for National Guard purposes was $199,936 for an addition of 119 feet by 220 feet to the 122d Field Artillery armory at Chicago avenue and Fairbanks court.

JACKSONVILLE GETS U. S. FUNDS FOR WATER PLANT

Jacksonville, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—Mayor H. H. Vasconcellos was notified today of a PWA allotment of $195,285, 45 per cent of the estimated cost of a proposed rehabilitation of the city water works. That project once was approved, but later rejected for lack of funds. Recently the local project was placed on the preferred list in the Chicago district office.

At a recent meeting of the city council here it was estimated the project would cost $377,000, to be financed by a federal grant and certificates to be redeemed out of water sales.

The plan involves creation of a new water storage basin, rebuilding of the settling basins and rebuilding of the east spillway of the present dam on Lake Mauvaisterre. The present water system equipment is 18 to 40 years old.

U. S. PAY ROLLERS TOLD TO KICK IN FOR SLUSH FUND

Squeeze Applied to Raise Campaign Cash.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—The administration is putting the squeeze on federal office holders to finance the primaries and the fall election, it was learned today.

Civil service employés and those in the emergency units created by the administration are being solicited by letter for campaign contributions. Employés of the emergency units are not protected by civil service, and can be fired arbitrarily if they do not ante up to the party bosses.

The solicitation, it was learned, is being done by states, and the states are being selected in the order of the difficulty the administration faces in punishing those who have disobeyed its dictates or in returning its favorites to office.

Indiana Among First.

One of the first states in which federal employés were solicited was Indiana. At the fall election President Roosevelt hopes to punish Senator Frederick Van Nuys, who fought the court packing plan. Van Nuys is running as an independent against Lieut. Gov. Harry F. Schricker, the Democratic candidate of the Roosevelt-Townsend-Minton machine, and probably against former Senator James Watson, who is expected to be the Republican nominee.

It was reported that the first batch of solicitation letters went to Pennsylvania's federal employés. There the administration is facing a stiff fight to retain the control it won in 1932 and 1936. The Democratic cause in Pennsylvania, it is conceded, has been jeopardized by a split with the state machine headed by Gov. George H. Earle, a candidate for the senate, who is opposed by the forces of Senator Joseph F. Guffey and John L. Lewis, the C. I. O. boss.

It was reported that campaign collectors assured federal workers that they are not obligated to contribute to the party's war chest, but at the same time it was made clear that government workers would suffer no embarrassment if they sent a flood of checks into headquarters of the Democratic national committee.

Letters Sent to Homes.

Under federal law solicitation of federal employés on federal property is forbidden. Solicitation by any civil service employé is outlawed.

The Democratic national committee solicitation letters are being sent to the homes of federal employés. They are signed by Oliver A. Quayle, acting treasurer of the committee, who is not a federal, much less a civil service, employé.

At the Jackson day dinner last winter tickets costing $100 a plate were sold to holders of the better paying federal jobs.

No lesser dinners of $25 and $10 a plate were held in the capital because all federal employés, together with those who hoped for favors from the administration, were solicited to purchase Democratic campaign books at $5 a copy, or $250 a copy for a special edition autographed by President Roosevelt.

SENTENCED ON GIRL'S CHARGE.

Benjamin Mustari, 17 years old, 216 West 33d street, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Oscar Caplan in Boys' court to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 14 year old girl and was sentenced to four months in the house of correction.

Dee Clark of Meeker, Colo., arrives in Chicago with his son Joe, 21 months old, who swallowed a safety pin almost two months ago. He was brought here for treatment.

Joe Clark, 21 months old, son of a Colorado cow puncher, was brought to the Illinois Research hospital yesterday for an operation to remove an open safety pin from the region of his right lung. The youngster swallowed the pin two months ago and has had difficulty in breathing. He was brought to Chicago by his father, Dee Clark of Meeker.

C. I. O. STRIKERS AT FOUNDRY TOLD TO GO ON RELIEF

The Chicago Hardware Foundry company in North Chicago may soon be helping to finance the strike of 450 employés called June 6 by the C. I. O. metal workers union. The company pays taxes, and taxes support the relief rolls.

Yesterday the Daily Strike, a bulletin published by the union, urged that all strikers unable to support themselves apply for relief. Union officials said fifty men have made application.

For the first time yesterday the picket line of 150 men stopped thirty foremen from entering the plant. Exhorting the strikers to this action were Meyer Adelman, portly C. I. O. organizer, and his aid, Oakley Mills, both under contempt sentences in the Fansteel strike.

Mrs. Beulah Hunt Isley, 311 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Philip J. Finnegan from Leslie Isley of Newton, son of County Judge Albert E. Isley of Jasper county. She charged desertion.

PRESIDENT SIGNS CIVIL AIR BOARD BILL, 68 OTHERS

Administrator and 5 Will Get $12,000 a Year.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 23.—[Special.] — The signature of President Roosevelt was scrawled to sixty-nine more measures today and his approval withheld from ten others. Since the adjournment of congress just a week ago, the President has signed approximately 200 bills and vetoed about fifty others. He has 200 more to wade through before June 27, when the ten day period expires in which acts, to become effective, must be signed by him.

The most important bill signed today was that creating a civil aeronautics authority to supervise and regulate all phases of civil aviation except air mail routes assigned by the postoffice department.

Control Formerly Divided.

Hitherto civil aviation has been partly controled by the bureau of air commerce of the department of commerce, by the postoffice department, and by the interstate commerce commission. The bureau of air commerce and the air mail bureau of the I. C. C. both will be absorbed in the new agency.

The postoffice department relinquishes its rights to fix rates of compensation for carrying of air mail and of its authority to determine the methods by which these rates are arrived at. These powers are vested in the new aeronautics authority along with the right to determine what rates the commercial air lines will charge for carrying passengers, express, or freight.

Must Obtain Certificates.

Instead of entering into contracts with the postoffice department—contracts which were temporary and subject to cancelation at any moment—the air line operators will obtain certificates of public convenience and necessity in order to continue to fly.

This was one of the points for which the air lines fought hardest. With these permanent franchises they hope to be able to obtain refinancing urgently needed by all the larger operators. Investors have refused to put money into aviation securities because of the insecure status of the companies in the past.

A five man board and an administrator, all appointed by the President and removable by him only for neglect, malfeasance in office, or incompetence, will head the authority. Salaries of each member and the administrator will be $12,000. Board members will have terms of six years. The administrator's will be one year.

Authority to Hear All Appeals.

This group will constitute a tribunal to which the air lines, aeronautical manufacturers, small commercial flying operators, and private flyers may appeal and present evidence without fear of recriminations by any other governmental agency.

In addition to the board proper the act creates a three man safety board which will function as a division of the new authority. One of the three members must be an active air line pilot at the time of his appointment. The President also picks these men. Their salaries are to be $7,500 a year.

Will Make Airport Survey.

The authority also is directed to make a survey of airports in the United States and report to congress at the next session its recommendations as to whether the government shall establish a national airport system.

According to well founded reports, Grant Mason, Havana manager of Pan-American Airways system, is slated to be the first chairman of the authority.

Another bill signed today is designed to speed up the promotion system in the navy so that more officers may be added to the nation's sea fighting force. During the next five years, the act will boost the number of naval officers from 6,531 to 8,249. The additional cost will be $300,000 the first year, rising to $2,500,000 yearly after the fifth year.

Eight Hour Day on Lakes.

Still another bill puts into effect the eight hour day for officers and seamen on Great Lakes tugs "except in case of an extraordinary emergency affecting the safety of the vessel and life or property."

Another measure authorizes the secretary of agriculture to lease state, county, or privately owned lands in the grazing areas, when, in his judgment, such action will aid in the conservation of forage resources.

Another bill contains the first general revision of the national bankruptcy law since 1898. The 50,000 word measure is designed to bring the law up to date and to meet present conditions.

Minor Bills Vetoed.

The President's vetoes were of bills of a minor nature. They dealt generally with claims for damages against the government.

Mr. Roosevelt left tonight for Washington where he will speak from the White House tomorrow night on a national radio hookup. He spent this morning framing this address which is expected to deal with the work of the recent congress and to discuss the pump priming program which got under way yesterday.

FORMER NURSE FREED BY JURY IN SLAYING OF MOTHER-IN-LAW

South Bend, Ind., June 23.—[Special.]—A Circuit court jury tonight decided that Mrs. Roberta Watters, 29 years old, was temporarily insane and therefore not guilty of murder in shooting to death her mother-in-law, Mrs. Martha Watters, 63 years old. The two women quarreled over custody of Roberta's children.

The jury deliberated an hour and three-quarters. After the verdict was read Mrs. Watters rushed to the jury box and mumbled her thanks.

Women in the courtroom sobbed as defense counsel made a dramatic appeal for his client. The state had demanded life imprisonment on a charge of second degree murder.

GOOD FELLOWS' DRIVE PLEDGED BY PHI KAPPA PSI

The national fraternity of Phi Kappa Psi, meeting yesterday in the Edgewater Beach hotel, adopted THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Good Fellow campaign as an activity for its chapters and alumni groups in 100 cities throughout the country. It is estimated that more than 10,000 boys and girls will be remembered by members of the fraternity with baskets of food, toys, and candy next Christmas morning.

A unanimous vote passed a resolution read by George K. Richmond, former president of the Chicago alumni of the fraternity and Phi Psi Good Fellow chairman, who pointed out that the original Mr. Good Fellow was the late Edward Churchill Fitch, a member of the Indiana university chapter at Bloomington.

In charge of the meeting were Leverett S. Lyon, national president, executive vice president of the Brookings institution in Washington, D. C., and C. F. Williams, national secretary of the fraternity, of Cleveland, O.

A SLEUTH TELLS HIS STORY OF A COUPLE IN A CAR

Husband Falls Out, Into Divorce Court.

Attorney Walter A. Myer held aloft the dainty silk underthings for every one in the court of Judge Charles A. Williams to see.

"Are these the ones you found in Mr. Forrest Webb Holter's car?" he asked the witness, Harry Snyder, who is an investigator.

"Yes," said Snyder, "those are the very ones."

Then Snyder told how he happened to make such a find in Mr. Holter's automobile. He had been engaged, he said, by Mrs. Brenda Holter, 31 years old, of 300 South Brainard avenue, La Grange, to follow and observe her husband who, her divorce bill charges, has been staying away from home days at a time during the last few years.

Wife Helps Him Sleuth.

Learning that Holter's car was parked near Oakley avenue and Howard street, Snyder and his wife, Mabel, who helps him sleuth, waited and saw Holter and a pretty young woman come out of a house nearby. The young woman was Jane Doe, it seems.

"The two of them then drove to a night spot on Howard street," Snyder continued. "They stopped the car, but didn't get right out. They kissed and kissed. Jane ran her fingers through Mr. Holter's hair. Finally they went in, but came out very shortly.

"Then they drove to another place down the street and kissed some more. They eventually went in and stayed quite a while. Mrs. Snyder went in and saw them drinking whisky. After they got back in the car they made love again, then drove over to Sheridan road and turned south to Balmoral street, parking just off Broadway."

Parked for Time.

Here Snyder paused as if to collect his thoughts, then went on:

"Mrs. Snyder and I parked behind them. After a long time I walked past their car to see what was going on."

"Was something going on?" asked Myer.

"It certainly was," said Snyder.

"And then?"

"And then I saw a squad car and ducked back to my own auto. Policemen got out and approached Holter's car from both sides. One of them opened the left hand door and those things you just showed me fell out. Then the other one opened the right hand door and Mr. Holter fell out."

Judge Grants Divorce.

At this point Attorney Myer read into the record that on the following morning Judge Eugene Holland fined Holter $200 and Jane Doe $2.

Judge Williams granted Mrs. Holter a divorce, custody of two children, Ann, 11 years old, and Richard, 9 years old, awarded her $35 a week permanent alimony, and ordered the husband to pay $300 he is in arrears on support payments.

Besides being in arrears, Mr. Holter yesterday refused to post $1,500 bond in a ne exeat action his wife brought in April. So there he is, in jail.

Scarlett and Rhett

CLARK GABLE.

Hollywood, Cal., June 23.—[Special.]—Months of rumors and counter-rumors concerning the production of Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind" as a motion picture were climaxed today with the announcement that Clark Gable and Norma Shearer will play the leading rôles, Rhett Butler and Scarlett O'Hara, respectively.

At the Selznick International studios it was disclosed that David G. Selznick will produce the film for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

It is the plan of Selznick to start work on "Gone With the Wind" shortly before Christmas. Practically every actor and actress has been considered at one time or another for the leading characters.

Prior to the announcement linking Gable and Miss Shearer with the picture, three supporting characters had been definitly selected. They are Walter Connolly, as Gerald O'Hara, father of Scarlett; Maurice Murphy, as Charles Hamilton, Scarlett's first husband, and Margaret Tallichet, Selznick's "find," as Carreen, Scarlett's sister.

George Cukor will be the director.

LEHMAN SCORES ROOSEVELT PLAN OF U. S. SPENDING

N. Y. Governor Calls for Relief Roll Purge.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., June 23.—[Special.]—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in a speech here tonight—his first since he announced his candidacy for the seat of the late Royal S. Copeland in the United States senate—criticized the Roosevelt spending program and called for a purge of state relief rolls. He spoke at the annual conference of the New York state public welfare officials' convention.

The governor, a former close political ally and personal friend of President Roosevelt, with whom he split on the court packing bill, by inference took issue with the Roosevelt spending program by declaring he was "not unmindful of the fact that the distribution of public money can destroy individual independence and group relationships."

Calls for Scrutiny of Rolls.

"There undoubtedly are persons now in receipt of public assistance who are not entitled to it," he said.

"However few there be, it is our duty to see to it that the relief rolls of the communities are valid and that the rights of the taxpayer and the local and state corporate bodies are secure and protected.

"With the decline in public income and the continued need for the use of vast sums of money for carrying forward our social program you and I and all associated have on our shoulders the prime responsibility for a well rounded program based on common sense expenditures.

Issues Warning on Cost.

"In providing against undue suffering on the part of our fellow citizens we must constantly be on our guard to guarantee that our operations, while governed by human considerations, are definitly related to economic practices.

"We must ever be on our guard against the deflection of individual and family resources, whether they be financial or otherwise. We should also seize every opportunity to develop new resources for our people."

Ex-Convict Is Captured by Bartender After Holdup

Robbed of $14 by an armed bandit yesterday, Frank Cernivivo, bartender in a tavern at 2359 Wentworth avenue, picked up his brother, Bruno, and drove around the block. At 23d and La Salle streets, Frank saw the thief, leaped from the car, tackled the robber, and held him until the police arrived. Finger prints identified the prisoner as Dell Follis, an ex-convict twice paroled.

TELEVISION RECORDS GIRL'S DEATH PLUNGE FROM SKYSCRAPER

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—A girl's plunge to death from a Rockefeller center skyscraper was picked up today and recorded by a mobile television transmitter making street shots.

The unprecedented scene was recorded without warning on a screen in a laboratory at the National Broadcasting company studios, where technicians were giving the machine a preliminary test. The apparatus' output was not on the air, being transmitted to the studios by cable.

By chance the television camera was pointed toward the 33 story Time and Life building just as Miss Marian Perloff, 24 years old, plunged from an eleventh story window. The set recorded clear images of a crowd rushing to the place where the body struck the street.

Miss Perloff was a clerical worker in the Girl Scout headquarters. Most of the staf members with whom she worked were away on an office picnic and apparently no one in her office saw her fall.

VIGILANTES HUNT A FIREBUG; FIND HE'S ONE OF THEM

A year ago there was a small fire, which burned an apartment porch, at 6743 South Wood street. Residents of the neighborhood paid little attention until two months later.

Then in the space of a few days, several other fires broke out in the early morning hours in the same district. Firemen reported that they seemed to be the work of a pyromaniac, and the neighborhood became aroused.

The Vigilantes Organize.

All of the fires were found in the neighborhood bounded by 67 and 69th streets and Ashland and Damen avenues. Early this year, as the fire bug continued his crimes, the residents formed vigilante committees.

These committees alternated in patroling the district after midnight, working in close coöperation with Policeman George Lenzi of the Chicago Lawn station, who had been assigned to catch the arsonist. On one of the committees was Edward Ronjak, 21 years old, of 6754 South Honoré street, who works as a coal passer for a railroad.

Ronjak took his turn with the other young men, walking up and down the dark alleys, shooting their flashlights under back stairs, in the passageways between flat buildings, and everywhere a firebug might lurk to set his match.

Jest Traps Firebug.

Last Saturday Daniel Pignato, 6723 South Honoré street, one of the vigilantes, suggested in a joking manner that maybe Ronjak was the pyromaniac. Ronjak's face grew pale, then flushed. Nervously he protested the joke. But he protested too much.

Pignato became suspicious. He and the others waited until Ronjak went home early Sunday morning. Then they called Policeman Lenzi. In a few minutes Ronjak hurried out of his home with some newspapers.

They followed him. In a rubbish heap next to a garage at 1839 West Marquette road he laid some of the papers and set them afire. He did the same thing to a garage at 1847 West Marquette. Then Policeman Lenzi seized him.

Admits Setting Nine Fires.

Yesterday Ronjak made a confession to Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan. He admitted setting nine fires, but only in rubbish heaps or beside garages. Ronjak denied setting 15 others which damaged flat buildings, but Coghlan said he was convinced Ronjak set them all.

Ronjak was booked on charges of arson for the two Marquette road garage fires and will be arraigned in Felony court today.

"On my day off," confessed the coal passer, "I drink wine. It sets me on fire inside. Then I want to make fire. I try to go home, but some uncontrolable power won't let me sleep until I have touched off a fire and seen the bright flames. Then I can sleep."

Evangelical and Reformed Church Merger Approved

Columbus, O., June 23.—(AP)—Merger of the Evangelical and Reformed church in 1940 was approved late today at the biennial meeting of the general synod here. Only six of the 305 registered delegates opposed consummation of the unification voted at Cleveland in 1934.

Firebug Trapped

(Story in adjoining column.)

Edward Ronjak, who served with vigilante committees hunting firebug on south side after several fires. Jokingly accused of being the firebug, his actions aroused his companions. He was watched and caught setting fires.

FOREST PARK LAD IS ELECTED BOYS' STATE GOVERNOR

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—More than 1,400 members of the Boys' State engaged in a spirited election here today chose Robert Clement of Forest Park as governor.

Clement had enough Cook county support to win over his downstate opponent, Mike Milich of Kewanee, in the state-wide election for leader of the Boys' State, an organization of boys of high school age sponsored by the American Legion for the purpose of teaching practical civics.

Other officers elected were: For lieutenant governor, Robert Short, Watseka; state auditor, Edward Ashley Miller; attorney general, Albert Miller, Peoria; treasurer, Roy D. Moore, Niles Center, and clerk of the Supreme court, William D. White, Aurora.

ON JOB 69 YEARS; AT 87, HE LOOKS BACK LONGINGLY

Evansville, Ind., June 23.—[Special.]—The country had lots to talk about the day Charles Patrick went to work on his new job. There were the purchase of Alaska, the Reconstruction bill, the impeachment of President Johnson, and the fourteenth amendment [guaranteeing equal citizenship rights to persons of all races born or naturalized in the United States]. The year was 1867.

But Charley, just turned seventeen, had no time for those things. He was starting out on his career. It was a fine day and he was on his way to the building where he was to work steadily for sixty-nine years.

Today Charley is 87 years old and has just been retired from his job as inspector in the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad freight office here.

He now has lots of time on his hands. He can spend hour after hour reading newspapers about what's going on in Washington, who might lick the heavyweight champion, and the latest news from all over the world.

SALARY DISPUTE STOPS 'BIGGEST SHOW ON EARTH'

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 23.—[Special.]—A wage dispute kept the "biggest show on earth" from going on today under the big top of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus. A strike of employés forced cancellation of last night's performance and today's two performances here. One hundred performers decided to accept a 25 per cent wage reduction which John Ringling North, head of the circus, said was necessary to keep the show going. But canvas men, truck drivers, and various other laborers continued their strike against the pay cut. State and federal mediators are seeking to end the strike.

BRITISH SOCIETY HAILS WINDSOR AND WIFE; ASK THEIR RETURN

LONDON, June 23.—(AP)—A plea for the return to Britain of the duke and duchess of Windsor was voiced tonight at a dinner of the "Society of the Octavians," which met to celebrate the 44th birthday of the former king, Edward VIII. of England.

Cheers greeted reading of a telegram which said: "Thank you for tonight's dinner and good wishes, which we much appreciate. Signed, Edward."

The Octavian society, sworn to uphold the honor of the former monarch, was formed by Windsor's admirers shortly after his abdication on Dec. 12, 1936. Compton MacKenzie, British author and chief speaker at the dinner, denied any desire to "embarrass their present majesties," but declared amid cheers that those present "all agreed in love, devotion, and loyalty to our former king." He criticized "this dastardly, dirty denigration [of Windsor] that has gone on for all these months."

HUNT McCORMICK YOUTH, LOST ON MOUNTAIN HIKE

Albuquerque, N. M., June 23.—(AP)—Medill McCormick, 21 years old, was the object of an intensive search tonight in the rugged Sandia mountains, ten miles east of Albuquerque.

The youth, son of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, left home with a companion yesterday on a hike. He has not been heard from since, his step-father, Albert G. Simms, said.

With young McCormick was Richard Whitmer, son of the late T. E. Whitmer, Albuquerque lumberman.

Simms expressed no concern over the youths' safety but said that enrollees in nearby CCC camps had been called to aid in the search. State police and sherif deputies led the hunt.

Mrs. Simms, former congresswoman from Illinois, sponsors a girls' private school here. The late Senator Medill McCormick of Chicago was the youth's father.

Find Boy Lost Four Days.

Rowe, N. M., June 23.—(AP)—Naked, hungry, but unharmed, Timoteo Griego, 4 years old, howled for his mother today as searchers found him wandering in the rugged, brush covered Glorietta mountain country after being lost four days. A posse of 100 men had virtually given up hope of finding him alive. He suffered no ill effects except a few scratches and sunburn. He shed his clothing shortly after the start of his travels.

JAPAN TIGHTENS BELT AGAIN TO MEET WAR NEEDS

Restricts Imports, Use of Raw Materials.

TOKIO, June 23.—(AP)—The Japanese government announced today further tightening of the nation's economic belt to meet the needs of the undeclared war with China.

The retrenchment program is expected to be put into operation on July 15 by placing in effect the economic clauses of the national mobilization law. This law, passed by parliament on March 26, places the life and property of the lowliest citizen as well as the greatest corporation in government hands during "time of war or national emergency."

"Mobilization of Materials."

The government already has invoked eleven of the thirty sections of the measure requiring police registration of all adults and empowering examination of reports of any business.

The new program, called "mobilization of materials," was announced as "giving priority to the supply of arms, ammunition and export materials."

The government's announcement, declaring "the ultimate end of the current incident [the Chinese-Japanese war] still is very distant," said the inevitability of protracted warfare necessitated further economic control.

Urge Use of Synthetic Products.

Included in the program were:

CONSUMPTION—Restricted use of metals, chemicals, oil, gasoline, rubber, cotton, wool, linen, lether, and lumber, and more intensive use of synthetic materials.

FOREIGN TRADE—Further curtailment of imports, except war supplies and material necessary for manufacturing exports, and reconstruction of export trade. [The import control law will be relaxed to allow importation of raw materials to be made into exportable articles.]

PRICES AND MONEY—Control of commodity prices to halt the current upward trend and promotion of thrift among the people by which an estimated $2,320,000,000 would be saved in 1938.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 23.—"Nothing more will be sold to Jews." These words on red posters appeared in shop windows in Berliner Allee in the Weissensee district today, inaugurating a system used by Nazis in small German towns to compel Jews to get out.

One of the posters was glued in a window of a drug store. The owner said that when the sign was put up he asked the police what he should do if a Jew sought to buy medicine. He said he was told to obey the law ordering chemists to sell to all customers.

A new decree issued by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler provides that state employés and officials of annexed Austria may, under exceptional circumstances, be allowed to remain at their posts if they were married to a Jewess or half Jewess. One prominent Nazi who discovered his wife was Jewish was allowed to keep his job after his friends convinced Hitler of his family's devotion to the Nazi cause.

Wedding Planned

Princess Fawzia.

Crown Prince Mohammed Riza Pahlevi of Iran.

When a marriage contract is signed next fall uniting these two young people the kingdom of Iran will be linked to Egypt through royal ties.

TEHERAN, Iran [Persia], June 23.—(AP)—Premier Mahmud Jam disclosed today the marriage contract between Crown Prince Mohammed Riza Pahlevi, heir of the shah of Iran, and brown eyed Princess Fawzia, sister of King Farouk of Egypt, would be signed next September in Cairo. Riza is 19 years old, and Fawzia is 16.

This will be two years earlier than had been expected. Under eastern custom, however, the young lovers' wedded life is expected not to begin until 1939. Usage demands that the bride wait one year after the signing of the contract before her wedding.

The romance linking the fabled peacock throne of Iran with Farouk's land of the Pharoahs began in Switzerland when Riza and Fawzia were vacationing in fashionable Montreux.

Yangtze River Rise Perils Japs' Hankow Drive.

SHANGHAI, June 24 [Friday].—(AP)—Chinese armies wading knee deep through Yellow river flood waters were reported today to have recaptured two cities from which major Japanese forces had been compelled to retreat.

Three hundred miles to the south floods in the Yangtze river basin, heightened by unfavorable weather, combined with stubborn Chinese resistance to hinder the Japanese land and naval drive up the river toward Hankow, Chinese provisional capital.

Thus floods, age-long despair of the Chinese people, became their chief ally in defense against Tokio's two main thrusts.

The comparatively light Chinese units, operating effectively through mud and water, used the devastating Yellow river flood to great advantage, whereas the highly mechanized Japanese armies in inundated Honan province could not advance over fields and highways thick with mud.

3,000 Civilians Marooned.

The Chinese reported they had recaptured large areas east and south of Chengchow, junction of the strategic east-west Lunghai railroad and the North-South Peking-Hankow line, scene of intense Japanese activity for many weeks. The defenders said they recaptured Chungmow, on the Lunghai, twenty-five miles east of Chengchow, and Hushih, thirty miles south of Chungmow.

Meanwhile, the flood brought its usual tragedy to the Chinese. Hankow received reports that 3,000 Chinese refugees still were marooned at Shawo, northwest of Chungmow, "with the bark of trees and grass in the fields their only means of subsistence." In Chengchow there were said to be 120,000 flood refugees and 20,000 in Chungmow. Hankow investigators reported crops were destroyed over a wide area.

Navigation Hazardous.

At Hankow a government spokesman said the Chinese were confident that rapidly rising Yangtze waters before long would provide an impassable barrier for the Japanese.

Above Kiukiang, 135 miles downstream from Hankow, the water already is flooding both sides of the river, the Chinese reported. If the waters continue to rise, they pointed out, navigation in the mine-strewn river will be extremely hazardous, if not impossible.

Heavy fighting was reported near Tikang, on the south bank of the Yangtze 300 miles east of Hankow. At Tikang, Chinese reports said, the invaders landed additional land forces in an effort to clear Chinese troops from surrounding hills.

Swatow Bombed Again.

SWATOW, China, June 23.—(AP)—Japanese seaplanes which flew low over the United States gunboat Asheville and British destroyer Dainty in the harbor today twice raided this South China seaport.

Continuing air attacks begun yesterday Japanese warplanes heavily bombed the railway station, on which direct hits were scored. Water mains were shattered in other parts of the city but loss of life was believed small. A panicky civilian exodus from Swatow was under way, most of the city's 200,000 inhabitants seeking safety inland.

DIES WORKING ON BRIDGE.

AMERICAN NAVY CHIEF IN CHINA LEAVES FOR YANGTZE RIVER TOUR

SHANGHAI, June 23.—(AP)—Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, sailed today on the 710 ton naval yacht Isabel for an inspection voyage on the lower Yangtze river, which is now under Japanese domination.

Much interest attached to the admiral's voyage because of recent insistence of foreign authorities that the lower river be reopened to navigation, now prohibited by the Japanese. The Japanese are using the Yangtze as the main avenue of their drive on Hankow, China's provisional capital.

Admiral Yarnell's announced destination was Nanking, former Chinese capital, below the "danger zone"—Wuhu to Kiukiang—from which Japanese on June 11 urged foreign nations to withdraw all vessels. Admiral Yarnell informed the Japanese that American vessels would go or remain anywhere on the river necessary to carry out their mission of protecting American citizens.

NAME 'DICTATOR' FOR BRITISH AIR RAID PRECAUTION

LONDON, June 23.—(AP)—The British government today announced appointment of a "dictator" for air raid precautions and he was confronted immediately with charges that society women had been given too much prominence in this work.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain informed the house of commons that Geoffrey Lloyd, undersecretary of home affairs, would devote his whole time to air raid precautions, involving training of civilians to meet wartime attacks from the skies.

Lloyd was attacked on the grounds that society women had been put in charge of the women's voluntary staf of air raid precautions workers. He refused to reply when Ellen Wilkinson, a Laborite, asked: "Does he [Lloyd] really think a matter of this importance to the women of this country should be put in the hands of fashionable society ladies and young debutantes?"

BRITAIN DEMANDS FRANCO EXPLAIN SHIP BOMBINGS

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—The British agent in rebel Spain was ordered to ask Gen. Francisco Franco's insurgent régime for a full explanation of the recurrent air bombing attacks on British shipping in the Mediterranean, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain informed the house of commons tonight.

Chamberlain spoke in a tumultuous session in which Liberal and Labor criticism was heaped upon the government for failure to halt the bombings, the latest of which resulted yesterday in sinking two British freighters. Sir Robert Hodgson, British agent in rebel territory, was told to make his request to Burgos, seat of the rebel régime, and return to London as soon as he has a reply, the prime minister said.

Then the government will consider, in consultation with Hodgson, the situation resulting from the terms of the answer, the house was told.

Says Bombings Will Stop.

This announcement indicated apparently some change in Chamberlain's policy as a result of the Labor and Liberal challenges to his government, and the challenge to take action which arises from the fact that planes in the service of the Spanish rebels continue boldly to bomb British ships.

Chamberlain asserted the bombings in the Mediterranean would stop. He refused, however, to depart from his stand that a British ship which goes into a Spanish port does so at its own risk. In reply to a question by Maj. C. R. Attlee, Labor leader, Chamberlain asserted that British merchant ships will not be armed. Attlee maintained the bombed British ships were engaged in legitimate trade.

"There is no secret that these attacks come from the Balearic Islands," he said. "These islands are at the British fleet's mercy. They can be blockaded and their airdrome attacked."

When David Lloyd George, wartime prime minister, agreed with Attlee, Chamberlin said: "Lloyd George is ready to plunge this country into war. I am not going to take that risk."

Charges Premier Backs Franco.

The debate led to discussion of whether British action to stop the bombings of British ships in Spanish ports by German and Italian airplanes in the service of the rebels would lead to a general European war. Attlee said Britain could be firm with Franco, Premier Mussolini, and the Germans without danger of a general war.

Attlee charged, however, that Chamberlain was backing Gen. Franco to win in Spain and was sacrificing British interests to make his own policies stand up.

Chamberlain spoke for about forty minutes and seemed considerably rattled and shaken by the attacks made on him. Opposition members created a din, shouting "Resign!" and "Get out!"

The session generally was one of the most disorderly of recent weeks. Three men were escorted from the gallery when they shook their fists and shouted. "Chamberlain encourages Franco to murder British seamen."

SPANISH LOYALISTS HALT REBEL DRIVE AGAINST VALENCIA

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], June 23.—(AP)—Spanish government dispatches said tonight the insurgent offensive against Valencia, former provisional capital, had been broken. The loyalists reported that on both wings of the front in eastern Spain below Castellon de la Plana and Teruel government defenses withstood insurgent assaults.

The front became stabilized after the insurgent capture of Onda, thirty-five miles north of Valencia. From the coast the line ran inland forty-six miles from a point below Castellon de la Plana to Mora de Rubielos and thence eight miles south to Sarrion.

In Cordoba province, southern Spain, the insurgent campaign in the Penarroya sector slowed to a halt in a blistering heat wave.

COARSE BREAD BEST FOR MANLY VIGOR, DUCE SAYS

MILAN, Italy, June 23.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's Popolo D'Italia answered Italians' complaints over coarse bread today with the assertion it was better for health and manly vigor.

The new bread made—by government order—with flour containing 20 per cent corn flour or other substitutes because of Italy's diminished wheat crop and self sufficiency program was compared by the newspaper to bread the world conquering ancient Romans ate.

Not only is it more nourishing, the paper stated, but it produces greater energy for reproductive purposes and is therefore important to the welfare and destiny of the race.

WAY IS CLEARED FOR LARGE BOOST IN WPA WORKERS

Order Uniform Standards of Employment.

BY WILL O'NEIL.

The way was cleared yesterday for a large increase in WPA employment in Illinois when the Illinois Emergency Relief commission [IERC] sent notices to relief administrators that the requirements for eligibility to WPA jobs are to be loosened immediately. Under the new system a standard basis of eligibility is to be established throughout the state.

At present there are 1,454 relief administrators, most of them township supervisors. The amount of relief per family per month varies from township to township, even within the same county. In nearly all townships the amount given has been far below that granted in Chicago.

Worked Many Hardships.

Under the present system a man must be eligible for direct relief in his own community before he can be declared eligible for WPA. It works this way:

John Smith has a wife and three children. He has an income from some source of $10 a month. His township does not have much money and allows only $10 a month for a family of five persons. Thus Smith, because of his income, is not eligible for direct relief and cannot be declared eligible for a WPA job.

In a nearby township John Jones also has an income of $10 a month and four people dependent on him. But Jones' township allows $30 a month for a family of five. Thus Jones may get direct relief and be made eligible for a WPA job.

WPA officials objected to the wide variation in standards of eligibility for WPA. They insisted that the IERC establish the same standard throughout the state. So IERC set up what is known as a budget method of determining need. This will be used for determining eligibility for WPA, but local administrators will continue to give direct relief on the basis of their individual standards. Here is the way the new system will work:

Smith, once held ineligible for work because of an income of $10 a month, will apply to the IERC or to his local administrator for approval as a WPA eligible. Local administrators will use the IERC standard for determining his eligibility for WPA.

Approximates Needs Closer.

Under this standard Smith's needs would be placed at about $72 a month, depending on the ages of his children, the rent in his locality, and various special needs that his family may have. Smith's sample budget for a month would be figured on the basis of $36.40 for food, $9.30 for clothing, $4 for gas and electricity, $2.40 for household necessities, $8 for medical care, and $2 for union dues. Obviously both Smith and Jones—and every one else that has been in Smith's position—are now eligible for WPA jobs.

Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the IERC, said that he could not estimate the number of persons who will be affected by the new method. Other sources said that there may be 100,000 John Smiths in the state.

Charles E. Miner, state WPA director, said the number of jobs available will depend on the number of WPA projects sponsored by local governmental units. He said that no limit on the number of jobs had been set.

CHILDREN TOSS DICE FOR BIBLE IN BRITISH CHURCH

[Chicago Tribune-Press Service.]

LONDON, June 23.—The centuries-old custom of throwing dice for Bibles was observed at St. Ives, Huntingdon, when the three children belonging to the Church of England and three Nonconformists each won a Testament. The dice tossing ceremony takes place on Whit Tuesday each year in accordance with the will of Dr. Robert Wilde of Oundle. The will is dated 1688. This year twelve children took part. Four boys and two girls were successful.

HORNER AGREES TO ADD $400,000 A MONTH RELIEF

ministration, and advanced to third reading, or the passage stage, for tomorrow's calendar. It is aimed particularly at occupations that have been exempted from the sales tax by a Supreme court decision holding that their sales were of services and not of materials. These occupations were job printers, electrotypers, special tool and die makers, and photographers.

Revenue Estimates Given.

Mel Adams, assistant state director of finance, estimated that the producer tax will yield $750,000 a year revenue. In addition, he said, this proposed law will prevent other occupations which take orders subject to personal specifications from escaping a 3 per cent levy on their business on the same grounds sustained by the courts for the printers. These occupations include custom tailors and shoemakers.

A substitute user tax bill was introduced tonight to take the place of a similar senate measure which had been tabled. It is a 3 per cent excise on purchases from outside Illinois of personal property used in occupations within Illinois. Property affected in considerable quantities includes motor trucks, building materials, and machinery.

Adams estimated that the user tax will produce $3,000,000 a year in revenue. He said that it will also protect home industries and might increase Illinois business 50 to 70 million dollars a year by halting purchases from outside the state to escape the sales tax.

Expect Senate Opposition.

Although these new revenue producers have been advanced in the house, they are expected to have tough sledding in the senate.

Gov. Horner's finance department is counting on these imposts to plug the hole in the treasury left by appropriation of $4,500,000 for relief by the first special several weeks ago. Should they pass, it would mean the only money the administration actually is giving up for relief would be the $2,800,000 expected to be appropriated by the second special session.

Bills to provide a new method for calling a constitutional convention were advanced to second reading in the house tonight over the objection of Minority Leader Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago]. They were discharged from further consideration by the judiciary committee.

"These measures provide a method unknown in this state whereby a cross in a party circle on the big ballot may constitute a vote for a constitutional convention," Schnackenberg said. "I move we adjourn right now." His motion was defeated, 66 to 31.

Under the bills the state convention of any political party may adopt a resolution calling for a constitutional convention, which is to be submitted to voters. In the past the proposition has been submitted on separate little ballots, instead of on the main ballot, as the bills provide.

More Opposition Foreseen.

The constitutional convention proposal, like some of the other measures, is expected to encounter stiff opposition in the senate, where Republican Leader Earl B. Searcy of Springfield expressed doubt that it would be approved.

From now on the legislature will work in two sessions, for some of the items in the Democratic compromise can be considered only in the first and others in the second. Observers believe it will require expert juggling and gavel wielding to obtain passage of all or even a substantial part of the program by next Thursday.

The driver's license bill, now pending in the house, seems to be destined to be the major accomplishment of the first special session.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In Wednesday's TRIBUNE it was incorrectly stated that Walter Jasiczak operates a tavern at 2149 North Leavitt street. The tavern is at 2149 Thomas street.

It was reported June 17 that a motion picture "Styles and Smiles," being made by a group of 700 Chicago models, will be produced by the Chicago Film Laboratory, Inc., 18 West Walton place. The laboratory will not produce the film, according to A. G. Dunlap, general manager.

O. K. 556 MORE PWA PROJECTS; ALLOT 61 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., June 23.—[Special.]—The Public Works administration made allotments on 556 additional projects today as it swung into the second day of President Roosevelt's new spending-lending program. The administration made grants totaling $57,836,346, and loans totaling $3,497,000, a total of $61,333,346.

The PWA yesterday announced the approval of $66,893,128 in grants and $10,821,500 in loans on 509 projects. The 1,065 projects carry an estimated construction cost of $279,098,849.

In announcing the day's allotments, PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes urged that a permanent PWA be established to pull in the slack and produce employment at the first sign of business depressions. He also warned cities to get applications in for PWA projects promptly if they want loans.

BODY OF MISSING ARTIST FOUND IN LAKE MICHIGAN

The body of J. Scott Sheffer, 26 years old, was recovered from the lake yesterday off Belmont avenue, a little more than a mile from the spot where his boat, the Scot Dot, an 18 foot sloop, was found drifting Sunday night. He was last seen in Belmont harbor Sunday afternoon, June 12, painting the boat's deck.

Sheffer, who was a commercial artist, lived at 61 Cedar street. His wife, Dorothy, and their infant son were at Dubuque, Ia., visiting her parents at the time of Sheffer's disappearance. She returned briefly to Chicago, but had gone back to Dubuque and was notified there that the body had been found. Sheffer's father, Glenn Sheffer, a portrait painter who lives at 815 Rush street, said last night that his son was considered an excellent swimmer.

Police and Firemen Turn Out; Fire's in Furnace

Des Plaines street police and a fire company turned out yesterday to fight a blaze which sent clouds tof smoke pouring from a basement window of the police station. But the only fire they found was in the station furnace. A new janitor had started to burn rubbish and neglected to open the furnace damper.

POLICE BRING A WATER POLO CLUB TO EARTH

Find Members Tanked Up and Paddling High.

The "club" met in a large water tank owned by the Belt Railway company. To reach the meeting place it was necessary to climb a ladder to the top of the 30 foot structure, which is on railroad property near Grand and Kilpatrick avenues, and then go down through a small trap door into the semi-gloom of the tank, which is 25 feet in diameter.

When Policemen John Dawson and Joseph Foster got there shortly after noon yesterday, following complaints from neighbors of mysterious noises, the former climbed to the top of the tank and peered inside. He could see four white figures but little else.

"What," he demanded, "are you doing?"

At the station the others identified themselves as Irving Jorgensen, 15, of 4840 Homer avenue; John Piff, 13, of 1929 North Cicero avenue, and Leonard Warwick, 16, of 4825 Armitage avenue. They agreed, reluctantly, that they would confine their swimming to the lake hereafter.

They said one of them discovered the tank about three weeks ago and recognized its possibilities.

Discarding their clothes on planks laid across the beams, about five feet below the ceiling, they would dive into the water below, climbing back up by means of ropes tied to the rafters or the ladder running down one side of the tank. When a train came they would scramble up on the planks for safety. Trains often stopped for water, they said, and they didn't like the feel of their swimming hole draining away beneath them.

"Shucks," said Irving moodily, after the police had delivered their ultimatum, "now we gotta give back all our dues. We used to fine each other 10 cents for being slow getting out when a train came and ten cents for spitting. And we had about a buck and a quarter to buy water polo balls."

BUND HEAD LINKS JEWS WITH REDS AS U. S. ENEMIES

Defends Purposes of His Organization at Quiz.

New York, June 23.—(AP)—Jews were coupled with communists today by Fritz Kuhn, fuehrer of the German-American bund, who asserted that the two groups sought to destroy the constitution and that all Jews, without exception, are enemies of the United States.

Kuhn made his charge before the joint legislative committee on law enforcement which is investigating alleged Nazi activities. The bund is an organization of German-Americans.

"When a mosquito lights on your arm, you don't ask whether he is good or bad, you brush him away," Kuhn said when he was reminded by Senator John J. McNaboe, committee chairman, that many of the upstanding citizens of America are Jewish.

Hopes to See Nazi Salute.

Kuhn said that all Jews are Jews first, before they are Americans, and added his associates want the same rights in America as the Jews. He said he hoped to see the day when every one in this country would give the open hand salute, his description of the Nazi salute, which Kuhn said originated at the Olympic games.

The bund leader asserted that both major political parties in the United States are controled by Jews. He told the committee the Republican party is controled by the house of Warburg, the Democratic party by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and that both banking houses are under the domination of the house of Rothschild.

Accuses Jews of Attack.

"We are not attacking the Jews," Kuhn insisted in his testimony. "They are attacking us. Why don't they leave us alone?" He contended he is not forming a German group in the bund, but an American group.

Kuhn said he does not care about the Jewish religion, that it is the Jewish race with which he is concerned, through his organization.

"We are 18,000,000 Germans in this country," he said, "and the Jews are only 3 per cent."

Asked whether his organization is part of a Nazi international, Kuhn said, "There isn't any to my knowledge."

BOATING DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

The death of Robert Heskett, 19 years old, of Davenport, Ia., who was drowned Monday when the sailboat in which he, three other youths, and a girl were riding overturned in an artificial lake near Barrington, was termed an accident by a coroner's jury yesterday.

LAKE FOREST GIRL INJURED IN FALL; DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mary Martha Yonce, 6 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley L. Yonce of Lake Forest, died in the Alice Home hospital yesterday while under an anesthetic for treatment of a deep gash in her wrist. Dr. John L. Taylor, coroner of Lake county, said an enlarged thymus [a gland in the lower part of the throat] was the cause of death.

The child suffered the wrist injury when she jumped off a swing and fell on the bicycle of her brother, Samuel, 7 years old, in the yard of their home at 955 Melody road. She was taken immediately to the hospital.

Yonce is Chicago representative of a New York banking company. He and his wife will take the body of their daughter to Pittsburgh, Pa., for burial.

Widow and Children Get $12,000 for Zeppelin Death

Attorneys for the operators of the German zeppelin, Hindenburg, announced yesterday in county court a settlement of $12,000 to the widow and four children of Burtis J. Dolan, 734 Kenesaw terrace. Dolan was killed when the huge zeppelin burst into flames while preparing to land May 6, 1937, at Lakehurst, N. Y.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

"But, Gracie," said Mr. Chichester-Jones, "it's the principle of the thing!"

He had her on the spot. Here it was, the end of June, and her fur coat still hanging in the closet. Mrs. Chichester-Jones murmured weakly that, of course, she'd meant to send her coat to storage. And that brought a fresh burst of rhetoric, a fresh cloud of smoke.

The man of the house pointed out with incontrovertible logic that she paid for storage by the season, like a summer cottage—not by the day, like a hotel. That here was her coat, hanging limp in a warm closet, inviting moths, when it might be in Field's Storage vaults.

"It's uneconomic," he said, puffing like a furnace. "Now, Gracie, call up Field's today. State 1000," he said—as if she didn't call that number three days out of six.

"My main reason for specifying Field's," he went on, "is Guardite, the positive method of destroying insect life. The government uses Guardite's costly, scientific equipment to protect its archives. But Field's is the only store in Chicago that has it. Every coat sent there automatically spends 90 minutes in their Guardite chamber—and not even an insect egg can survive."

Mrs. Chichester-Jones made a little squeak meaning Cold Storage, and he brushed her aside like a moth. "Of course Field's has it! Frigid Cold at that. You'd be surprised, my dear, if you knew how few storage vaults really do have the cold that is necessary for fur's life and luster. And Field's is utterly safe from fire or theft, of course. Gracie, send that coat today." She nodded meekly, knowing he was right. Knowing, too, that for Field's complete storage protection—Guardite—Frigid Cold—Safety—she'd pay the same as elsewhere—3% up to $400 valuation, 2% above. Silly to be so late in tending to it.

And when she sends her coat she should be sure to ask to have it Hollanderized, too. More than cleaning, more than glazing. A treatment that takes care of fur while it cleans. Originated by A. Hollander & Son, world's largest dressers and dyers of furs, to revitalize furs, restore linings' freshness. It costs no more than ordinary cleaning—and often even less.

Call State 1000 and ask for Fur Storage. Or leave your order in the Fur Salon, Sixth Floor the business men promised their fullest coöperation. Some of those who participated in the conferences declared that "preconceptions" on both sides were "upset."

Congressmen Seek Only Economic Facts.

Present at Conferences.

Present at the largest of these conferences, representing the administration were Thomas G. Corcoran, President Roosevelt's chief bill drafter and political strategist; Frank, the SEC commissioner; John Abt, senior trial counsel of the anti-trust division of the justice department; Richard Patterson, assistant secretary of commerce, and Henderson.

Also present were Harriman, William L. Batt, president of SKF Industries, Inc.; Don Nelson, vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; John Biggers, president of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company; Edward R. Stettinius, chairman of the United States Steel corporation; Marion Folson, vice president of the Eastman Kodak company; Dr. C. K. Leith of the University of Wisconsin, an authority on natural resources; A. D. Whiteside, president of Dun & Bradstreet; Clarence Francis, president of General Foods corporation; George Sloan, director of United States Steel and other corporations, and Blackwell Smith, former NRA counsel.

Borah Opposes Publicity.

Congressional members of the committee said they did not know when public hearings would begin, nor how many hearings would be conducted. These questions will not be decided until the inquiry gets under way, they said. Senator Borah said he saw no reason for public hearings at all; that the committee ought to confine its task to an investigation of records and reports based upon them. Senator Borah, long a foe of monopolies, opposed the investigation on the ground that sufficient facts were in hand for the framing of necessary legislation.

"I know that monopoly exists, and the country knows it exists," said Senator Borah. "What we ought to do is to legislate. You can draft a law against murder without investigating to find out how many murders are being committed."

Senator O'Mahoney, however, said an investigation to obtain all the facts available was desirable, and that public hearings might be a good thing to convince the public of the necessity for legislation. He dismissed as ridiculous Republican fears that the committee would be used to intimidate business for political purposes.

Senator King, the third member of the senate group, was not available for comment, but he would be one of the last men in congress to sanction a devil chasing expedition.

Actress Collapses

ISA MIRANDA.

Hollywood, Cal., June 23.—[Special.]—Isa Miranda, Italian actress, collapsed on a movie set last night, the result, studio officials said, of injuries received recently in an automobile accident. Work on the film will be suspended until Miss Miranda is replaced. She suffered a sprained back and slight concussion in the automobile accident.

NITRO BLAST KILLS 8 AT OIL WELLS; 4 OTHERS HURT

Hobbs, N. M., June 23.—(AP)—Eight men, including a prominent New Mexico financier, were killed and five others were injured seriously today in the premature explosion of a nitroglycerin time bomb with which a drilling crew was preparing to "shoot" an oil well near here.

The dead are George A. Kaseman, 65 years old, president of the Albuquerque, N. M., National Trust and Savings bank; H. A. Greer, gauger for the shooting crew; J. T. Broughton, a derrickman; Forest Huston, rigman; Charles Wrigley, rigman; Alex Blair, shoter's helper; Jack Starkey and V. B. Peck shooters.

Fred Luthey, Albuquerque, N. M., vice president of the Albuquerque National Trust and Savings bank, was among the injured.

As authorities reconstructed the accident, the blasting crew had just removed the nitro "bomb" from a truck on which it had been transported to the scene. As they carried the charge within 50 feet of the drilling rig, it exploded.

QUIZ ON JUDICIAL CAMPAIGN ASKED IN STATE SENATE

Charge State Pay Rollers Take Active Part.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—Echoing the charge made in Republican campaign speeches, a resolution introduced in the senate today demanded an investigation of activities of state pay rollers in the campaign for election of a justice of the Supreme court from the 3d district, composed of 16 counties in central Illinois.

However, the contest between Judge Joseph L. McLaughlin of Sullivan and his Republican opponent, Walter T. Gunn of Danville, will be decided Monday before the senate considers the resolution. Immediately after the resolution was submitted by Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, minority floor leader, Lieut. Gov. John Stelle gaveled adjournment until 8 p. m. Monday.

Ruling Bars Debate.

As angry murmers came from Gov. Henry Horner's adherents to the effect that Searcy's resolution was merely a campaign maneuver, Lieut. Gov. Stelle said that senate rules barred any debate on the matter until Monday.

The senate today advanced to second reading a bill providing that political subdivisions may not sell their bonds unless ten days' notice of the sale is published in three issues of newspapers having general circulation.

"Three days after the city of Belleville sold $475,000 worth of bonds, they could have been turned over at a profit of $59,000," said James O. Monroe [D., Collinsville]. "There were some intimations that aldermen had split the $59,000 and there was quite a mess."

A similar bill has reached passage stage in the house.

Campaigns in Home Town.

Sullivan, Ill., June 23.—[Special.]—Voters of Judge Joseph L. McLaughlin's home town were asked tonight to support the Democratic candidate for justice of the Supreme court in next Monday's election "not only because his election will do honor to this town and this county, but because he is the best qualified candidate for the position."

L. Page of Tuscola, former Douglas county state's attorney, was the principal speaker at a meeting tonight at the armory here.

INJUNCTION STAYS FIRING OF LEYDEN SCHOOL TEACHERS

Judge Walter T. Stanton issued an injunction yesterday restraining the Leyden Township High school board from taking any important school action pending settlement of the quo waranto suit challenging the membership of Joseph Didier.

The injunction, according to Attorney Andrew C. Hamilton, prohibits the board from replacing the two teachers — Lynn Watson, athletic coach, and Leland A. Meyer, commercial teacher—whom the board by a vote of 3 to 2 ordered discharged.

In the quo waranto suit Didier's right to hold two elective offices is attacked. He is secretary of the school board and a justice of the peace in the village. Didier voted with Mrs. Ada J. Dodge, president, and William Mueller against retaining the teachers despite protests.

SEEK TO IDENTIFY RAPIST SLAIN IN FLIGHT BY POLICE

Police yesterday sought the identity of a colored rapist who was shot to death early in the day by an alert village policeman after attacking a young white widow, mother of two children, in Riverdale. The woman was returning to her home when the Negro lunged at her from behind some shrubbery on the lawn of the home of Policeman Frank Stiemann at 13840 South Michigan avenue. Stiemann was on duty at the time.

Neighbors heard the woman's cries and summoned Assistant Police Chief Lester Brookfelt and Stiemann. With the lights of their police car turned off, they drove to the scene. As the Negro fled, Brookfelt jumped from the car, fired three warning shots, and when the rapist did not stop, shot an killed him. The Negro, about 25 years old, wore three pairs of trousers and three shirts.

PLANES TO LAND AT CITY AIRPORT ON RADIO BEAM

Complete Equipment by Middle of August.

By Aug. 15 Chicago airport will be equipped with a blind landing radio transmitter, it was disclosed here yesterday by John Casey, manager of the field. The airport will be one of four in the United States where such transmitters will be in operation for experimental flying this summer.

The equipment will be installed by the Bendix Radio corporation at the southeast corner of the field. Approaches thus will be made from the northwest down the diagonal runway which will be nearly 7,000 feet long when Chicago field finally is expanded to its full area of nearly 600 acres this fall and winter.

Will Practice for Months.

Adjustments to the transmitter will be completed within ten days after its ground installation is finished. Pilots of all the eight commercial airlines operating off Chicago airport then will be able to practice using the radio beams for landings, but for some months no planes carrying passengers will be landed in bad weather by means of the beams.

The Bendix Aviation corporation of Chicago perfected the equipment to be used here. The transmitter and receivers to be installed in airliners were finally approved by the bureau of air commerce after American Airlines, Transcontinental and Western Air, and United Air Lines had conducted experiments last fall at United's Oakland, Cal., base.

Two Directional Signals.

The new transmitter will send out two sets of signals on a frequency of 93,900 kilocycles. This is an ultra-high frequency and the signals are as directional as beams of light, although, of course, they are invisible to the eye.

One set of the signals will form a curved glide path along which a plane will descend to the airport. The other will be a directional beam leading the plane to the airport runway. When both sets of signals are followed a ship can be landed at an exact spot on the runway used for the instrument landings.

An incoming airplane will fly into the curved beam at 1,500 feet about five miles northwest of the airport. At the same time it will be receiving, through its special radio set, the signals of the directional radio beam.

Needles Tell Beam's Center.

By centering vertical and horizontal electrometer needles in an instrument in the cockpit a pilot will be able to make an exact landing without seeing the ground during the entire period of the approach and alighting.

The Bendix corporation already has in production the transmitters and receiving sets for the landing system. The first of these will be installed in ships of the companies that took part in the Oakland experiments.

Later the other five lines, Chicago and Southern Air Lines, Eastern Air Lines, Braniff Airways, Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, and Northwestern Airlines, also will obtain receivers.

Constant Service planned.

The transmitter will be housed in a small building at the corner of 63d street and Cicero avenue. At first it will be put into operation only upon request when test flights are being made. Ultimately it will be in constant operation just as the regular airways beams are in twenty-four operation now.

At this time Pittsburgh is the only other city where an instrument landing system is in operation. It is the Air Track system which is similar to the Bendix device, but operates on a different frequency. Bendix transmitters also will be installed soon at Oakland, Cal.; at Newark, N. J., and Cleveland, O.

Living Apart

Tom Brown and wife, the former Natalie Draper.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Tom Brown, wife of the youthful film actor, said today they were living apart, but denied the rift was serious. Mrs. Brown, the former Natalie Draper of Beverly Hills, returned to her mother's home two days ago. Brown declined to comment.

LEAPS TO DEATH IN RIVER.

7 FRENCH FLYERS DIE WHEN ARMY AIRPLANE FALLS

TOURS, France, June 23.—(AP)—Seven army flyers perished today in the crash of a twin motored military plane during a night training flight over central France. Bodies of five officers of the air general staf, a radio operator, and mechanic were found in the wreckage.

Farmers in the vicinity said the plane seemed to explode at low altitude and then fall in flames. Guy la Chambre, air minister, arrived by plane from Paris to investigate. The tragedy was the fifth for French military aviation in two months and raised the total of deaths to seventeen.

Three Planes Collide; Two Die.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 23.—(AP)—Two army aviators were killed today when three military airplanes collided over Prague during maneuvers. The pilot of the third plane saved himself with a parachute.

DESIGN PLANES OF 1943 TO FLY 100 PASSENGERS

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Conceptions of the transoceanic airliner of 1943, a craft which now is a dream ship, were made public here today by Pan American Airways system. All the sketches and drawings released by the company were submitted by four of the country's leading manufacturers at Pan American's invitation.

The manufacturers were asked to design a boat capable of carrying 100 passengers in luxurious accommodations for 5,000 miles nonstop at speeds up to 300 miles an hour. Three of the four chose to design flying boats. These were Boeing of Seattle, Sikorsky of Bridgeport, Conn., and Consolidated of San Diego. Donald Douglas of Santa Monica, Cal., designed a land plane to carry 75 persons 5,000 miles at 275 miles an hour.

While no definite information concerning the proposed designs was released, it was understood all the planes would weigh more than 200,000 pounds and would be powered by six engines. The motors would be housed in the wings.

Postal Officials Ordered to Discharge All Aliens

SKY WRITING

By CALEB

HIGH UP in a bright-blue summer sky a black speck zooms back and forth through the air, like a shuttle weaving a feathery white woof thread through the warp of some gigantic tapestry.

Streamers of smoke follow the speeding plane as its pilot moves across a strictly charted course. Letters form themselves lazily as though a young Gargantua amused himself with crayons against a celestial wall.

Thousands of feet below on downtown streets people grasp the brims of their hats and crane necks upward to spell out with patient anxiety, letter by letter, the characters in some advertising slogan.

On the street there is a brisk breeze that snatches at coats and whirls little eddies of dust against the sides of buildings. Up there where the sky writer rides, a lazy breeze pushes against the letters he has written. Gradually their edges fuzz and flatten, and at length the once clear letter joins the filmy clouds in a shapeless puff of smoke.

Before the sky writer has finished his tenth and final letter, the first two have waned and disappeared. Whatever impression he has made upon the people far below must stand—its recollection by beholders depending upon the importance of his message. It was there for a moment—was read and understood, forgotten immediately—or long remembered.

So each of us writes—individual, business, community, nation. To each is given a bit of smoke with which to write across the sky. In the brief span of our moment we pause to think, study and prepare the message we will display—and then some morning we take off, and for an instant have the world to ourselves to write what we will.

Before we have finished the last, the winds have blurred our first words. By the time we get back to earth all of them are completely gone. The message disappears, and only if we have said in it something worth-while, does the memory of it live.

It is high time to take thought about what we are writing in this brief moment that is ours.

BARBARA'S DAD FIGHTS TO SAVE HER MARRIAGE

Heiress Gets Warant for Count's Arrest.

ing in Hutton's suite. The conversations continued during luncheon and were resumed at dinner. It was after the last discussion that the telephone call was put in for Countess Barbara.

Says Plans are Vague.

After the conversations Count Haugwitz-Reventlow told newspapermen his plans for returning to England were vague.

"It is all too confused now," he said. "I don't know yet what I intend to do."

When pressed for a further statement he replied: "I detest reporters."

Hutton chatted with the press amiably. "The whole thing is entirely news to me," he said. "I have not yet had a chance to talk with my little baby about this matter, but I guess it is just one of those flare-ups that occur in marital life and can't be serious.

"Just a Couple of Kids."

"I have had some of those tiffs myself in my time. After all, those two are just a couple of kids. Honestly, I have not heard a thing about this until I got here, and it's a 100 per cent surprise. My son-in-law and I are the best of friends."

Some time later reports from Paris quoted Count Haugwitz-Reventlow as angrily denying that the question of a $2,500,000 marriage settlement was discussed at the family councils.

The marriage settlement questions were submitted by a newspaper man in the form of a cablegram while the count and his father-in-law were talking in a lounge at the Ritz. After reading the message Hutton remarked: "O, no, it hasn't come to that."

Insists on Seeing Cablegram.

The count insisted on seeing it also.

"No, don't show it to him; it's all ridiculous," Hutton appealed to the correspondent.

"Why shouldn't I see it?" asked the count.

"But it would upset you," Hutton answered.

A crowd began to gather and eventually Hutton turned away and impatiently said: "All right, go ahead."

The count read the message and remarked hotly: "You can deny that. It has not been discussed."

Hutton then interrupted: "We don't know just where we are yet. As for that cable I can tell you it hasn't gone to any such lengths."

Count Has a Bodyguard.

Meanwhile in London the countess conferred with her lawyers again and summoned Lord Horder, physician to King George VI., to her palatial mansion, Winfield house. Lord Horder, who attended the heiress at the birth of her child, remained an hour and a half.

Countess Barbara made tentative inquiries regarding the possibility of regaining her American citizenship. She became a Danish citizen after she married the Danish nobleman on May 14, 1935. Well informed quarters believed the countess would not find it easy to resume American citizenship. They intimated she would have to wait the customary five years before such action could be taken.

Guard Countess' Estate.

The heiress remained behind the heavily guarded gates of her estate. Her cousin, James Donahue, 23 years old, who flew to London from Paris late last night, strolled about the grounds during the day. Jacques Brugnon, tennis player, was another guest. Lance, the baby and the central figure in the quarrel, was guarded by a private detective. Two other guards patroled the house. A third guard was on duty at the main gate to the estate. Outside were stationed two members of Scotland Yard and two uniformed police officers.

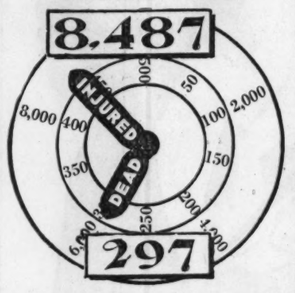
THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1938 Trafic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

GRAND JURY PUTS DIXMOOR POLICE ON GRILL TODAY

Motorists driving in the Dixie highway through Dixmoor, south of Chicago, need not worry about speed traps there at least for an hour or two today.

From about 10 a. m. to noon the village's police force of Robert Greco, Charles Paduano, and Tony Bader will be before the grand jury. So also will be Village President Charles Special, Police Magistrate Charles A. Braun, and a dozen other officials, ex-officials, Dixmoor residents, and just plain motorists.

The grand jury investigation is to determine if a speed trap exists, and if so, how unwary motorists fare and finally, what distribution is made of the fines and costs levied. Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin has been unable to locate the missing records relating to trafic cases. Prosecutor Austin also is interested in Policeman Greco, who admits to a police record of his own.

THREE IOWANS KILLED IN TWO TRUCK CRASHES

Three Iowans were killed yesterday in two truck accidents on the western outskirts of Chicago. They were J. L. Slemmons, 24 years old, of Icwa City; Don Greiner, 45, of Washington, and P. E. Bennett, also 45, of Keota.

Slemmons was killed when his semi-trailer truck, loaded with pigs and cattle, overturned in highway 66, when their truck sideswiped another just south of Hinsdale. Deputy sherifs said he probably fell asleep at the wheel.

Greiner and Bennett were killed when their truck side swiped another in highway 34, at Forest avenue, Downers Grove. They were asleep at the time. The driver of their truck was W. P. Hicks of West Chester, Ia. Neither he nor the other driver, Mitchell Babcock of Selvis, Ill., was hurt.

A motorist tentatively identified as Harold O. Lindstrom, 45 years old, 3618 North Marshfield avenue, was killed early today when his automobile went out of control and struck a lightpost at Glenview road and Milwaukee avenue, west of Glenview. Mrs. Gladys Malloy, 28 years old, 4425 North Racine avenue, and Mrs. Reba Whaley, 23, 4229 Kenmore avenue, who were riding with Lindstrom, were slightly injured and were taken to Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines. The women said they had met Lindstrom only last night.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 389 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 297 were killed in Chicago, where 8,487 were injured in the same period.

Gets 10 Days for Drunk Driving After Collision

Fred Masonberg, 1431 East Marquette road, was sentenced yesterday to ten days in the county jail for drunken driving by Judge Stephen Adamowski of the Safety court. His driving privilege was suspendd until Dec. 29. Masonberg was arrested Wednesday after his automobile hit another car at Carpenter street and Washington boulevard.

CLOUDBURSTS CAUSE FLOODS IN MONTANA; NINE SWEPT TO DEATH

Havre, Mont., June 23.—(AP)—Nine persons drowned and a baby was missing tonight in cloudburst floodwaters that surged into north central Montana rivers out of normally dry coulees and gulches. Farmers evacuated their homes in the flats of the Milk river, swollen by the coulee torrents.

Searchers found the bodies of eight flood victims in Gravelley coulee, near Laredo, 12 miles south of Havre. Homes and buildings in the coulee were carried from eight to 10 miles by the flood. The dead were Emil De Haan, his wife, and three small daughters; Charles Pratt; Herman Wendt, and James Brown. Fred Filligman drowned 16 miles east of here. An infant, another daughter of the De Haans, is missing.

3 LEITER HEIRS SAY BANK TOOK EXCESSIVE FEES

Charges that the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company took excessive fees in its administration of a trust estate left by the late Mrs. Mary T. Leiter were made yesterday before Master in Chancery Harold Sullivan.

The hearing is one of a series in an accounting suit filed by three trust beneficiaries, Thomas Leiter, Colin L. Campbell, and Cecil J. A. Howard. They are grandsons of Mrs. Leiter and the late Levi Leiter, pioneer Chicago merchant.

Each was left a $100,000 trust. According to their attorney the bank was to have charged a fee of only 1½ per cent of the net annual income, but actually, it was charged, during certain years took as high as 6 per cent. Bank representatives asserted all sums deducted from the trusts were for legitimate purposes.

COUNTY BOARD URGES DR. BLACK RECONSIDER HOSPITAL JOB OFFER

Clayton Smith, president of the county board, said yesterday that he will urge Dr. Benjamin W. Black of Oakland, Cal., to reconsider his refusal to accept the post of warden of the Cook County hospital.

At a meeting Tuesday the board authorized Smith to offer the post to Dr. Black, at a salary of $18,000 a year. Dr. Black, who is county health director and superintendent of public hospitals at Oakland, declined.

"Dr. Black is satisfied with the salary offer, I understand," said President Smith. "His only objection to coming here is that he considers the security of the job doubtful. I think those objections can be overcome. Both the county board and public leaders are ready to assure him the fullest coöperation."

RETRIAL FREES JOLIET PRISONER OF RAPE CHARGE

Victim's Belief Negro Was Attacker Told.

Thomas McCall, 39 years old, who spent more than six months in prison since his conviction on a rape charge last December, walked out of the Joliet penitentiary yesterday—a free man.

McCall was brought to Chicago for a hearing before Judge John C. Lewe in Criminal court on a writ of error. New evidence was introduced to show that a woman who was raped in the Washington hotel, 167 West Washington street, in the fall of 1936, did not positively identify McCall as her attacker. Judge Lewe then granted a petition for a new trial and, after the state stipulated to evidence indicating an error in the original trial, he found McCall not guilty.

Goes Back for $10.

McCall then was taken back to Joliet where he recovered his belongings, received a new suit and the $10 commonly provided by the state to discharged prisoners. He was then released.

At the hearing on the writ of error, drafted by Defense Attorney Robert Romano, three letters received from the rape victim by Mrs. Marcelle Laval Duffe, 5732 Kenmore avenue, were introduced. In the letters the victim declared that she doubted that McCall was the attacker and that she believed it was a Negro. Mrs. Duffe then testified that the victim, when she first saw McCall in custody, did not identify him as the attacker.

Admits Looking in Room.

McCall was called to the stand to deny the rape charge. He said he was arrested after police had caught him on the fire escape of the hotel, where he lived.

"I had gone out for some air," he said. "I was looking in a woman's room, but it was the first time I had ever done that."

Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley told the court that the state was satisfied an error had been made.

3 MORE JAILED FOR FAILURE TO PAY SALES TAX

Three men charged with failure to pay a total of nearly $2,000 in state sales taxes during the last four years were sentenced to the county jail yesterday by Judge Eugene J. Holland in the South State street court.

The convictions brought to 16 the number of merchants—mostly saloon keepers and restaurant operators—sentenced or fined as a result of a renewed drive against offenders.

Those found guilty yesterday and their sentences are:

LESLIE RHODES, owner of a poultry and feed store at 4860 Lincoln avenue; sixty days for failure to pay $517 in taxes from 1935 to 1937.

Charges against seven other defendants were nol prossed after Assistant Attorney General Philip J. Simon informed the court each had made partial restitution in sums ranging from $100 to $1,500.

2 MORE SLAYERS GET 14 YEARS FOR ANTIOCH KILLING

Two slayers who turned state's evidence against two others in the murder in 1932 of William Hancock, elderly farmer, at his home near Antioch, were sentenced yesterday to serve fourteen years in the Joliet penitentiary by Judge William L. Pierce of Belvidere, sitting in the Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan. The two are Joseph Nemmer, 36 years old, and Edward T. Leonard, 42 years old, both of Racine.

Their testimony helped convict Joseph Russo, 52 years old, of Racine, and Michael Karapournos of Chicago. They jury recommended they be sentenced to 14 years for beating Hancock to death during a robbery. Thus the sentences of all four slayers were the same, but State's Attorney Charles E. Mason stated in court that he would intercede with the parole board in behalf of Nemmer and Leonard.

Chicago Gangster Seeks Slaying Conviction Review

Valparaiso, Ind., June 23.—[Special.]—A petition for a court review of his conviction was filed in Porter Circuit court today for Johnny O'Riley, Chicago gangster serving a life term in Michigan City prison for slaying Attorney Thaddeus Fancher of Crown Point in a holdup near Cedar Lake, Ind., on May 4, 1924. Frank McErlane and Alexander McCabe, Chicago gangsters, also tried for the slaying, were acquitted, McCabe after three trials.

IDENTIFY GARY RIDE VICTIM AS AN EX-CONVICT

A "ride" victim found beaten and shot to death early yesterday alongside a dirt road near St. John in Lake county, Ind., was identified by Gary police through his fingerprints as Nick Morgan, 30 years old, a minor hoodlum who served three years in a federal penitentiary for counterfeiting.

Morgan, police said, has recently been engaged in running illicit alcohol and may have been slain in an attempt to muscle in on the Gary gambling and liquor syndicate.

YOUNG BANDITS HOLD UP 2 STORES IN 30 MINUTES

Two young bandits held up two dress shops on the west side within 30 minutes last evening. They first appeared in the store at 3266 Madison street, menaced five customers, two clerks, and the manager, Miss Sarah Fisher, 5229 Hutchinson street, and took between $40 and $50 from the cash drawer. The pair next called at 3527 16th street and forced Mrs. Lillian Star, 1635 South Drake avenue, the owner, to give up $200. One of the bandits robbed her three months ago, she told police.

ROBBER CANNOT SLEEP; ADMITS BEING A ROBBER

CRIMINAL COURTS.

Merrill Anthony, and George Young, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

Unable to sleep for a troubled conscience, Norman B. Thiel, 22 years old, confessed yesterday to Assistant State's Attorney Abbey Blattford that he robbed a young couple, parked in an automobile in the forest preserve, the night of June 10. Thiel walked into the state highway police station at Harlem avenue and Irving Park boulevard Wednesday night and surrendered. He said the need of his family for money drove him to the act. After finding a toy gun, Thiel said he went into the preserve near Irving Park boulevard and Mannheim road and took $4 from a young man, his car, and the purse of his companion.

THE STOCK MARKET

A rising stock market has again been the sequel to the adjournment of congress. As on several previous occasions during the Roosevelt administration the termination of any possibility of new repressive legislation for a period ahead has been followed by an advance in stock quotations.

The post-adjournment markets have, however, never expressed themselves so emphatically as on the present occasion. Since Monday morning the average price of 25 leading industrial stocks has gone up 14 points. This was almost a record.

In the 41 years covering the more commonly used stock averages there have been some exciting periods on the New York Stock exchange. Readily called to mind are the bull market of 1903, which culminated in the rich man's panic; the great markets of 1906 and 1907, which collapsed in panic in the autumn of the latter year; the war brides of 1915-'17; the new era; the post-moratorium boom, and the inflation scare markets of the New Deal. A perusal of market fluctuations in each of these periods discloses that on only four occasions have stock averages risen by as much as 14 points in a four day period. All of these were in 1929, in October, just preceding the crash, or in November, just after it.

The adjournment of congress, therefore, is obviously not the only cause of the new bull market. Some months hence precise explanations of the market's reversal and of what factors, aside from adjournment, have contributed to bring it about will be available. Among other influences which clearly have increased the desire to own stocks was the reiteration by Secretary Morgenthau of his previous declaration that there would be no further devaluation of the dollar. This time it appears that foreign investors were convinced they could send their funds here for a period long enough to earn a profit without being subjected to coin clipping when they should decide to convert the securities again into their own currency. That this was a factor of importance is suggested by the concurrent decline in the price of gold in the world market, the drop in stocks of gold mining companies, and the report from brokerage circles of heavy foreign orders, especially last Monday. One thing which isn't causing the market to go up is a flight from the dollar.

Earlier this year fear was general that burdensome inventories would prevent business from reviving for some time to come. Within recent weeks several research organizations have shown this fear to be largely unfounded. A survey of 42,000 firms showed that stocks of goods of all kinds had gone up from 16 billion dollars at the close of 1935 and 18 billion dollars at the close of 1936 to 21½ billion dollars at the close of 1937. The problem of disposing of five billion dollars' worth of excess merchandise appeared formidable until from the researches of another organization it was found that the stocks had been reduced by 2 billion dollars in the first quarter of this year, or at the rate of 700 million dollars a month. At that rate there would be no excess inventories after a little more than seven months.

The inventory situation, it appeared, would induce an upturn in production in the autumn. That the consumer goods industries at least will be affected was suggested by the federal reserve indexes of department store stocks. Although the stores in April were selling 83 per cent of the amount of goods that they sold from 1923-'25, stocks of goods on department store shelves were only 68 per cent of that base period. Renewed buying by the stores would not long be deferred. When the need for more goods was expressed last week in the form of orders, which neared a record in one important industry, cotton goods, it became clear that a less pessimistic appraisal of the future was in order.

The prospect for a revival in the consumer goods industries is, of course, increased by the pump priming program. Putting money into circulation by public works, or make-believe work out of borrowings, creates for the moment an artificial purchasing power. While it lasts this synthetic purchasing power stimulates prices, production, private employment, and profits. The collapse comes when the pump stops pumping.

But, whatever the cause, we now have the markets going up again and it makes everybody feel better. The need for caution is obvious. For although we are having an almost unprecedented rise, it must be remembered that the collapse last autumn was also of record breaking speed.

A LAW BREAKING JUDGE.

The village of Manteno, Ill., in Kankakee county possesses in Aime J. McNeil a police magistrate who is himself a confessed law breaker. The statutes of Illinois provide that the costs assessed in speeding cases heard by a police magistrate shall not exceed $2. Under the law none of the money so collected may be given to the arresting officer as a commission. Yet Magistrate McNeil, by his own admission, has customarily collected $3.25 as costs in speeding cases and has regularly turned over $1.25 of it to the village policeman.

Business has been pretty fair for this pair of small time racketeers. Last month they hooked 76 motorists. The Chicago Motor club alleges that McNeil and his policeman operated a speed trap to fleece the unwary. It's nice business if you can get it and his honor appears to have been the boy who knew how.

Needless to say, the facts regarding McNeil and his partner in the racket should be given to the grand jury. If indicted and found guilty they should be sent to Joliet to reward them for their bright idea. It must be assumed that the learned judge knew the law and if he knew it he broke it deliberately. He says he acted upon orders from the village president, Maynard Weber, a parimutuel teller at the Lincoln Fields race track. If McNeil can make that stick his honor the mayor should also be dealt with according to his deserts.

Public officials have been given no franchise to engage in extortion and when they try it they ought to be given exemplary punishment.

REPUBLICAN TACTICS IN INDIANA.

Indiana's senatorial candidates are nominated by conventions. The Republican convention has been called for June 28. The Democratic convention will be held at a later date.

There is no doubt about the desire of the great majority of Republican voters in Indiana. They want to be represented in Washington by a senator who will speak and vote for sanity and against the trend of the administration toward dictatorship. Translated into practical terms, the Republicans want a candidate upon whom they and all others who think as they do can unite.

Senator Van Nuys was elected as a Democrat. When he opposed the court-packing bill he earned the displeasure of the administration which thereupon ordered his political death. Mr. Van Nuys is not a candidate for the Democratic nomination. He recognizes that he cannot win it in a politician-controlled convention against the united strength of the Democratic bosses in Washington and their satellites in Indianapolis. He has announced that he will run as an independent.

Some of the newspapers in Indiana have recommended that the Republican convention nominate Van Nuys. Others, including the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, have offered the prudent suggestion that the Republican convention adjourn at once, without making a nomination, wait to see what the Democrats may do, and reassemble afterward to take such action as may then seem best.

It is possible that if the News-Sentinel's suggestion is adopted, the Democrats might be frightened into nominating Van Nuys. To a few job-seeking Republicans, this outcome would seem unfortunate. They see a chance to elect their own man in the face of a divided opposition. If the Democrats unite on Van Nuys, the Republican prospect would be somewhat dimmed.

Those are the calculations of peanut politicians, playing their sly game even at a crucial moment in the nation's history. It is to be hoped that on this occasion personal ambition will not lead to any such result. If the Democrats should nominate Van Nuys, that, in itself, would be a tremendous victory for Republican principle in Indiana and the nation. Then, no matter what happened in the autumn, the cause for which the Republican party stands would still have triumphed.

The probability is that even if the Republican convention adopts the suggestion to adjourn without action, the Democrats will not nominate Van Nuys. The duty of the Republicans would then be manifest. They should nominate Van Nuys to consolidate all the forces opposing executive dictatorship.

The future of the nation is at stake. If ever there was a moment when patriotism commanded an adjournment of small selfishness it is here and now. It is to be hoped that the Republicans of Indiana will rise to their opportunity.

SUBSIDIZING PROGRESS.

The recent congress voted a 2 million dollar subsidy for autogiro development and research. Everybody will agree that the autogiro has enormous possibilities, in peace as well as in war. It can land on a small space. It can hover. It promises to increase the safety of air travel. All these advantages are obvious and if the disadvantages of relatively slow speed and relatively small pay load can be overcome, the future of the autogiro will be bright.

The question remains, however, whether any real progress will be achieved by such grants in aid as this 2 million dollar appropriation provides. Certainly the example of the airplane suggests that great inventions are not born that way. The Wright brothers ran a bicycle shop. They had an idea which almost everybody thought was crazy. They worked out their designs by themselves and, incidentally, in the course of their experiment produced the aerodynamic formulæ which still are followed by all airplane designers. The subsequent refinements of design and equipment owe little to subsidies. Men with ideas somehow found the money and time to work them out.

We hope the autogiro subsidy produces results but we shall be mildly astonished if it does.

Editorial of the Day

AN OLD CORPORATE CUSTOM.

[The Baltimore Evening Sun.]

We quote from the annual report of a big American corporation:

> Under a fundamental policy based on a conservative principle of management, your company accumulates reserves for necessary replacements. Considerable amounts of these reserves have been diverted by act of congress to purposes not related to the company's operations. Further diversions of this character should not be made, as it would jeopardize the ability of the company to render proper services.

The corporation from whose annual report this excerpt was taken is the Panama Railroad company. It is a closely held corporation, all but thirteen shares of its stock being held in the name of the secretary of war. We continue from its report:

> Privately formed in the middle of the last century, it was taken over by the government in 1904. It has at all times been upheld by the government as an example of government efficiency in management and of government business acumen.

Well, closely held private corporations will sympathize with the desire of the Panama Railroad company to build up and maintain its reserves and with its irritation that "by act of congress" these reserves are taken away from it. Such treatment at the hands of congress must be almost as irritating as an undistributed profits tax.

You have been running notes about the Chicago of other days occasionally and I have been waiting to hear from some of the patrons of Eddie Redpath's place at 23 Jackson boulevard; of Sam Hildreth's, a contemporary of Eddie's, right at the entrance to the "Alley" where Big Herman Kaiser and Walter O'Keefe held forth. Those were the days when Ed Corrigan was the big race track man; when, if you called a "yellow" cab, you would ride in one of Frank Scott's yellow wheeled hansoms; when, if you yerned for a good steak, you would trek to Kuntz-Remmler's, the present site of the Royal Frolics; when the "Congress," over Lewinsohn's place at Congress and Wabash, was the original night club; when the present Congress hotel was known as the Auditorium Annex; when, if you stayed in the loop after midnight and patronized the street railway, you rode home with the little old conductor with the long beard who was skipper of the "owl" car, a horse drawn vehicle—seats running lengthwise of the car—making hourly trips only. NO CURE-ALL FOR STOMACH ULCERS.

ABOUT a thousand and one substances, ranging from catnip tea to golf balls, have been advocated for the treatment of peptic ulcer and, regardless of the medicaments used, numerous favorable reports have been recorded. The natural behavior of this malady, which has a recognized nervous basis, is to get better and then worse. Such cycles may recur again and again. If, for example, some drug is given during the period when seeming recovery is due, we may hail the compound as a cure-all. It is well known that temporary subsidence occurs from time to time in 50 per cent of all cases.

But every investigator has placed marked reliance upon diet. We cannot expect to relieve a gastric ulcer if it is kept stirred up—irritated constantly. Special foods are prescribed for the purpose of absorbing the surplus acid in the gastric juice because it is thought that this material not only adds to distress but keeps the lesion active.

Now comes an article by Emery and Schnitker, who have been feeding ox bile to 40 patients. The average duration of trouble was 5.7 years and the diagnosis was fully established in each individual by X-ray plates. On the theory that the flow of bile may be impaired and that, in consequence, a deficiency of some element may exist, it was reasoned that supplying bile might be beneficial. The preparation was encased in gelatin capsules, each containing 5 to 10 grains. It was found that as much as 40 grains per day could be taken without bringing on vomiting, diarrhea, or loss of appetite. Only rarely would burning in the vicinity of the stomach manifest itself.

Concluding their experiment, these authors note that a satisfactory result occurred in only 52.5 per cent, which is scarcely better than the average rate of improvement regardless of what is done. In other words, there is no demonstrable relationship traceable between the appearance of peptic ulcers and the quantity of bile fed.

One thing, however, was disclosed—namely, that constipation was helped. Inasmuch as most "ulcerites" complain of this difficulty, it was felt that a real advantage attended the administration of bile. All patients mentioned this themselves and commented favorably. They discovered that they were no longer obliged to take cathartics and even a fraction of the total dose that could be ingested was enough to restore tone to the sluggish colon.

Hydrochloric acid is a normal constituent of the gastric juice, otherwise digestion is interfered with all along the line. But when too much is produced by overzealous but well meaning stomach glands it not only delays but even prevents the recovery of an ulcerated area. For the past generation reliance has been placed upon preparations which would neutralize hydrochloric and thus bathe the lesion in a bland fluid, soothing in character. But alkalis taken to excess are not an unmixed blessing. In fact, they may so upset the general behavior of the body as to prove menacing.

The question then intrudes itself, "Is there any other way of reducing the activity of the secreting cells within the stomach itself?" Recently X-ray has been utilized for this purpose with excellent results. Insufficient time has elapsed, however, to warrant a general recommendation of this procedure. We cannot but wonder if X-ray will bring on atrophy of certain gastric functions, so that later the sufferer may be obliged to use the acid by mouth.

We may say, then, that while new methods may come, most of them will probably go. Healing depends largely upon maintaining good nutrition, the avoidance of indigestible foods, and the cultivation of a frame of mind characterized by complacency. Fretting and worry have no place in the ulcer victim's daily program. Within recent years excellent progress has been achieved through the employment of granular gastric mucin, aided by a suitable menu.

[We have a peptic ulcer diet which we will send on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.]

I am 16 years old and have had a bad case of fallen arches for about four years.

REPLY.

An orthopedic surgeon can remedy the defect by scientifically refitting your shoes. Certain pads and supports may be necessary. The trouble with wearing a routine type of support is that it may not suit your particular case. Very high heels probably cause more discomfort than the flat rubber variety.

E. M. S. writes: My tongue has been coated with a white film for over a month. What could be the cause?

REPLY.

Indigestion may be a factor. Also, there may be some infection in the mouth itself or in the throat. Look first to the mouth. Keep the tongue clean with a soft rubber brush or a bit of clean cloth wrapped around the finger and dipped into lemon juice. Fungus growths are sometimes responsible.

GET THYROID TEST.

R. H. B. writes: I am a normal, healthy person in my early twenties, but at times my hand trembles as I do things. What is this and what can be done about it?

REPLY.

Probably fatigue, although the thyroid should be investigated.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—A silver spoon with a crest on it, or a mug with a city's coat of arms may be just a sentimental souvenir, but in England it can mean a fine for the owner unless he pays a tax on it every year. Even a crested signet ring, whether or not the owner is entitled to the crest, is taxed yearly.

The right to use arms depends on various points of law and usage, but none of them concerns the tax collector. Tax authorities give no heed to what the College of Heralds thinks about people who use arms to which they are not entitled. Any one may have signet rings or silver bearing almost any device, as far as these officials are concerned, but the tax must be paid. If the arms are used on a carriage or car the tax is $10.50 a year.

Mrs. Florence Bluett, an elderly woman of Harrow, was summoned recently because an inspector who called to ask about her dog's license discovered she was wearing a signet ring with a heraldic squirrel on it. The dog license fee had been paid, but he found she had no license for the squirrel, which she had been wearing for five years. A lenient magistrate dismissed the case under his powers of probation, though she could have been fined.

There is only one safe alibi for failure to pay the coat of arms tax—to prove that the head of the family has paid for a license on the crest. That apparently covers all other members of the family as well.

Having a coat of arms approved officially by the College of Heralds is quite another business. Though the weight of opinion among historians now is that in England's early days it was proper for any gentleman to assume any coat of arms he wished, provided they were not already used by some one else, those days have passed.

As far back as the reign of King Henry VIII. there was a nation-wide check-up on all users of coats of arms, to expose publicly those who were claiming unlawfully the title of gentleman, implied by public use of arms. Many Britons who had a perfect right to them are said to have "disclaimed" their coat of arms because they did not want to risk trying to uphold a claim legally.

Now coats of arms are granted by the College of Arms when a man raised to the peerage does not already have them. But the minimum cost is about $400. Some peers have decided they would rather have the $400 than the coat of arms. Among them are Lords Snell, Passfield, Marley, Olivier, Allan, Rochester, Sanderson, and Elton.

Lord Passfield, former Labor member of parliament, who began life as Sidney James Webb, ridicules the use of heraldic devices. He was made a baron in 1929, but never took a coat of arms.

"Why should I?" he said on one occasion. "It would be a complete sham. Any number of people have no coat of arms."

His wife, well known for Labor activities, has refused to use the title at all and, though her husband is now Lord Passfield, she is still Mrs. Sidney Webb to the world.

Until last year the acceptance of a title was an expensive business, even without a coat of arms, except for politicians. It was customary to waive fees and taxes on titles created as rewards for "public services" and political work.

Others, however, had to pay both fees and "stamp duties" amounting in some cases to as much as $12,000. Occasionally well known people had the courage to refuse to pay up. In most cases the charges then were waived. Last year all fees and duties were abolished.

FORGERY.

Cairo, Ill., June 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A and B are father and son, part of a corporation of which A is president and B secretary. B has $5,000 life insurance with A, the father, named beneficiary. A, with the aid of the agent, asks for a loan signing B's name to the application. A received a check for the amount made out to B.

1. This check A deposited to the company's account in the bank. A made the deposit. B never knew of the transaction until months later.

2. Now can the bank, who never before had a deposit of B's money to this account and accepted a check of this size from his father, with B's supposed signature, [3] be held responsible for the amount? The check was simply made out to B, the signature was forged and A benefited by it in the deposit, but his name never appeared on the check. The bank apparently did not wonder or care about the deposit. Is this legal of the bank? P. T.

1. As we understand it, there was a forgery of the payee's name.

2. In general, a bank taking under a forged indorsement, would not get good title.

3. Yes, as we understand the facts, but it seems possible that there might be additional facts bearing upon the question whether the signature was expressly or impliedly authorized, whether it was ratified, whether the real payee was negligent, etc. If you wish to force matters, you should employ an attorney.

ASSUMPTION OF DEBT.

Chicago, June 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1932 and 1933 my mother, who lived in Indiana, needed money to pay taxes and interest on her mortgage. I gave her the money, for which she, through her lawyer, sent me notes covering the debt. In 1936 my mother passed away and before she died my [1] youngest sister and her husband had my mother deed her home to them alone. None of the others received one cent.

2. My brother-in-law told me he would pay these notes, but he did not have to unless he so wished. Up to now I have not heard a word from him and would like to get my money. These notes call for 6 per cent interest and attorney's fees, and mother's attorney told me in the presence of two witnesses that my mother told said attorney that she wished these notes paid.

3. Can I collect these notes, and how? Due to the fact that mother did not leave any of the other children anything [4] can this deed be broken? E. C.

1. The gift would stand unless he could set it aside by proof of undue influence or lack of mental capacity.

2. In general a promise to answer for the debt of another person must be in writing in order to be enforcible.

3. Your chances seem good enough to warant going over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

4. See preceding answers.

SUGGESTS A SWAP.

Chicago, June 22.—Your editorial, "American Planes for Britain," gave me a thought in the same direction. You know what a problem the Philippines might be for us in time, so how about trying to get England to exchange all its possessions except Canada in the western hemisphere for the Philippines?

The latter would be a valuable outpost for England, from which it could watch Japan and we would have clear sailing to the south and prevent the possibility of some of the islands falling into the hands of some European power that would not be as desirable as England for neighbors.

By this time you should be aware that England for the last two years has prevented Europe from being embroiled; that she is our best friend among nations. You should be trying your utmost to cultivate British friendship, ceasing your unfriendly quips and cartoons. PRO-BRITISH.

HERE'S A HINT TO RAILROADS.

Winnetka, Ill., June 20.—Modern schools today believe in going to see places instead of reading about them in books. In many places railroads are the best and most convenient ways of travel.

However, many railroads are charging rates which are so high that the number of field trips which can be taken is limited greatly. In ancient times a boy was considered a man when he reached 12. Today, however, although we are living in the twentieth century, the railroads still keep the age 12 as the division between whole and half fare. Is there not a difference between a school group traveling with a teacher and a person who is riding merely for his own pleasure? School groups would usually use the railroads when the roads are least busy, and in many cases they would fill trains that were not filled to capacity.

We feel that the added patronage and good will which would come to the railroads if they would reduce their rates for school groups would help to bring railroad travel back to fashion and would give the railroads a profit which they would otherwise not have. An increase in the number of field trips that schools take would make schools much more interesting and educational.

AWAKENING WOULD BE RUDE.

Chicago, June 20.—Re: Article by Harry Holden in the June 18 issue on the atmosphere and landscape along the route of the new Twentieth Century Limited entering Chicago. He suggests switching these trains off at Porter, Ind., and having them run over the Michigan Central tracks and enter Chicago via the Illinois Central right of way.

Such a change would be a great improvement in respect to atmosphere and scenery along the route, but O what a rude awakening upon arrival at our lake front eyesore, Central station!

HOW MUCH LONGER.

IT'S MODELED AFTER WASHINGTON.

Chicago, June 23.—I see the Chicago park district has hired a woman to get publicity for them. As a taxpayer I object to public money being spent in this way. It's mere campaigning for the city hall administration and constitutes a misuse of public funds. BERTHA HEDGES.

IN DEFENSE OF THE CROW.

Chicago, June 21.—The writer lived on a farm until she was 15. One day she overheard this conversation between her father and Mun, the hired man.

"What you going to do with that gun, Mun?"

"Kill some o' them blasted crows that's eatin' the corn."

My father could use strong language—on occasion. This was one of them. "You let me ketch you killing crows on my farm, Mun, and you're fired."

Mun stared. "Yes, sir," continued dad. "You fool! The crows don't know a blade of corn from a blade of grass, but they do know where the cut worms are, same as a robin does a worm in the ground." He stopped and pulled up a wilted blade of young corn. At the roots was one of the scourging pests.

"Crows like grasshoppers, too," said dad with emphasis. "If it's between the cut worms and the grasshoppers and the crow, the crow wins. Get that!"

And now the poor farmer is wailing again about grasshoppers and how to save his crops. Now that the "purge" of one of the farmer's best friends has been accomplished in the recent slaughter of the crows by the wholesale, perhaps the cut worms and grasshoppers will have a chance. By all means, let the destructive curtailment of crops continue, whether by dictatorial decree, flood, drouth, or—grasshoppers.

FLORENCE H. MOORS.

KEEP THEM ON A LEASH.

Chicago, June 20.—Now that rabies has again broken out among dogs in the city it is time to note that the city ordinance provides that any dog on the streets must be on a leash or muzzled. Yet many of our so-called "good citizens" violate this ordinance.

The loose dog is a menace not only to children but also to other dogs. It is the loose dog that usually carries rabies. As a dog owner I know it is a trouble to air my dog on a leash, but good citizenship requires that I do so. CONSISTENT.

F. D. R.'S SAFE CROSSINGS.

San Francisco, Cal., June 18.—I feel thankful to our President, F. D. R., for the many safe crossings that have replaced the old grade crossings. During my return trip from Chicago I uttered many sincere prayers of gratitude where thundering locomotives disappeared under my car as if by magic. Could we not find much that is new to be thankful for before we forget too much of the old?

Mayor Denies Getting Cut from Slot Machines.

Who gets the slot machine protection money in Arlington Heights, the horse racing town northwest of Chicago, is a mystery to Arlington Heights officials. And this puzzle is matched only by the mystery of who is the angel paying the bills for some of the village equipment.

This was the gist of an explanation by Mayor Julius D. Flentie of Arlington Heights at the state's attorney's office yesterday when he was questioned about the statements of Oscar Slater, 6154 Kimbark avenue, owner of the slot machine concession in Arlington Heights.

Raiders Seize Twelve Machines.

Slater was picked up, along with twelve machines and Victor Andrews, 6228 Ingleside avenue, the mechanic who repairs them, when state's attorney's police made slot machine raids in Arlington Heights on Wednesday.

Slater admitted he owned the machines, but averred that everything was all right because he was paying Mayor Flentie 20 per cent of the proceeds.

The mayor, who a year ago announced that the village was accepting a portion of slot machine receipts to help buy police squad cars, was promptly summoned to answer the charge and to tell what was done with the protection money, if any.

Mayor Flentie flatly denied that Slater had paid him any money.

"We turned slot machine money into the village treasury over a year ago, but so many people got mad about it we had to quit," he said.

A Mowing Machine Bargain.

"However," Mayor Flentie added thoughtfully, "come to think of it, we bought a mowing machine for $1.050 for the village a few months ago. We paid only $250 on account. Then we found out it had been all paid for. We didn't know who paid for it, but maybe the slot machines—anyhow, they say what you don't know doesn't hurt you."

Faced with this statement, Slater changed his story. He said he had paid $900 from his slot machine business in 1937 and $250 so far this year, but that the money went to Walter Krause, chairman of the Arlington Heights village finance committee. Krause was ordered to appear at the state's attorney's office today.

MOVIE OWNERS INDICTED BY U. S. AS TAX EVADERS

A federal indictment charging Meyer S. Marks and his brother, Louis, former owners of a chain of movie theaters, with attempting to evade payment of income taxes was returned yesterday before Judge Philip L. Sullivan. Bonds for each were set at $2,500.

Meyer Marks was assessed a deficiency tax of $18,850 for 1928; his broth, $19,287. Assistant District Attorney Austin Hall said the brothers have since paid the taxes in full. Assets they failed to report, Hall said, were derived from the sale of the Marbro, Granada, and other theaters they owned.

Sought 9 Months in Poll Frauds; Find Him at Home

Sought since last September to stand trial for election frauds, John Spizzirri was arrested yesterday by Special Deputy Sheriffs John W. Ryan and John McLaughlin in his home at 1316 South Michigan avenue. Spizzirri was a poll official in the 11th precinct of the 1st ward in the primary election of 1936. Four who served with him were sentenced to a year in jail.

Testify on Gambling

(Story in adjoining column.)

Oscar Slater (left), who owns the slot machine concession, and Victor Andrews, who repairs the machines. Slater said he paid the mayor, a charge the mayor denied.

Union Agent's Wife Sues for Separate Maintenance

Mrs. Minnie Bohlman of 4814 North Kedvale avenue, yesterday filed suit for separate maintenance in Circuit court from Fred Bohlman, business agent for the Excavating, Grading, Asphalt, and Private Scavenger's union, local 731. She charged that on May 27 she found her husband with one "Jane Doe" in his bedroom. When she remonstrated, her husband struck her and forced her out of the house. The couple were married in 1912. They have three children.

WEATHER REPORT FROM MARS: FAIR AFTER BIG STORM

Scientists Show Photos of What's Going On.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Williams Bay, Wis., June 23.— Prodigious storm belts sweeping across Mars and Jupiter, sister planets of the earth, storms ranging in extent from 75,000 to 300,000 square miles of these strange atmospheres and surfaces were seen in photographs from Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., which were shown today at the symposium of celestial and laboratory physicists meeting at Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago.

The object of the conference is to correlate knowledge of the behavior of molecules in laboratory experiments with the factual behavior reported by the spectral photographs from the atmospheres of the stars and planets. Each molecule and element is detected by the tone, wave length or band which it records by radiation upon a plate.

Life on Other Planets?

Dr. Arthur Adel of Flagstaff, an authority on the atmosphere of the planets, gave the results of the latest spectroscopic studies, which incidentally satisfied the human side of the scientists regarding the mystery of life on other planets and related curiosities.

The Martian photographs show the transportation of vapor, the melting of the south polar cap, the formation of the north cap. Dark markings, which may be vegetation, were shown in 1937 pictures. The greatest storm was in 1922, when it raged over 300,000 miles from July 9 to 12, finally disappearing. There was ice and snow on the polar caps.

Discussion arose as to whether these caps might be merely atmospheric appearances, but Dr. Adel defended their reality. The caps could be seen after the snow storms that produced them, he said, prticularly the formation and breaking up of the so-called mountains of Mitchell [ice mountains].

These caps, he said, are very thin, only a foot or two in thickness, and he estimated that there is not sufficient water in Mars to fill a basin such as Lake Erie. If oxygen is present, he declared, it is in quantities about a thousandth part of that of the earth. If there is life there it is not like human life.

Dense Atmosphere of Venus.

In Venus there is an extensive atmosphere, so dense that the astronomers have never seen the real surface, but they have detected fugitive markings there through ultraviolet photography. There are dark marks high up in the atmosphere which change rapidly. One molecule identified as a constituent there is carbon dioxide. No one has detected water vapor or oxygen on Venus.

Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune require group treatment, as they are isolated from the sun, with long years and days of 10 to 15 hours.

Changes on the surface of Jupiter were shown during photographs of two months' separation. In one the surface was smooth, in another turbulent, with a 75,000 mile storm belt sweeping across the planet. Methane, or marsh gas, molecules were detected. This is a common constituent of the great planets, Dr. Adel said. There are seas of ammonia on Jupiter, but this element has been frozen out of the others. The carbon dioxide in Venus is greater than that of the earth's atmosphere. Temperature at the surface is in excess of 50 degrees centigrade.

Dr. Karl Wurm of the University of Potsdam, visiting professor at Yerkes, will discuss the spectra of comets tomorrow. The processes which take place in the atmosphere of a comet, he will explain, can be shown to be the result of the influence of the solar radiation on the gases of the comet.

LAY DEATH IN GARAGE TO HEART.

Mrs. Barbara Nuss, 56 years old, 3328 Berteau avenue, who was found dead in the garage in back of her home last Saturday, died of a heart attack, Dr. Paul Schmidt, coroner's physician, reported yesterday.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Sonia Steuben.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sonia Steuben, for 40 years proprietor of Steuben's resort at South Haven, Mich., will be held at 11 a. m. today in the chapel at 3654 Roosevelt road, with burial in Waldheim cemetery. Mrs. Steuben, who was 75 years old, died Wednesday in Billings hospital. She was born in Kiev, Russia, and came to Chicago when she was 20 years old. For a number of years she ran a restaurant on what is now Roosevelt road, which was a favorite with Jewish stage stars. She was prominent in Jewish charitable work. Surviving are her husband, Samuel; two sons, Maurice and Benjamin, and a daughter, Mayme.

Miss Geneva I. Willard.

Little do they know the heartaches

BROKER IS FOUND UNCONSCIOUS ON PLATFORM OF 'L'

Overdose of Sedative Held Cause of Collapse.

John A. Vincent, a La Salle street broker, was under treatment last night in the Physicians Memorial hospital after he was found unconscious on the Howard street elevated platform earlier in the day. Dr. J. I. Mandel of the hospital said Vincent had taken an overdose of a nerve medicine. His condition is not critical.

According to close friends of Mr. Vincent, who lives at 1190 North Edgewood road, Lake Forest, he became despondent when his wife, Josephine, left him four months ago. Mrs. Vincent is now living with her father, a federal judge, in Flat Rock, N. C.

Wife Sues for Divorce.

On Monday Mrs. Vincent sued for divorce in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan. She accused her husband of habitual intoxication and cruelty, and asked alimony and support for their daughter, Josephine, 14 years old.

The bill, filed by Attorney William R. Behanna, charged that for the last four years Vincent had been drunk on an average of three or four days a week.

Mrs. Vincent alleged that her husband struck her and pushed her against a wall of their living room. On another occasion, her bill stated, he threatened her life.

He was also accused of threatening to harm their daughter. Because of his actions and his influence on the girl, Mrs. Vincent alleged that their neighbors refused to let their children play with Josephine.

On June 15 Vincent was fined $50 in the Lake Forest police court for driving while intoxicated. Police are holding his car, which crashed through a fence, until the fine is paid.

Son of Federal Judge.

Vincent is the son of William Alexander Vincent, noted Chicago lawyer, former federal judge, and chief justice of the Supreme courts of two states, who died in 1919. Judge Vincent was 26 when he took office in New Mexico in the frontier days, the youngest federal judge ever named.

His son, John, was educated at the Chicago Latin school. He then entered the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, Md., and upon graduation, served as an ensign, receiving honorable mention during the world war when his destroyer sank a submarine and captured the crew.

CHICAGOAN WINS ROTARY PRESIDENCY OVER OKLAHOMAN

San Francisco, Cal., June 23.—(AP)—George C. Hager of 202 East Walton place, Chicago, supported by an assertedly insurgent group which charged a reactionary machine was being built up within the organization, today was elected president of Rotary International over Allen Street of Oklahoma City. CHANGES SHIRT TO KILL HIMSELF IN 6 FLOOR LEAP

After he changed his shirt for a clean one in the tenth floor washroom of the First National Bank building, 38 South Dearborn street, a shabbily dressed man plunged to his death there yesterday afternoon. He struck in the fourth floor court.

Through papers in his pockets the victim was identified as George Anderson, 57 years old, of 2122 North Winchester avenue, who had been employed by the Works Progress administration since January. After changing the shirt Anderson tossed his coat, hat, and vest through the window, then plunged after them.

VOTE CONSPIRACY INDICTMENTS IN POLICE SCANDAL

True bills charging conspiracy to obstruct justice were reported voted yesterday by the grand jury against William Nichols, operator of handbooks in the Town Hall district; his runner, James J. Burke, and George and Edna Gardner, with whom Burke lived at 936 Wilson avenue.

Burke, principal state witness in the Town Hall police scandal case, disappeared before the start of the trial. Later he returned, and told of being sent out of town by Nichols and the Gardners. On his testimony Kenneth Peters was fined $100 on a charge of assaulting Burke.

Earl Flannery and Frank McKune, suspended Town Hall detectives, were acquitted on a charge of allowing prisoners to escape. They were accused of freeing Peters and another man after an alleged attempt to rob Burke. Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford said a second conspiracy indictment against the detectives will be dropped, since it is based on the same facts as the other.

ROSCOE TURNER'S 278 M. P. H. SETS WORLD'S RECORD

A new world's record of 278.947 miles an hour average for one lap of an eight and one-third mile quadrangular closed course was given official recognition yesterday by the National Aeronautics association. The record was made by Col. Roscoe Turner, veteran race flyer, who received notice here yesterday that his record lap had been accepted.

Although this speed is the fastest ever flown over such a course, Turner lost the race in which his record was made. It was on May 30, at Oakland, Cal., while in a nip and tuck fight with Earl Ortman that he set his record. Ortman, however, nosed him out by 231 feet. Ortman's average for the 150 mile race was 265.539 miles an hour. Turner's was 265.457. Both men beat the previous speed record of 264 miles an hour for a 150 mile race, a record held by Michel Detroyat of France.

COURT SUMMONS RECORDS IN MILK MONOPOLY QUIZ

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday issued a subpena directing the International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers and forty-one affiliates to produce their records for the last eight years.

These will be presented to the grand jury which convenes July 5 to investigate charges that a nation-wide dairy trust exists in violation of federal anti-trust laws. The subpena is the first of more than 100 to be issued in connection with the investigation which has been in progress more than a year.

The court order issued yesterday directs the association, which has headquarters in Washington, D. C., to produce records dealing with the cost price of ice cream; cost accounting estimates; correspondence with legislators and state health boards on legislation affecting the industry, and intercompany correspondence on advertising campaigns.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Summer Snapshots.

THE CALENDAR tells us that summer is here, but even better evidence of the arrival of the new season can be seen by walking through the fields and woods of a midwestern farm this week.

Wild roses in blossom in the woods and along fencerows . . . the first hollyhocks of the season flowering in the yards of farm homes . . . wild sunflowers holding their 1938 spring opening . . . a hot sun making the corn shoot up . . . sheared sheep grazing slowly or resting in the shade of tall oaks . . . yellow ducklings waddling around the barnyard . . . hayracks, piled high with freshly-cut alfalfa, moving along the farm roads . . . all of these "snapshots" were taken on the Tribune's Du Page county farm yesterday, and are being duplicated on hundreds of middle western farms this week as summer succeeds spring.

First Hollyhocks Out.

The wild sunflowers, hollyhocks, and wild roses are perhaps the best evidence that summer is here in reality as well as on the calendar. Most outdoor fans know all of these familiar flowers as belonging to summer. They are the successors of the trilliums, phlox, spring beauties, and other spring flowers, and the predecessors of the asters, cardinal flowers, and jewel weeds which are yet to come. The hollyhocks are not in full costume, but the first of their flowers are out. Near one of the farm homes we saw several pink, white, and red hollyhocks showing themselves and promising a better display for next week.

While walking through one section of the farm we saw ten Aberdeen-Angus hefers grazing in a field of clover and decided we should get acquainted with these sleek black animals which have been on the farm just a few weeks. When we first spotted them they were standing side by side, each with her tail switching back and forth to ward off the flies. By standing together they combined their efforts, each hefer switching the flies away from its two neighbors.

But the real surprise came when we decided to take a closer look at the hefers. We thought they would turn wildly and run away, but instead they formed a welcoming committee for us. We walked right up and patted their heads like one would pet the family dog. We tried to get one of the hefers to eat some clover from our hand, but she was too independent for that. The numerous spring rains have provided plenty of clover for the livestock, so they didn't need any handouts.

Orphan Duckling Thrives.

There is an orphan Muscovy duckling in the barnyard, but he seems to be getting along as well as the ducklings which have a mother hen to watch over them. This duckling was deserted by his mother, so now he is everybody's baby. He seems to enjoy the company of an older group of ducklings which are about five times his size, following them around the barnyard and imitating every move they make.

When we watched him the other morning he followed them over the grass lawn in their hunt for insects, later trailed along when they went to a feed pan for grain, and then followed them into the duck house where they all sat down for a morning rest. The flockmaster tells us that the orphan keeps warm at night by taking advantage of the good natured ducks which are incubating nests of eggs. Each night he visits one of these ducks and gets under her wings.

GREEN GROCERS OFFER MOST OF FOOD BARGAINS

Receipts from Chicagoland Area Increasing.

The majority of food bargains are being offered this week by greengrocers in city and suburban shopping centers. Farmers in the nearby truck gardening area are supplying an inincreasing amount of the vegetables that come to the central market.

Cauliflower, kohlrabi, eggplant, dry onions, celery, red raspberries and cherries are all cheaper. Bananas are down in some stores. They are now considered reasonable in price. Carrots are off a penny a bunch.

Green beans are being offered at low prices in most stores. A few merchants have cut their green bean prices in half since last week. Green peas also are 1 to 2 cents a pound lower than a week ago. Lemon prices have been cut 2 to 6 cents a dozen in some places.

Sugar Slightly Lower.

Sugar has been reduced slightly in several stores. Many have cut roll and package butter prices 1½ cents a pound. Eggs are off 1 cent a dozen in the same stores.

Comparatively few prices have been advanced in the greengrocer and staple departments. Lard is up a half cent a pound in a few places. In some stores the higher grades of flour have been raised 5 cents a 24½ pound sack. Head lettuce is much higher generally. Cabbage is slightly higher in some places. Most stores are asking more for spinach. Fresh tomatoes have been raised 1 cent a pound.

Beef pot roast and cured ham are on the up and down list this week. THE TRIBUNE'S weekly survey of shops indicates that many butchers are featuring leg of spring lamb at 2 to 7 cents a pound below prices asked a week ago. Stewing chickens are higher in some shops and lower in others. Frying sized chickens are off slightly in a few places.

Four cents a pound has been shaved off the price of sirloin and porterhouse steaks by several city and suburban butchers.

Beef Steers at New High.

The better grades of beef steers brought slightly more than last week, reaching a top price of $1.15 a hundred pounds, a new high for this season's crop at Union stockyards. There was no change in the wholesale price of beef, according to government reports.

Farmers were paid 5 to 15 cents a hundred more for live hogs. The top price was $9.35 a hundredweight. Light pork loins sold steady on the wholesale market while the heavier loins went down, the drop being $1 a hundred in some instances.

Live spring lambs dropped 75 cents to $1 a hundred pounds. Old crop lambs brought about 25 cents a hundred more than last week. The top price for spring lambs was $9.90 a hundred. Wholesale cuts of spring lamb sold steady to 50 cents a hundred higher. Old lamb carcasses remained the same.

Fruit and Vegetables Drop.

Most fresh fruit and vegetables are lower this week than last on the central market. Increasing shipments from points close to Chicago continue to push prices downward. Green beans, cabbage, cauliflower, carrots, celery, cherries, dry onions, fresh peas, plums, raspberries, and cucumbers are lower.

Cantaloupes, watermelons, lemons, and fresh peaches are higher on the wholesale market than last week. Market reporters say the hike in price is due chiefly to the increased demand which has resulted from the warmer weather of the last few days.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Nearly 16 billion pounds of meat were consumed in the United States last year. It came from 100 million 518 thousand cattle, hogs, and sheep shipped from the nation's 5½ million farms on which live stock is produced and finished for market.

These were the figures in a tentative report by R. C. Pollock, general manager of the National Live Stock and Meat board, at its annual meeting in the Stevens hotel yesterday.

Pollock's figures show that there were consumed per capita during the year 124.4 pounds of meat—53.3 pounds of beef, 8.4 pounds of veal, 55.1 pounds of pork, and 6.6 pounds of lamb.

West Now Greatest Source.

It was reported by Pollock that the western states have become the great source of the nation's meat supply. Live stock and meat production have been moving westward for many years.

"Approximately 65 per cent of all our meat is now produced west of the Mississippi river," he said. "Thirteen states of the central west are responsible for the production of 60 per cent of our beef, 33 per cent of our lambs, and 74 per cent of our pork. These states produce a surplus of meat above their own needs."

The east leads in meat consumption. Pollock points out that from 70 to 75 per cent of the nation's meat is consumed east of the Mississippi river.

Iowa Leads in Two.

Iowa was found to lead every state in the production of both beef and pork. Texas is first in the production of lamb. New York leads all other states in the amount of meat consumed.

In studying meat consumption trends the meat board manager found that last year this country consumed 98 per cent as much meat in the summer months—June, July, and August—as in the winter months—December, January, and February. Figures covering the last ten years show only a slight variation in meat consumption in comparing the winter, spring, and summer seasons. More meat is consumed in October than in any other month.

WOMAN DIES OF SEDATIVE.

Mrs. Clara Lowe, 45 years old, 337 South Central Park avenue, died in the Bethany hospital early yesterday a few hours after she became ill in her home, apparently from an overdose of sedatives.

PREPARED MIXES FASHION QUICK, COOL DESSERTS

Offer Easy Way to Make Frozen Delights.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Ice cream mixes are a comfort to women who like to make refrigerator frozen desserts and to economize on time when doing it. There are many excellent prepared mixes purchasable at little cost. Some of them are rennet mixes, others contain gelatin as the agent which prevents formation of large crystals in a product frozen without stirring.

More elaborate, yet quite easy to make, are many of the richer desserts which take form in the refrigerator freezing compartment. Fruit mousse may be frozen in covered baking powder cans, or in the regulation freezing trays, depending upon the shape you want the finished cream to assume.

Fruit Mousse.

[Serves Eight.]

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups drained fruit pulp
2 cups cream, whipped
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon salt

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water in a bowl. Place bowl over boiling water to dissolve gelatin. Mix with drained fruit pulp and add confectioners' sugar. Fold in whipped cream [or whipped evaporated milk]. Add flavoring and salt. Freeze.

Any kind of fresh, canned, or cooked dried fruit may be used in this cream. Suggestions: Peaches or apricots, put through a sieve; fresh berry pulp; mixture of banana and crushed pineapple.

Butter Pecan Ice Cream.

⅔ cup sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons melted butter
½ cup water
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup cream, whipped
½ cup chopped pecans

Blend sweetened condensed milk and butter. Add water and vanilla. Fold in cream and nuts. Freeze in refrigerator tray. Stir twice during freezing.

Angel Parfait.

½ cup sugar
⅓ cup water
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
½ tablespoon plain gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
1 cup cream, whipped
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt

Boil sugar and water to the soft ball stage and pour in a fine stream over beaten egg whites. Beat constantly. Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Add to egg and sugar mixture, and stir until dissolved. Stir mixture over cold water until it cools and begins to congeal. Fold in cream and vanilla. Turn into refrigerator tray and freeze without stirring.

BERRY PARFAIT: Add one cup mashed and strained berries to mixture before freezing.

PISTACHIO PARFAIT: Flavor with pistachio instead of vanilla, and tint a light green with food coloring. Add one cup pistachio nuts if desired.

PEACH PARFAIT: Substitute one-quarter cup orange juice for one-quarter cup water, and add one cup sieved canned or fresh peaches.

Linen in Tweed Pattern

Racing, Music Fill Calendar for Next Week

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE'S no need for those who are being kept busy saying au revoir to departing vacationists to feel sad at being left behind, for there is so much of interest happening in Chicago these pleasant early summer days that to leave home just now would be a hardship, many think.

For instance, hardly will lovers of fine horse flesh have recovered from the excitement of the Lake Forest Horse show, which closes tomorrow afternoon, than the racing season at Arlington Park will be on.

That season opens Monday and then, before one can catch one's breath properly, there will be the opening of the concert season at Ravinia. Yes, many who are racing enthusiasts are also musically minded, and it is not uncommon to see many of the same faces at Ravinia Park in the evening that one has encountered earlier in the day at Arlington. The first concert at Ravinia will be played next Thursday under the direction of Artur Rodzinski and it, of course, will be a gala occasion with dozens of dinner parties preceding the program.

Mrs. Louis Eckstein, Percy B. Eckhart, the Charles H. Morses, Mrs. James O. Hinkley, the Frederick A. Prestons, and Mrs. Everett L. Millard are the boxholders for the season.

Dr. Rodzinski's charming wife, daughter of the Polish composer-violinist, Henri Wieniowski, will accompany her husband to Ravinia, and the executive committee of the Festival association is giving them a dinner Wednesday night at the Exmoor club.

Horse Show Guests to Stay for Races.

Many of the out of town visitors on the north shore for the Lake Forest show will remain over Monday to attend the opening of the thirty day season at Arlington. The largest of the many luncheons in the Post and Paddock club that day will be one given by the president of the club, Laurance H. Armour, and Mrs. Armour.

Others who will lunch at the club and watch the racing from the club's terraces or from their boxes in the adjoining grand stand are the Warren Wrights, the Charles McCullochs, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz, the Otto Lehmanns, the Prentice Porters, the Stanley Fields, the James R. Kempers, the Weymouth Kirklands, the Robert J. Thornes, the Watson Armours, and the Walter Peacocks.

An interesting family party will be composed of Mrs. Edward N. Hurley, Mrs. John R. Hurley, Mrs. Raymond Hurley, and the former Helen Hurley, Mrs. William A. Ryan.

Ralph Hines is planning to give a large dinner party on the evening of July 23 following the running of the rich Classic. The party will be for his sister, Mrs. Howell W. Howard Jr., who is just emerging from a period of mourning for her husband and her mother, Mrs. Edward Hines. Mrs. Howard is coming from her home near Dayton, O., especially to see Stagehand run in the Classic. Stagehand belongs to her father-in-law, Col. Maxwell Howard.

Ellen Bull Advances Date for Wedding.

Instead of being a fall bride, Miss Ellen Bull is to be one of the first July brides, the date of her wedding to Bayne O'Brien having been advanced from Sept. 10 to July 1, next Friday, to suit better Mr. O'Brien's vacation plans.

The ceremony will take place quietly at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Winnetka home of Miss Bull's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sutton Bull, the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard of Christ church, Winnetka, officiating. The bride's sisters, Sally and Mary Constance, will be her only attend-

Mary Cornelia Aldis, the Graham Aldis' oldest child, is one of the pretty Lake Forest subdebs who are spending every afternoon during the Lake Forest Horse Show at the ring on the Onwentsia club grounds. The show opened Wednesday afternoon and ends tomorrow afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Aldis are giving a dancing party next Wednesday night for their daughter, who will go away to school next fall for her first year at Milton academy.

Good Morning!

Now comes Academy Award ["The Good Earth" and "Ziegfeld Follies"] winner, Luise Rainer in a picture which, though manifestly built to exploit her, will do well if it doesn't ruin her.

It is an East Lynne-ish business with a Camille ending, and Miss Rainer's delicate technique is crudely—though unmeaningly — caricatured. For a large part of the time her heroine gives the impression of being just a little loony, which was not, I know, the effect intended.

The action mostly occurs on a plantation near New Orleans in days before the civil war and Miss Rainer is the frivolous one of two southern sisters. She marries the serious, high minded man her sister loves and nobly resigns to her. . . .

George Sartoris had believed he craved a "toy wife" such as the irresponsible, finery and fun loving darling he marries—but he finds out that a foolish—though virtuous—spouse is quite as capable of ruining an ambitious husband's career as is a downright Jezebel. . . . To the rescue of the union gallops Sister Louise. . . .

Too late Frou Frou—so called because she always wears rustling silk and is always moving—realizes that she hasn't done right by husband, son, slaves, or the old plantation. . . . So, to right matters she elopes with young Andre Vallaire, contracts some wasting disease with a hollow cough and, after Andre has been killed in a duel with Husband George, is fetched home by the latter to die—beautifully. And be "buried in the dress with the rosebuds that Papa brought from Paris." Consistently "toy" to the last, you see.

I found Miss Rainer's performance definitly wearying; thought Miss O'Neil heavy as her sister, Messrs. Melvyn Douglas and Robert Young, gallant but uninspired and the entire supporting cast able, but struggling under scenario and directorial difficulties.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

They're the Tops.

Hollywood, Cal., June 23.—Joe Louis, because he overcame a very natural fear of Schmeling's right hand and proved that he was a real champion of the world by flattening him in one heat. . . . Jack Blackburn, who restored Louis' shattered confidence to him. . . . Rudolph Valentino, who came back from the grave to outrank the modern movie heroes in the last six months. . . . Simone Simon, who was game enough to brave unfavorable publicity because of the principle of the thing, and won.

Harvard's director of athletics, Bill Bingham, who resigned from the Olympic board after stating his opinion of Japan's rape of China. . . . Orson Welles, because he injected adrenalin into the Broadway theater this last season with his "Julius Cæsar." . . . He's only 23! . . . Kay Francis, because she was game enough to finish out her Warner contract in a chain of "B" pictures.

President Edouard Benes of Czechoslovakia. . . . I don't have to remind you of his courage and his refusal to be bullied by Hitler. . . . Benes' opposition may change the entire European picture. . . . Lew Ayres because he refused to be counted out on one cinema knee. . . . Jocky Silvio Coucci for his spectacular comeback this season.

Fay Bainter, who refused to believe that she couldn't click in flickers. . . . Janet Chapman because at the moment she is the most discussed little girl in pictures. . . . Terry Kilburn because his "Lord Jeff" make-believing made him the most discussed little boy in pictures. . . . Paul Muni because he is more interested in maintaining the level of his performances than in getting big dough for bad pictures.

Glenn Cunningham, who wins college degrees and smashes mile records on the side. . . . Deanna Durbin for the lilt she has brought to the American screen. . . . Danielle Darrieux for the charm she has added to the celluloid horizon. . . . Paulette Goddard because she has had the good sense to enlist in summer stock to learn the business. . . . She leaves for the east after her "Young in Heart" assignment.

Alex Templeton, whose success must be a heartening document to every boy and girl afflicted with loss of sight. . . . Hal Wallis, at Warner's, a modest guy in an immodest town. . . . Ditto Eddie Mannix at M-G-M. . . . Robert Montgomery for the change of pace he exhibited in "Night Must Fall" and "Yellow Jack" [maybe the Irish brogue prejudiced this reporter].

J. Edgar Hoover for the magnificent standard of his G-men. . . . They're sensational. . . . Fannie Brice, whose spurt to radio fame is one of the intensely interesting comebacks of the current era. . . . With a low bow to Hanley Stafford, the father of "Baby Snooks." . . . When you're rating straight men don't overlook Stafford.

Helen Hayes and Katharine Cornell for the national missionary work they perform in behalf of the legit theater. . . . Robert Young because I've never seen the guy give a poor performance. . . . Ralph Guldahl, who is at his best on a golf course when the chips are down and the pressure is on. . . . Katharine Hepburn because she hasn't sassed back. . . . She proved that she can take it, in other words. . . . Jackie Cooper because he's caught his second wind. . . . Jules Brulateur because he's a nice person.

William Powell for his very touching loyalty to the memory of Jean Harlow. . . . Bette Davis because she won $66 in the Warner fight pool on the Louis-Schmeling fight and turned it over to "The Tailwaggers" to buy food for homeless dogs. . . . [You should have seen her, dressed in a 1904 costume, jumping up and down at the 1938 radio.]

Ethel Merman because she's singing better right now than ever before. . . . Mary Astor and her hubby, whose happy marriage confounded the Hollywood hecklers. . . . Alice Fay because her performance in "Alexander's Ragtime Band" easily is the best thing she's ever done. . . . With a low bow to Director Henry King. . . . Doris Nolan because of her grand make-believing in "Holiday." . . . John Carradine for the worthwhile portraits he has con-

Smart Clothes Keep You Cool on Warm Days

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The shops are ready for heat waves, a really important style occasion when midsummer clothes reach their fashion peak. The clothes assortments are complete now.

Floral printed net, made into super-cool two piece suits, are amazingly crisp and smart as well as dress parade. Or they can be worn for smart street and town wear.

Navy blue is perpetually a summer classic when combined with lighter shades of blue or milk white for a cooling contrast. Underslips are either navy blue or white. Jackets are short and fitted, and sleeves short or long.

The newest summer coats come in silk, thin taffeta, bengaline, and fabrics resembling that effective ribbed stuff. Coat skirts flare smartly, but not too much, coat sleeves are long, the streamline fitted and trim of outline. Worn with matching dark colored net dresses, they are a costume that makes any one look superlatively well groomed.

The same coats are grand tops for printed flowered chiffons, for afternoon dresses, and also the sort of a general purpose coat you need for any well planned summer wardrobe.

Brand new hats, airily designed for a hot summer day, come with alternating bands of felt or crêpe with net. Some have concentric circles of the net and fabric, others have the wide eye shading brim made of fabric with designs or insets of the net. One off the face model has a snappy little bow tied right in front and looks like an angelic summer halo. None of them are frighteningly expensive, and all are flattering.

Fashion photograph. . . . Linen, woven in color to resemble a stunning imported tweed pattern, makes this summer street and daytime suit. Against a natural background color, the thin and thick threads are brightly contrasted in red, green, blue, and dark brown in a regular tweed mixture. The jacket is cut high enough to wear without a blouse, and the short skirt is plaited at the side for action.

English Halls Filled for Air Raid Lectures

War preparations in an English city of 50,000 were described by Miss Jean Bett, journalist of Harrogate, England, at a luncheon given for her by the Soroptimist club yesterday at Fred Harvey's restaurant, 308 South Michigan avenue. Miss Bett was one of 150 foreign delegates to an international Soroptimist convention earlier this week at Atlantic City, N. J.

"A gasproof chamber large enough to hold twenty persons is on display—the government has placed them in many cities. This is to suggest that householders build similar chambers in their own homes," Miss Bett recounted.

"A. R. P. meetings—air raid precaution meetings—have been held every week this spring, and halls have been packed. People are told what to do in case of an air raid.

"Several months ago every one received a questionnaire asking what he or she could do if war broke out.

"Just before I came to America, a government representative asked me to be an air warden. That means when warning of an air raid is given—about 20 minutes before the planes arrive—I must hurry to a depot, get gas masks and distribute them to the houses in my district."

Harrogate is 200 miles north of London.

Conant Claims Full Liberty to Select Faculty

Cambridge, Mass., June 23.—(AP)—Asserting that Harvard university had been accused of "lurching violently" both to the right and to the left in faculty appointments, President James B. Conant today hit sharply at "pressure groups" in an address in defense of academic independence.

To yield before "threats from any quarter," he told the Harvard alumni association, would be to "start down the road which ends in lack of freedom."

Criticism had been leveled at the university's decision to offer "concluding appointments" to two economics instructors who had been instrumental in the formation of a university teachers' union.

More recently the appointment of Granville Hicks, a self-declared communist, as a counselor, drew comment.

"It has been said by some," President Conant declared, "that in one instance an exception to a general policy should have been made since otherwise the public was bound to believe that a teacher was discriminated against because of his alleged radical views and activities.

"On the other hand, it has been urged that a certain recent appointment to a minor position was ill-advised because the public mind is today sensitized to certain labels. In short, from right and from left it is frequently suggested that in a question of an academic appointment what is technically known as the 'press reaction' should be the controling factor. . . .

"I submit that to make matters of appointment turn on the question of whether or not unfavorable publicity may result is to jeopardize the independence of this ancient institution.

"To me an important aspect of each of the cases to which I have referred was whether or not the university, through the regular constitutional channels, should proceed according to the best judgment of those charged with the responsibility, or whether we should be intimidated by pressure groups from the right or from the left."

Walt Disney, creator of world-famed animated motion picture cartoon characters, received a master of arts degree from Harvard, which at the same time honored President Charles Seymour of Yale university, Baron Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada and 10 others.

5,000 Voices Thrill Throng at Music Fete

BY CECIL SMITH.

The second evening concert of the thirty-ninth German-American national song festival at the International amphitheater last night gave impressive evidence of the German people's inbred love for music. An audience of ten thousand, some from such distant states as Colorado and Florida, nearly filled the great hall. On the stage, behind sixty players from the Chicago Symphony orchestra, were ranged the men of the festival male chorus, five thousand strong.

When these choristers first opened their throats in the "Pilgrims' Chorus" from Wagner's "Tannhäuser," under the direction of Reinhold Walter, the elemental, volcanic upwelling of tone sent chills running up and down one's spine. But the chorus did not limit itself to loud singing, for a remarkable quiet expressiveness was achieved in Glueck's "In Einem Kühlen Grunde."

Mark Love, bass, and Esther Hart, soprano, were the soloists of the evening. Busy Miss Hart, who already had sung in the afternoon, once more displayed her polished musicianship in "Dich, Teure Halle," from Wagner's "Tannhäuser," and in Schubert's "Ungeduld." Mr. Love gave a poetic cast to Franz's "Widmung," and tossed off the catalog aria from Mozart's "Don Giovanni" with ease and assurance. The soloists joined in the "Song of Love" duet from Romberg's operetta, "Blossom Time," bringing down the house with the final high climax, and adding as an encore the "Sweetheart" duet from "Maytime."

Walter H. Steindel and H. A. Rehberg shared conducting duties ably with Mr. Walter. Oscar A. Stoffels, president of the festival, welcomed the visiting singers and delegates. Gustave A. Brand, city treasurer, brought greetings from Mayor Kelly and the city council.

Although the humidity was high and the audience small enough to leave many vacant seats in the great amphitheater, the matinée program was hardly less ambitious than that of the evening. Three thousand five hundred choristers participated in the concert, with the ladies considably outnumbering the men.

A high point in the afternoon's music was reached when N. J. Herman of Cuyahoga Falls, O., conducted the orchestra, the male singers from the central Ohio district, and the mixed chorus from the same region in the intoxicating Johann Strauss waltz, "Roses from the South." Anything like ryhthmic precision was out of the question because of the long reverberation of the huge auditorium, which echoes for nine and one-half seconds. The warmth and heartfelt fervor of the chorus were enough, however, to make carping criticism unnecessary.

Several other choral groups and conductors shared in this first matinée concert. Mr. Rehberg led the ladies' festival chorus in Kremser's broad setting of the old Dutch "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and in the colorful "Morning Song," by Edwin Schultz. In the latter piece a note of informality was sounded when the conductor, dissatisfied with the opening tempo, stopped his forces and began over again at a better pace.

Arthur Nusser of Cleveland conducted the Central Ohio male singers in a ballad by Podbertsky on the subject of Frederick Barbarossa, 12th century German king. The ladies' chorus sang songs by Wenzel and Sonnet under the baton of Mr. Rehberg, and Ernst Herzwurm conducted the united male choruses of St. Louis in works of Attenhofer and Silcher.

Miss Hart, beginning her two a day engagement, brought resourceful and controled vocal art to Senta's ballad from Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman," and songs by Schubert and Brahms. Mr. Steindel directed Miss Hart's accompaniments and led the orchestra in the overture to Weber's "Der Freischütz" and a movement from Henry Hadley's Third symphony.

The festival will be concluded today with matinée and evening performances, both in the International amphitheater.

Veloz-Yolanda Back to Scene of First Fame

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Veloz and Yolanda, ballroom dancers of the cabarets who are successors to the fame, almost legendary now, of Vernon and Irene Castle, returned to the Empire room in the Palmer house last night for a summer engagement.

The première was a sort of homecoming, for their national vogue was established in this environment during the first season of A Century of Progress, and later visits have enhanced the tradition. They were welcomed with enthusiasm; one might even say with affection.

The café style of ballroom dancing is based upon a mood of romance, and this graceful and gifted couple are fundamentally romantic in their appeal. Yolanda is like a young Florentine belle of the age of the Medici, although she bears a name from the Arthurian legends; and Veloz, although typically American of personality, has a dash of knightliness in his style. They are never too serious, however, and their repertory includes sophisticated gayety and charming humor.

Their dances for the opening were selected from a program which they gave in Carnegie hall, New York, on April 24, when they became the first cabaret ballroom performers to offer a formal recital for connoisseurs of the modern ballet. There were six numbers in the first performance after the dinner period, and six others in the midnight bill, all different. Thus they illustrated a wide variety of moods and styles with dances of their own origination.

The stars bring Pancho's dance band, new to Chicago, and a floor show of merit. Michael Loring, fine baritone singer of attractive personality, also serves as master of ceremonies. The Four Kraddocks are a merry squad of clowning tumblers. Grace Dittman, a pretty graduate of the Abbott ballet, appears in specialty dances. For tap dancing there is a pleasant youth named Don Hooten, and for quaintness C. Ray Smith's marionettes.

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles via Panama to New York, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire. Isobel Butler has a stateroom next to the Vernon suite and hopes to get in pictures through him. Alex Reed, young surgeon, is returning to work after two years' illness. At the purser's table Anne meets gossipy Mrs. Panting, Isobel Butler, and Alex Reed. Through Mrs. Panting Isobel meets Arnold Vernon.

INSTALMENT V.

AN UNCONGENIAL MARRIAGE.

Isobel felt she could not get down to her stateroom fast enough to tear off her orange colored slacks and grass green pullover and throw them through the porthole. She rose and said, "Excuse me, Mr. Vernon. I have a lot to do just now. I'll see you later—shall I?"

His manner was suddenly warm again. "Why, certainly I hope so, Miss Butler. Perhaps you would join us for a cocktail at half past six in the smoke room?"

"Thank you. I'll be glad to."

He waited till Isobel had disappeared. Then he turned to his wife. "Why did you have to be so brutally rude to that poor girl?" he inquired savagely under his breath.

"I think she's a loud vulgar person. I don't want to know her. So why should I encourage her?"

"On the contrary, Arnold, it might cost us our privacy. Any one can see the woman's on the make. So you'd better look out."

"Thank you for your expert advice."

Claire's thin mouth tightened. "Really I don't know what's come over you since you've been to Hollywood. The cynical things you say!"

Arnold glanced uneasily up and down the deck. He need not have worried. Claire's voice was low and her manner unruffled. She was conscious of her public and would always play her part.

"Hollywood hasn't made me cynical. You have. Now let's get this straight. Are you going to be polite to that girl this evening, or are you not?"

"Not," she said maddeningly, and picked up her book again.

Her husband said no more. He put on a pair of sun glasses and stared out to where the dark blue sea met the vivid arch of the sky.

He wondered what he should do about Claire. It was true that Hollywood had done something to him. Opened his eyes in fact to the folly of putting up with unsatisfactory conjugal conditions. If the men he had met there knew what Claire was putting over on him they would think him crazy. They would call him a nut. He had been one in the first place, but was that a good reason to go on being one?

He did not look at her, but her image as she reclined gracefully beside him was photographically complete in his mind. Her smooth sculptured hair, her slim face, her ice blue eyes, her flowerlike hands, her brittle looking ankles, her precise careful gestures, her catlike care in arranging herself so that her body fell into harmonious lines. That was all she thought about—her body. But not as a means to an end—not to enchant a lover or make a devoted husband happy.

He groaned inwardly, emitting a faint sound. Claire said, without looking up, "I told you not to eat lobster for your lunch. You know ship's food doesn't agree with you."

Arnold got out of his chair. He could not sit beside her any longer. "Don't swim too soon," she said. "It'll give you cramp."

"You'd care if I drowned, wouldn't you?"

"You wouldn't drown in the pool," she said noncommittally. "Some delicious person would pull you out."

He bent over her. "That would be just too bad for you, wouldn't it?"

She gave him a quick bright look, and her lips were smiling. "If I didn't know you were joking I'd be worried, Arnold. Don't walk too fast. I'll see you at the pool at 3 o'clock."

He went away then. She had him wondering.

She had never shown any signs of unfaithfulness, or any particular desire for the company of younger men. But that might be sagacity, or even worse—an inability to experience romantic love. Now that his eyes were open he could see her being patient with him, how difficult it was for her to tolerate so much as his hand upon her shoulder.

The jewels, the furs she had! The money he had spent on her! She who had come from a poor English curate's family, one of seven, with hardly so much as a pair of shoes to call entirely her own! He remembered with agony some gossip he had heard in Hollywood about a similar situation. "The joke was she thought she had earned the money."

Isobel removed herself from Claire Vernon's range of vision through the first door she came to, the large doorway leading to the after-end staircase. She walked down this and found herself confronted by the colorful glitter and luxury of the ship's notion shop. The girl in charge was busy unpacking boxes and arranging pajamas, bathing suits, and beach wraps on rows of hangers. Isobel made a quick mental calculation. She could afford to spend say—$30.

"Let me see some togs in plain colors," she said. She spent $42 after another careful calculation, and went away to her stateroom with two pairs of lounge pajamas, a shirt and shorts, a bathrobe and a swimming suit, all in pure white.

She tried them on in front of her mirror. Her skin was burned a beautiful even brown almost all over her body. She had had plenty of time for the beach in California, worse luck. But now she was delighted. The result was excellent. Why had she never thought of capitalizing her natural coloring like this before?

She opened her wardrobe and took out her evening gowns. This white lace one would look elegant without the long shoulder trail of mutlicolored flowers. She ripped them off with nail scissors and impatient fingers.

Now let that supercilious woman stare? If she thought she was going to freeze little Isobel off her husband, she could think again. She was not. She had no designs on him personally. What girl would have? But should she allow that walking icicle to interfere with her career, her bread and think, her pearls and butter? Definitly she should not!

Isobel slipped on the white evening gown. It had good lines and hung in a way that flattered her figure. Looking at herself cruelly, she saw the difference between her own appearance and Claire Vernon's smooth conservative grooming.

She dressed in her orange slacks again and went to the beauty parlor. It was unlikely to be busy the first couple of days. Fortunately the girl was free. Isobel settled into the big chair and lit a cigaret. "I look like a poodle dog," she said frankly. "I want you to thin out my hair."

Claire flatly refused to accompany her husband to the smoke room to drink cocktails with the interloper. "You got yourself into it," she remarked stubbornly, "but I don't have to go and suffer."

"Not with that woman. She's after something. Well, you go and bore yourself. She won't get me."

Arnold shrugged his shoulders, put on his dinner jacket, and went out. Isobel joined him soon after he had taken a table in the smoke room. Her appearance was a pleasant surprise. She was dressed simply in unrelieved white and her ears were showing under her smooth red hair. He saw now she had a good head and carried it well. Odd that he should have thought at first she looked so common. There was nothing common about her. "Hello, there," she said, her face lighting when she saw him alone. "Mrs. Vernon not here yet?"

"Not coming. She was resting before dinner and slept late. She won't have time."

"O, I see. Isobel was not deceived. One could arrive any time for a ship's dinner. But she was relieved. The less interference she had from that quarter the better. Now there was a chance to get friendly. "I'll have a dry Martini," she said to the hovering steward.

"Right," said Mr. Vernon. "Make it two."

ants. The several friends of Miss Bull who were to have been bridesmaids in September will come for the wedding if they are able to get here on such short notice. Only the families and a few close friends will be present.

Mr. O'Brien is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Vincent O'Brien, also of Winnetka. He and his bride will live in Chicago.

Miss Anne Tracy to Be Bride Today.

At a quiet home ceremony this afternoon at 4 o'clock Miss Anne Alexander Tracy will become the bride of William Rossmoore. The Rev. Ray Everett Carr of St. Peter's Episcopal church will read the service in the living room of the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Raymond Lindley Redheffer, and Mr. Redheffer, at 257 East Delaware place.

Miss Tracy's attendants will be Miss Katherine Proctor of Proctor, Vt.; Mrs. Thomas Byrnes of Chicago, and 10 year old Helen Rossmoore, the bridegroom's sister. Howard Rossmoore will be his brother's best man and ushering will be Joseph Redheffer and George B. Everett Jr. Mr. Rossmoore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Rossmoore, have come from their home ir Baldwin Harbor, N. Y., for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Rossmoore will go to Wisconsin on their wedding trip and in the autumn they will be at home in Cambridge, for both will study at the Harvard school of business administration.

Price-Morse Nuptials Today.

Another wedding planned for today is that of Miss Mary Lou Price, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Batson Price, to William J. Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Morse, of Evanston, which will take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at Bond chapel, Dean Charles W. Gilkey officiating. A reception will follow at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harley MacNair, 5533 Woodlawn avenue.

Dr. Price, who was in the United States consular service in China for a number of years, is now director of International house at the University of Chicago. Miss Price will have Miss Blanche Scott of Baltimore for her maid of honor. Miss Barbara Price, Miss Mary Morse, and Miss Betty Caulkins of Scarsdale, N. Y., will be the bridesmaids.

Robert Perkins of Terre Haute, Ind., will be best man. Ushering will be Edward Morse Jr., George Stakes, William Morris, and Richard McCrery. Mr. Morse and his bride will go to Mexico by motor on their wedding trip.

Miss Patricia Wilson has changed the plans for the party she is giving today for Miss Dorelle Moulton and instead of having luncheon at the Wilson home in Lake Forest and then swimming at the Onwentsia the youthful hostess and her guests will swim and lunch at the club and then will attend the horse show. Miss Moulton is being married Monday to Vincent D. Andrus.

A tea will be held around Carl Milles' fountain in McKinlock court of the Art institute at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The especial guest will be Frederick Oswald, who will tell at 2:30 o'clock in Fullerton hall "Reminiscences of Twenty Years Abroad." Mr. Oswald is a former student and teacher at the school of the institute.

Tavern Members Take Cruise Tonight.

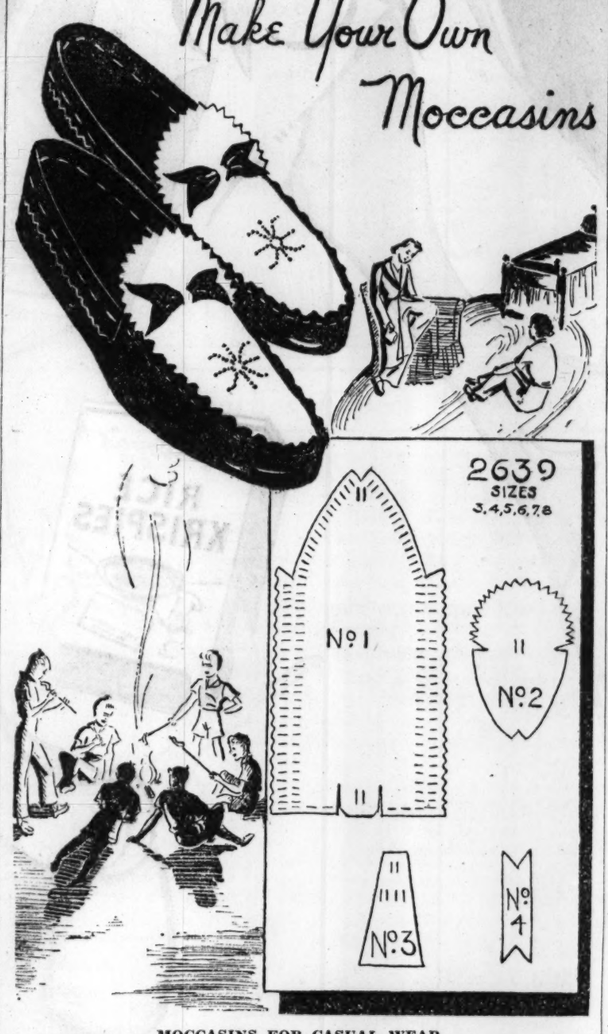
Some time between 6 and 7:30 o'clock tonight about 425 persons will cross the gangplank to the Theodore Roosevelt, which has been chartered for the use of Tavern club members and their guests as a tenth anniversary party.

Earlier most of the corps of employés of the club will be gone aboard to make ready the buffet supper that will be served and to insure that the cruisers will enjoy the same sort of service aboard the steamship that they do in their eerie perch atop 333 North Michigan avenue. A skeleton crew will be left in the clubrooms to take care of "landlubbers" who prefer to dine ashore.

The ship will sail at 7:30 and is scheduled to return about 10 or 11. Some of those who have arranged large parties to take the cruise are Alfred MacArthur, president, and Mrs. MacArthur; the Warner Robinsons, the Graham Aldises, the junior Samuel Insulls, the Alfred P. Shaws, the Powell Pardees, the Robert McKissons, Leo Hogan and Harold Keele, who is having sixty Barringtonians in his group.

Numerous girls and boys in their early teens will be driving tonight to Geneva to attend a dance to be given at the Country club by four young Genevans, Mary Carpenter, Scott Davis, Haynes Wheeler and Bob Davis.

Comfortable Moccasins



MOCCASINS FOR CASUAL WEAR.

Yes, you can make your own moccasins. No one has to tell you how comfortable they are to wear, and with this pattern there is nothing at all to making them. You do not have to purchase new material, necessarily, although if you have some special color scheme in mind, that probably is what you will do. But for economy's sake you might use any scraps of felt or other heavy material you have stored away in the attic. For example, discarded bathrobes, coats, flannel skirts, tweedy jackets and similar articles will afford the medium for these moccasins.

As the sketch indicates, there are only four sections to be joined. Because this footgear is so simple to make, you will want a wide selection for yourself and for bazar prizes.

Style No. 2639 is designed for shoe sizes 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8.

Offer Narrow Size Shoes.

A recent request for women's shoes, size 10 or 10½ triple A, produced such a generous response that we have a number of surplus pairs to offer. These include shoes of every size, narrow lasts, from 11 quintuple A to 8½ quadruple A. Shoes of this narrow size are difficult to get so we will be happy to place them with needy persons able to wear such sizes but unable to purchase them.

Equipment in Home Should Be at Child Level

Did you ever have a high shelf in your closet that you dreaded to get things down from, because you had almost to dislocate your shoulder to reach it, even on tiptoe?

Did you ever have a kitchen inconveniently built and arranged? Did you ever put off for days stitching up those long rips in your sheets or putting in new hems because the sewing machine and motor were 'way back in the corner of the closet?

Small children have a lot of parallel obstacles in the performance of their daily, necessary habits—that is, in the average home. As we were saying yesterday, a house should be arranged with the convenience of the children of the family in mind, if they are expected to gain skill and self-reliance. We must help them to help themselves in various practical ways.

Everything your child has to use in the bathroom should be adjusted to him. His towel rack or rod should be low. A broad low box [perhaps one that comes from the grocer's] will raise him just enough so he can scrub his hands and brush his teeth and reach his own little animal soap comfortably. [Powder of any kind must be kept out of reach.]

In your little boy's or girl's bedroom clothes rods or hooks should be placed low; there should be a footstool and at least one low chair.

These suggestions will at least start you off. But one I must add, since the "small ones" find it such a satisfaction. Buy or make a broad, low table and chair for your child's very own. We have detailed directions for making them.

Canada's Eucharistic Congress Prays on Famous Battlefield

QUEBEC, June 23.—[Canadian Press.]—Pilgrims from all parts of Canada and eastern United States gathered on the historic Plains of Abraham tonight for an hour of adoration before celebration of a midnight mass, highlight of Canada's first Eucharistic congress.

During the day there were services in every Catholic church. At the first pontifical mass of the five-day congress this morning thousands knelt on the plains where the battle which decided Canada would be British instead of French was fought Sept. 13, 1759.

In a sermon prepared for delivery during ceremonies tonight, Archbishop J. T. McNally of Halifax declared the Roman Catholic church was facing a "bitter, organized, persistent and world-wide attack."

He called upon Catholics to join in "intensive and universal action" to meet the onslaught.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: You have written many articles emphasizing that declarer should plan his play only after due consideration of the bidding that has taken place. I play in a great many average games and, if you will pardon my cynicism, I think the trouble is that many declarers cannot remember just what the bidding was after the first card has been led. This is particularly true when every player has made one or more bids. At the close of the auction most players think only of the final contract. My average partner last night threw away an easy vulnerable game because he either did not remember the bidding or failed to take any inferences from it.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 club	3 spades	4 clubs	4 spades
5 clubs	Pass	Pass	5 spades
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

"I was North. I admit my own last raise was questionable, but certainly not in the same class with West's four club bid which, in my opinion, was a case of outrageous optimism. When he made the bid he hardly could have known that his partner had a seven card suit.

West opened the club queen, and then promptly shifted to a low diamond. Declarer put up the ace, East's queen falling, and then led a trump. East showed out, which meant that West had a sure trump trick. Declarer cashed the ace and king, then led the heart ace and a low heart to the king. Now came the crucial play. The nine of hearts was led, and East ducked. Declarer, after a long huddle, ruffed, obviously hoping for a 3-3 heart break so that he could return to dummy by ruffing a club and chuck his losing diamond on an established heart. Unfortunately, however, West overruffed with the queen and returned a diamond, for the setting trick.

"Of course East surely could have defeated the hand by playing the heart jack on the nine spot. If declarer ruffed, West would overruff and lead a diamond. But, after East's mistake, it seemed to me that declarer's play had been very poorly calculated. East had shown out of spades and obviously had only two diamonds, the blank K-Q, since otherwise he would not have been so kind as to drop the queen under the ace. He could not hold more than seven clubs because West had supported clubs at the four level. [The four club bid was bad enough with West's three clubs. It would have been inconceivable with only two.] Hence, East's distribution must include four hearts to make up 13 cards. All declarer had to do was throw his losing diamond on the nine of hearts when not covered, and success would have been assured.

"When I pointed out these facts to my partner, however, he just looked at me with a blank expression.

"T. M. J., Richmond, Va."

There is nothing that need be added to my correspondent's masterly analysis. It is quite true that, after East's failure to cover the heart nine, declarer should have discarded the diamond instead of ruffing. The bidding, the fact that East had shown out of spades, and that he had played the diamond queen on the jack, made it very easy to count East's distribution. It goes without saying that East should have played the heart jack; that he should have known that his partner had the spade queen blank at this stage, and that it was vital to prevent an immediate discard on the heart nine.

The Housewife

Candles always make a dining table more attractive. And nowadays you can get adorable ones for children's parties. We saw some the other day that were carried out in pretty light colors and that were made in the form of little figures.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A smart new compact you'll undoubtedly like is ideal for summer when you want to travel light. This is light as a feather, made of one of those new metals that weighs practically nothing, but has the resistance of steel—at least where cigaret burns, perfume, or scratchy keys are concerned. It's practically impossible to mar the finish.

This compact is a small one, rectangular in shape, with a healthy sized well for loose powder and a compartment for rouge. The black one is a stunning little thing. Glossy black, its only ornament a raised rhinestone design of three little feathers. There is also a gold finish, with the same raised design in the metal rather than the rhinestones.

These are nicely priced and the kind of compact you like to own. The workmanship is good; they will stand up very well. And, though they won't scratch or leak powder, each comes in a little protective cover of suede cloth—an addition we always like.

Something else quite new under the sun is a lipstick duet, streamlined in design and practical for those who like one lipstick shade for day and a different one for evening. There are two different lipsticks in the same case, one at either end. This is regulated so that each stick is released separately. The gold end of the case is for your daytime stick, the silver end for the stick you wield under night lights.

Author Gives Some Unusual Tips on Charm

"If you wish to profit by even the slightest addition to your charm, it is well to bear in mind that you appear more youthful when standing than when sitting down.

"The reason is simple. When seated, especially in the modern, low-hung chairs, not only are you tempted by a love of comfort to assume an incorrect posture, but you are in a passive state and apt to become negative, less alert mentally. More than this, you are in a position known as one of 'physiological disadvantage.' When standing up, you are likely to be positive, alert, your posture is one of 'physiological advantage.' You are ready to act."

To understand the meaning better Burgess tells us to imagine that two men are on the verge of a quarrel which may conceivably lead to a physical conflict. Which is the more ready for it and likely to win, the man standing or the man seated?

"Women's warfare is more subtle," continues the author, "since it is one of looks and wits, but the underlying strategy is much the same with both sexes. There are social situations in which this advantage, slight though it may seem, well may be worth a woman's having, as, say, when she finds herself in competition with a younger rival. The clever woman will let the younger woman sit down while she remains standing."

SCHMELING FACES LONG STAY IN HOSPITAL

HEAT AND BATS CATCH UP TO BIG JOHN WHITEHEAD

South Siders Held to Eight Hits.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

It was 90 degrees in the shade of Comiskey park at the start of the White Sox-Senators' final yesterday and Big John Whitehead couldn't get into said shade because Manager Dykes made him start the game. Well, Big John pitched and percolated a spell and so did Frank [The Raconteur] Gabler and when the match was ended the Senators were winners, 12 to 0.

Thus ended a rather insane series from the mathematical point of view. The Senators won the opener, 7 to 0, lost the middle game, 16 to 3, and bounced back for yesterday's lopsided accomplishment.

While it was the second shutout for the Sox in three days it was only the third of the season, so that ought to make everything all right.

Make Eight Hits.

The hot weather must have been to blame yesterday in the batting as well as in the pitching department. The Senators encounter much blistering weather in Washington and everybody knows how cool it usually is here.

Though the Sox couldn't get around the bases all afternoon, they did make eight hits off Dutch Leonard, who pitched all the way for the Senators. Hayes made a double and a single, Steinbacher hit two singles, and Radcliff knocked a double and a single.

Whitehead's morning quota of ice water started popping out of his hide after he had exerted himself in striking out Case, Senator leadoff man. West walked. Lewis singled to center and reached second on the throw to third. Simmons flied to Kreevich, West scoring. Travis singled to left to score Lewis. Myer walked, but Kreevich went almost to the center field wall for Wasdell's drive.

Big John got through the second with a modicum of sweating, but started steaming again when the Senators loaded the bases with one out in the third. But he struggled bravely and checked the visitors.

Big John Sweats On.

Big John was splashing like a leaky water cart when he went to the center of the diamond in the fourth. Instead of receding, the mercury jumped a few points, making Big John a truly pathetic figure. Big John sloshed, but didn't flinch. He pitched one to Leonard, and Leonard smacked it for a double. Case sacrificed, then West doubled, Leonard scoring. Big John tottered, but gamely stepped on the mound and pitched a triple to Lewis, on which West scored.

At this point it was decided Big John had suffered enough from the weather man's whims. He was assisted to the bathhouse and refreshed by kind pals with hoses. Gabler got the side out after Lewis had scored on Simmons' fly.

Gabler held the Senators to a double by Ferrell in the fifth, but had a harrowing, torrid time of it in the sixth. Gabler walked Case, then West stroked his second double. Lewis sacrificed, Simmons tripled, Travis singled, and Myer smashed his second homer of the season. The net of all this activity was five runs.

The Senators were content with one run from singles by Leonard and Case and West's third double in the seventh, and in the eighth rounded out their total with a run produced on Travis' double, a sacrifice, and an infield out.

Cubs Halted by Rain; Face Giants Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 23.—Rain chased the Cubs away from the Phillies again this afternoon, leaving the Chicagoans a troublesome three game series with the Giants before they can return to the comforts of their own Wrigley field. The postponement today was the second in two days. Thus if rest is what the Cubs needed to revive their pennant march the results should be noticable starting tomorrow and lasting through Sunday afternoon.

The postponement didn't cause Manager Charles Grimm to make alterations in his pitching plans against the champions. When yesterday's washout relieved Larry French from an assignment, Grimm announced that the mound starters in New York would be Bill Lee in the opener, Clay Bryant in the second, and French in the final. That arrangement still is in effect. If necessary Tex Carleton, who was ticketed to labor on the mound today, can be employed in a rescue rôle.

As soon as the game was called off today Dizzy Dean delivered a clubhouse speech. The gist of it was that he was ready to throw and pitch.

Dizzy's Gotta Throw.

"To hell with that diathermy" [and he really pronounced it like a scholar] bellowed Diz. "They ain't going to get me ready by putting coats of shellac on that arm. If I'm going to pitch I gotta throw and I am going to throw."

All this, of course, was directed at Manager Grimm, who just chuckled in amusement over Dean's enthusiasm.

"Sure, I want you to pitch," replied Grimm. "All you have to do is to wait three more days and you'll be home. The physicians can tell you what to do."

Briefly, this means that Dean wants to pitch without regard for the consequences. The chances are that if he was told to pitch tomorrow he would do as well, at least for a few innings, as he will if given another month of inactivity.

Galan May Play.

There's a possibility that Augie Galan, who has been out for almost three weeks with a knee injury, will be in left field tomorrow. It depends on how the leg feels before the game and on the identity of the Giant pitcher. If Lefty Melton pitches for the Giants, Galan will be in left unless his leg is too weak. The reasoning behind this switch is that Phil Cavarretta, who has been in left field lately, isn't of much value against southpaw pitching.

Goodman and Sweetheart of His Caddy Days to Wed

Omaha, Neb., June 23.—[Special.]—Johnny Goodman, national amateur golf champion, will be married to his No. 1 fan and sweetheart, Josephine Kersigo, within two weeks. Miss Kersigo and Goodman have gone together ever since he left the caddy ranks to vanquish Bobby Jones and later win the national open and amateur crowns.

ALBRITTON SETS SIGHTS ON HIGH JUMP RECORD

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

A number of years ago a national publication devoted to geographical research made the amazing and, at that time, incredible statement that African savages were able to clear a height of eight feet at a single leap. The world's record for the high jump then was 6 feet 7 and 5-16 inches, established by E. Beeson of the United States on July 2, 1914.

Eight feet does not loom as utterly impossible today, for American colleges in the last few years have developed at least two high jumpers who have bettered seven feet. One is Dave Albritton, co-holder of the present world's mark of 6 feet 9¾ inches, who will attempt to increase the official height in the Big Ten-Pacific Coast conference dual meet in Dyche stadium in Evanston tomorrow.

Sets New National Record.

Albritton, a tall, muscular colored jumper from Ohio State, bettered seven feet no later than last Saturday in Minneapolis, where he tied for the National Collegiate championship again with an official effort of 6 feet 8¾ inches, a new meet record. Judges and coaches gathered about the standards when he cleared the winning height in Minneapolis agreed that Albritton, with a mighty swish of his hips, lifted himself at least four inches over the bar.

Mel Walker, Albritton's teammate at Ohio State last year, surpassed seven feet in sailing over the bar officially measured at 6 feet 10¾ inches in Sweden last summer. This mark has not come before the International records committee yet, but will be recognized officially at the committee's next meeting. It is this mark which Albritton has vowed to better before he quits. He barely missed in Minneapolis last week when the bar was raised from 6 feet 8¾ inches to 6 feet 10½ inches.

Rapid Progress Made.

Progress in jumping has been rapid in the last few years with a change in rules and intensive study of conditioning methods. Where it once was remarkable to find as many as three 6 foot 6 inch jumpers in a national meet, there now are a dozen. Six men, four of them colored, remained in the event in Minneapolis last week until the bar had been raised to 6 feet 8¼ inches. They were Albritton and Gil Cruter of Colorado, the defending champions, who tied for first; Delos Thurber of Southern California, who finished third in the Olympic games; Wesley Allen of Michigan; Lloyd Thompson of Xavier in New Orleans, and Ed Burke of Marquette. The last four had cleared 6 feet 7¼ inches.

INDIANA NAMES McCRACKEN NEW BASKET COACH

Selection of McCracken, basketball coach at Ball State Teachers college, Muncie, Ind., for eight years, followed a conference tonight between McCracken and President Herman B. Wells of the university.

McCracken became an outstanding center at Indiana university, where he scored 147 points in the 1929-30 season to break the Big Ten conference scoring record set by Stretch Murphy of Purdue. The mark later was broken by Johnny Wooden and Jewell Young of Purdue.

McCracken was captain of the Indiana team during the 1929-30 season, being graduated in 1930.

Coaches Expect These Boys to Score

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Jimmy Frisina, the young man from Taylorville who is associated with his father in the management of 48 theaters throughout the states of Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri, yesterday put on a one man show of his own to win the qualifying medal in the eighth Illinois state amateur golf tournament conducted by the Chicago District Golf association at the Elgin Country club. James' performance consisted of a 71—70—141, three under par for Elgin's tumbling acreage.

It was well that the 27 year old Frisina gave that 141 show, for he led two juveniles in the starting cast of 138, the largest in the history of the annual production, by only one shot. The youngsters in question are troupers themselves. They are John Holmstrom and Alex Welsh, both of Rockford. John won the Western junior last year and was runnerup in the state event two years back. Welsh is a former state interscholastic titleholder and he will be a valuable member of the University of Illinois foursome next season. John had 72—70—142 and Alex reversed his rounds for a similar total.

Barber Totals 145.

Three shots behind Welsh and Holmstrom came 126 pound Jerome Barber, a 22 year old job pressman from the Jacksonville Journal Courier, with 76—69—145. Jack Hoerner of North Shore, former Stanford university star; David Barclay, 17 year old Rockford prep graduate, and Joe Sisolak of Waukegan, former Chicago district caddy winner, all settled for 146. George Victor of Glen View, C. D. G. A. closed junior champion, snapped back with a final nine of 33 for a total of 147, which tied John Banks, one time Notre Dame captain.

Joe Fall Jr. of Sunset Ridge, captain elect of the 1939 Amherst team, smacked out a neat 69 in the morning round, but had to pitch a back nine of 36 for an 81 in the afternoon. A nine at the first hole of the second round was the chief annoyance.

Qualifying Limit of 154.

The qualifying limit for the match play bracket opening with two eighteen hole rounds today proved to be 154, thirty-one making the grade to join defending champion, Larry Moller of Quincy, former Notre Dame captain, who did not have to qualify.

In the Wake of the News

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, June 23.—Joe Louis headed for Chicago tonight with Broadway's currently popular refrain, "You Left Me Breathless," ringing in his ears. . . . He left Max Schmeling more than that. . . .

The German was confined in Polyclinic hospital with a fractured vertebra which may delay his return to Berlin indefinitly. . . . Not even the injury to his beaten opponent, however, could dim the luster of Louis' brilliant victory. . . . Chicago's former Golden Gloves champion has convinced all skeptics that he deserves a place with the other great heavyweight fighters of history—John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett, Jack Johnson, and Jack Dempsey. . . . He may be the greatest fighter the world has known. . . . Certainly no boxer ever gave a more impressive demonstration of skill than did Louis in Yankee Stadium last night. . . . In two minutes and four seconds Louis gave the throng of more than 70,000 a show it never will forget. . . . A lifetime of thrills was crowded into those few brief moments. . . .

The champion's victory was devoid of fluke or accident. . . . It was unfortunate, of course, that Schmeling, while turning away from a punch, caught a blow on the kidneys, but there was nothing foul about any of Joe's drives. . . . A kidney punch is foul only in the clinches. . . . The fighters were two feet apart when Schmeling received that damaging wallop. . . . Louis may never again reach the heights he did last night. . . . Once in every great fighter's career comes a time when he seems to have everything. . . . Last night was Die Nacht for Louis. . . . It is our guess that Joe will decline steadily. . . . He has satisfied his ambition, which was to knock out the only man who had marred his professional record. . . . He has whipped every fighter of titular consideration in the world. . . . Littered along the Louis highway are the charred bones of Carnera, Baer, Sharkey, Braddock, and Schmeling, all of whom at one time or another held the heavyweight championship. . . . He knocked out each of them, which is about all you can ask of a young man of 24, only four years out of the amateur ranks. . . . Louis stands alone. . . .

The plan of Promoter Mike Jacobs is to present Louis against Max Baer in September. . . . But we ask you, who would pay $30 or even $2 to see the Californian, who was belted out by Louis in four rounds three years ago, try to improve upon that showing? . . . We still have a vivid picture of the playboy of the boulevards, severely beaten but completely conscious, taking the count while resting on one knee at Yankee Stadium in 1935. . . . Other fans, too, apparently remember it because when the bizarre fellow who clowned his way into the heavyweight championship was introduced from the ring last night there was a heavy shower of razzberries. . . . A considerable number always have felt Baer could have made a more heroic bid for victory the last time he encountered Louis. . . . The unflattering reaction of the crowd probably was due to the fact that Baer's swaggering tactics in 1935 had led his supporters to believe that when the zero hour came he would meet it with spectacular gallantry. . . . They will be hard to convince he has changed his stripes. . . . A Louis-Baer match might be a financial success in Detroit or California. . . . We doubt if it would go in New York or Chicago. . . .

Some of the credit for Louis' remarkable showing against Schmeling must be given to Eddie Mead, veteran fight manager who helped to train the champion for his most important title defense. . . . When Mead arrived at Pompton Lakes he saw Louis' handlers were trying to make a boxer out of him. . . . One day he stopped a sparring match and said: "Joe, cut out that fancy stuff. Step in there and throw some punches. You're a fighter, not a boxer." . . . It will go down in ring history that on the night of June 22, 1938, Louis was a fighter. . . . There's at least one man who always can verify it. . . . His name is Max Schmeling. . . . O. Kay, Berlin, take him away.

Ten Years Ago Today—Johnny Farrell won the national open golf title by defeating Bobby Jones by one stroke. . . . The Cubs defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8 to 1, and moved into second place five games behind St. Louis. . . . The Detroit Tigers shoved the White Sox back into the cellar with a 6 to 0 victory.

PHYSICIAN DENIES PUNCH CAUSED SPINAL FRACTURE

Dr. I. S. Cutter Explains Schmeling Injury.

The Figures

OFFICIAL figures on the attendance and gate receipts for Wednesday night's championship fight between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling follow:

Total attendance	72,000
Paid attendance	66,227
Gross receipts	$1,015,096.17
Gross ticket sales	940,096.17
Federal tax	89,889.57
State tax	47,093.66
Net gate receipts	803,113.94
Louis' share	321,245.20
Schmeling's share	160,622.60

The fracture suffered by Max Schmeling when Joe Louis hit him on the left side could not have been caused by a blow, Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of the Northwestern university medical college and health editor of THE TRIBUNE, said yesterday.

According to the X-ray diagnosis made in New York, the transverse process on the left side of the third lumbar was fractured. The third lumbar is a segment of the spine in the small of the back. The transverse processes are knobby projections on either side of the lumbar and serve as anchoring points for the quadratus lumborum muscles running through the small of the back to the upper edge of the pelvis bone.

How Fracture Occurred.

"The transverse processes are so protected by surrounding muscles that a blow could not snap one," said Dr. Cutter. "However, the tips are frequently snapped off by violent muscular action.

"If the fracture occurred at the time Louis hit Schmeling in the side, it seems probable that as he saw the blow coming, Schmeling contracted the lumborum muscle in an instinctive recoil and then attempted to bend away, to the right, to dodge it. This would jerk the muscle while it was contracted and serve to fracture the tranverse process."

Extremely Painful Injury.

The injury, he said, is common and, while not serious, is extremely painful for a long time afterward. Ordinarily, it takes two or three months to heal and necessitates a plaster cast to prevent muscular movement from disturbing the mending process.

There is no necessity for setting this type of fracture, he said, since the muscular binding prevents the broken tip from being pulled away from its base.

KENNETH WILSON HEADS OLYMPIC TRACK OFFICIALS

Kenneth L. Wilson, Northwestern university athletic director, last night was elected chairman of the American Olympic track committee at a meeting of officials in the Chicago Athletic association. Ward Haylett of Kansas State was named secretary-treasurer, and George T. Donoghue track representative on the general Olympic committee.

The officials voted to hold the final tryouts for places on the United States team on the Pacific coast, but the city and dates were not decided.

J. Lyman Bingham was elected chairman of the basketball committee and Jim Kelly of the University of Minnesota was named secretary-treasurer. The basketball committee plans to pick its Olympic team from two tournaments. One will be a tournament conducted by the National Collegiate Athletic association and the other an open tournament.

GERMAN HIT 21 TIMES BEFORE KIDNEY BLOWS

X-Rays Show Spinal Fracture.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—Slow motion pictures today showed that Joe Louis landed twenty-one damaging punches on the jaw, stomach, and under the heart before delivering the two vicious rights to the kidney region that helped to send Max Schmeling to Polyclinic hospital with one of the bones of his spinal column fractured. The German heavyweight, who was knocked out in the first round in Yankee stadium last night, was resting comfortably tonight.

When the two kidney punches landed Schmeling was backed against the ropes and turning away to a crouch to protect his chin. It was while he was turning that Louis hammered him with the two kidney blows.

Experts, who watched a preview of the fight films, generally were of the opinion that Schmeling suffered his shock in falling the first time. As he dropped under the rain of short lefts and crushing chops to the head, he half tumbled, rolling over on his shoulders. After he arose, he seemed dazed, but still had enough left to throw a left and right—one of which caught Louis on the kidneys—but the champion measured him and then nailed him with a left, right, and left to the jaw that snapped Schmeling's head back so hard it seemed as if it would roll off.

Those Damaging Wallops.

Louis' first punch was a left hook that caught Max squarely on the forehead and pushed him back. He piled in and drove him to the ropes with a short right to the chin and then got in his three hardest and most disastrous blows—a left, right, and left to the body that folded Max up. It was then he leaned against the ropes, absorbing terrific punishment and the two kidney blows.

X-ray photographs today showed that the bone affected was in the transverse process of the third lumbar veterbra. A transverse process is a knobby protuberance which holds the long muscle of the back in place.

A bulletin issued by Polyclinic hospital this evening said:

"Schmeling's temperature and respiration are normal, and he is resting quite comfortably. He must remain under observation for several days, but the prognosis is favorable."

Talk of Return Bout.

Not only were Schmeling's temperature and respiration both described as normal, but he was sufficiently self-possessed to demand a shave while his associates, including Joe Jacobs as American spokesman, forecast a rapid recovery and talked optimistically of demands for a third match with Louis to settle all question of supremacy.

The latest hospital statement, while saying Schmeling must remain under observation for several days, gave no forecast as the ultimate period of recovery required. Medical authorities were as reluctant to make a guess as to whether Schmeling could attempt a pugilistic comeback as they were to suggest just how the injury developed.

No Complications Develop.

Schmeling's injury is not as critical or serious as at first believed. The possibility of a hemorrhage in the kidney region caused early apprehension, but no complications developed during the day.

In his dressing room after being battered by the flying fists of Louis, Schmeling said he had been paralyzed by a blow to the kidney. The German said this was the second blow struck by the champion, and he attributed all that happened thereafter to inability to move his body.

No one inferred that this kidney blow was outside of the bounds of attack permitted under the Queensberry code and the regulations of the New York athletic commission until Schmeling, in his explanations to reporters, used the word foul. Max Machon, Schmeling's confidant and trainer, also used the same word.

Schmeling forgot that this kidney blow is not illegal and was unaware that it was not the second blow of the fight. This punch may have hastened the end, but it was a barrage of left hooks and short, jolting rights to the German's head that drove him relentlessly to the ropes and forced him to turn sideways in a vain effort to escape the storm.

In this position Schmeling was defenseless. And Louis, in whose mind smoldered the memory of the terrific punishment he had received two years ago in this same ring from the same man, smashed his glove to Schmeling's ribs with the force of a sledge.

Sags Against Ropes.

To the 72,000, one of the largest fight crowds ever to jam its way into Yankee stadium, this blow was only one of many in the vicious assault. They saw, of course, that Schmeling sagged against the ropes, his right arm hooked over the top

TALKED ABOUT'S SPEED IS TALK OF RACE FANS

Wright Star Comes from Behind to Win.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The 9,000 racegoers who were at Lincoln Fields yesterday will vote solidly today for Talked About from Warren Wright's Calumet Farm stable. He's a courageous horse with a great heart.

It wasn't the three quarters he ran in 1:10 3-5—fastest race of the year in Chicago—while winning the Wacker Drive purse that impressed them so much. The way he performed the trick was the thing that won him the votes.

Talked About was matched with the best sprinters at the track. John Marsch's speedy Kings Blue was in against him. So was Shining Heels, Marmara, Cardarrone, and Solar Hawk.

Talked About Pinched Back.

The Wright colorbearer broke on the inside next to the rail. Cardarrone and Kings Blue outran him for a furlong and by the time the field hit the lower bend Talked About was pinched back. Jocky Irving Anderson took him up, lost a length and a half in doing it then came around on the outside.

Fleet Talked About was equal to the big job. Despite a first half mile that had been run in the scorching time of :45 4-5, his nose was in front by the time the field straightened out for the run down the home stretch.

Then he gradually pulled away from his rivals to beat Kings Blue by a length and a half and to smother all the others by from four to a dozen lengths. Marmara got up in the final strides to finish third ahead of Shining Heels.

Misses Track Record.

Talked About's six furlongs was just three-fifths of a second off the track record which has stood for a number of years. The Wright colt had hundreds of backers in the crowd and was the post time favorite. He paid $5.20 for a $2 ticket.

It was his final serious warmup for the Inaugural handicap to be run at Arlington Park next Monday afternoon. He will have Count Morse and possibly Crossbow II. running with him as stable companions. If he runs back to this dash he will not need help to win the opening stake of the Arlington season.

Another horse that once was prominent in the Wright racing jacket performed nobly during the afternoon. However, he long ago was discarded by the Calumet farm and now races for A. G. Tarn, the Canadian horseman.

Withstands Severe Challenge.

This steed was Bomber, a son of Man o' War-Black Carse. He was in the Gary purse, a route affair at a mile and a furlong. He stepped to the front at the start and stayed there all the way, but had to be ridden hard in the final stages to withstand the challenge from Indian Head. Bomber was the winner by a nose. Stepahead finished third. This also was a fast run race, the son of Man o' War covering the long route in 1:52. He was ridden by Jocky Paul Ryan. He, too, was stoutly backed, paying off finally at $6.80 for $2.

There may be eighteen starters—largest field of the year to compete for a Chicago turf prize—in the Inaugural Handicap to be run at Arlington Park Monday afternoon.

The race at seven furlongs carries an added money prize of $3,500 and it likely will bring to the front the best sprinter of the year in this country.

Warren Wright's Calumet farm entry, which includes Count Morse, Talked About, and Cross Bow II., probably will rule as the favorite. Count Morse has been assigned 123 pounds, top weight.

GIANTS POUND VANDER MEER, BUT REDS WIN

Move to Second with 8-5 Triumph.

New York, June 23.—(AP)—Young Johnny Vander Meer was driven from the mound for the first time in seven starts today, but his teammates' early hitting and Joe Cascarella's relief pitching were enough to save his eighth straight victory as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Giants, 8 to 5.

The victory gave the Reds the series, two games to one, and sliced the Giants' National league lead to a game and a half over the Reds, who returned to second place since the Chicago Cubs were idle.

HITLER SENDS SYMPATHY TO MRS. SCHMELING

BERLIN, June 23.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler sent a message of sympathy today to Anny Ondra, blonde actress wife of Max Schmeling, and Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels sent a bouquet of flowers.

Miss Ondra, who had booked passage to go to the side of Schmeling, canceled reservations after talking to her husband by telephone.

"It's terrible that punches like that are permitted," said Miss Ondra of the blow that injured Max. "I didn't know that they were allowed.

"I don't think this is sport any longer, but rather a fight for life. Thank God he will not be lamed permanently. If he thinks he can take a third chance with Louis he is mistaken."

Knott to Pitch for Sox Today Against Macks

Jack Knott, recently acquired from the Browns, will pitch for the White Sox in the opener against the Athletics in Comiskey park this afternoon. His opponent is expected to be Luther Thomas.

Zeke Bonura, who failed to get anything that resembled a hit in the first two games of the series, got splinters in his pants yesterday.

Umpire McGowan, who specializes in wardrobe inspections, expanded his activities yesterday when he halted the game, went to the Sox bench, and complained the arrangement of bats was untidy. And he was right—they were untidy and too numerous, considering the use the Sox made of them.

Today will be Ladies' day at Comiskey park.

GIRLS' TEAMS TO PLAY.

The Erin Brew Girls of Cleveland, O., former world's softball champions and for the last four seasons Cleveland titleholders, will play the Chicago Down Draft Girls tomorrow and Sunday nights in Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets.

THE METALLIC NOSE KNOWS

Scientists use a sensitive osmoscope to measure odor . . . to record its intensity and lasting power. Ten popular brands of 5¢ cigars were tested by this machine. White Owl was easier on the breath than all the others. After 30 minutes, all trace of tobacco odor disappeared from the breath of White Owl smokers.

Smokers' Test showed Vintage Tobacco was easier on your breath

WHITE OWLS are definitely easier on your breath—scientific tests proved it. And there's a good reason why, too. Every White Owl always has a Vintage-tobacco filler. Nature—not artificial factory processing—made this tobacco exceptionally mild, mellow.

We maintain a vast crop-inspection system—the only known organization of its kind—to locate Vintage tobacco. Even in Vintage years, we classify all filler tobacco into seven grades—and buy only tobacco of the quality of the top three for use in White Owls.

Switch to White Owls today and taste the rich Vintage tobacco . . . then notice how quickly your breath clears.

Harvard Crew Beats Yale to Open Regatta

New London, Conn., June 23.—[Special.]—Yale and Harvard started tonight on the last quarter of the first century of the oldest rivalry in American intercollegiate sport. Late this afternoon, over the upper two miles of the four mile course, the combination crews started the seventy-sixth Yale-Harvard regatta.

This first race produced something of an upset when Harvard came through with a victory by 2½ lengths. Yale had been strongly favored in this event. Harvard's time was 10 minutes and 7 seconds, with Yale clocked at 10:15.

Tomorrow morning, over the middle two miles downstream, the freshmen will start off the day of racing at 9 o'clock, Chicago time. Half hour later the junior varsities will follow over the same course and then there comes the long wait for the varsity oarsmen, who race their four miles early in the evening.

Harvard's varsity, paced by the excellent Spike Chace and undefeated in a long preliminary season, is undoubtedly one of the great crews of the season and the logical favorite. But Yale, also undefeated, is very much in the picture tonight on the eve of the main races.

Clark Returns to Start Boxing Board Duties

Sheldon Clark returned yesterday afternoon from the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling bout anxious to assume his new duties as a member of the Illinois boxing commission. The wealthy Chicago sportsman fills the vacancy created by the death of George Getz last February.

Indications are Clark will be inducted into office July 5.

Joe Triner, chairman of the commission, plans to curtail a business trip in the east to be on hand for the ceremony. James R. Fitzpatrick, the third member of the board, will come back from New York today, accompanied by his wife, Florence, and son, Jimmy.

Meanwhile, Joe Foley, co-promoter with Mike Jacobs of the Louis-Braddock championship fight in Comiskey park last summer, is confident the Baer-Louis rematch will be held in Chicago next September despite opposition in some quarters.

Max Baer will open a one week refereeing tour in Massachusetts Monday, using Boston as his base of operations. . . . Everett Marshall will meet Abie Kaplan in the windup bout of the wrestling show co-promoted by Joe Coffey and Paul Paloski in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. Kaplan, Jewish heavyweight, has won three previous Chicago starts. Supporting bouts bring together Jerry Gordon and Jimmy Jaros, Frenchy LaMarre and Jack Ross, Dick Stahl and Steve Savage, Rudy Hoffman, and George Mack. . . .

Amateur boxing shows will be held this evening in Madison-Cicero outdoor arena, 4820 Madison street; Western stadium, 6436 North Western avenue, and Northwest stadium, 4848 Irving Park boulevard. Gary and Chicago boxers will meet in a series of intercity contests in the Madison-Cicero club. Jerry Authorious, Northwest gymnasium featherweight, battles Sammy Consolo of the 124th Field Artillery armory in a five round headliner in the Western arena. . . .

Jack Dempsey will celebrate his 43d birthday today. . . . Nick Camarata, New Orleans, La., lightweight, who held Lew Feldman to a draw this week, has agreed to meet Davey Day in ten rounds in Marigold Gardens July 11. . . . Verne Patterson has been forced to refuse a match with Johnny Barbara in Sparta stadium next Wednesday because of a cut mouth, received in scoring a victory Monday. . . . Leo Rodak, recognized as the new featherweight champion by the Maryland Athletic association following his fifteen round conquest of Jackie Wilson, will appear against a suitable challenger in Baltimore July 11. . . . Budge Wins in 2 Matches at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England, June 23.—(AP)—Don Budge returned to his incomparable best on the center court today but a fighting little, fair haired American, Owen Anderson of Los Angeles, was the story of the day at the all-England tennis tournament.

Beaten at the baseline by the stinging drives of Ferenc Puncec of Jugo-Slavia and two sets down before he became accustomed to the pace, Anderson began storming the net and he carried the fifth seeded player deep into the fifth set before losing, 7-5, 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 6-4.

Budge Leaves Baseline.

Budge, evidently inspired by a capacity crowd, at last deserted the baseline to beat the gigantic Irishman, G. Lyttleton Rogers, 6-0, 7-5, 6-1. Rogers' services aced the Californian seven times in the second set but that was the only time Budge was not in complete control of his third round opponent.

Helen Jacobs, former champion, who collapsed yesterday, also came back to something like her normal form. Helen fought bravely against Joan Ingram of England, outlasting her to win, 9-7, 6-3.

The only defeat that really caused a stir was the elimination of the third seeded combination of Gene Mako of Los Angeles and Jadwiga Jedrzejowska of Poland in the second round of the mixed doubles. They lost to the English pair of Joan Saunders and Ronald Shayes, 6-3, 6-2. Mako, however, won his third round singles match, defeating Henderson Brooks, England, 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2.

Helen Moody Attracts Crowd.

Mlle. Jedrzejowska had a pretty bad day, for she also lost in the women's doubles. With Mrs. M. A. Thomas as her partner, the Polish girl lost to the American team of Sarah Palfrey Fabyan and Alice Marble, 7-5, 6-3.

Helen Wills Moody, as usual, drew a crowd, though she was playing in the mixed doubles with the French veteran, Jean Borotra. They eliminated Roderich Menzel, Czechoslovakian star and Mrs. P. Howard of England, 6-3, 6-4. Budge, who with Miss Marble forms the No. 1 seeded pair in the mixed doubles, had an easy time in their second round match. The all-American team didn't lose a single game to Mrs. M. R. King and Donald MacPhail of England.

SCHMELING HIT 21 TIMES BEFORE BLOWS TO KIDNEY

strand to prevent him from falling. They watched Referee Arthur Donovan push Louis away and momentarily give Schmeling a reprieve.

Then the roaring throng saw a series of blows to the head crash the challenger to the floor. At the count of four Schmeling came to his feet, staggering, gazing vacantly around the ringside which spun before his bewildered eyes. Agair Louis attacked and this time Schmeling dropped to his knees. Before the timekeeper counted, Schmeling was erect.

Another right to the jaw and Schmeling sprawled to the canvas. Trainer Max Machon hurled a towel into the ring to indicate surrender. Such action no longer is permitted, for only the referee may stop a fight before the count of ten in New York. Neither was it necessary, for when Donovan turned after throwing the towel aside he saw at once that Schmeling was through.

Denies Claim of Foul.

"Louis hit Schmeling in the left kidney," Donovan said. "It was not a foul. The kidney punch is illegal only when it is delivered in a clinch. Louis was at least two feet away from Max when he swung his right hand.

"Louis threw the same blow in the fight two years ago and Schmeling complained. I told him then it was not a foul and to fight. The blow last night must have hurt Max terribly. He was almost screaming from pain. But it was not a foul.

"Why did I push Louis away when Schmeling was hanging to the rope?" Donovan repeated the question.

From the press section it seemed as if the referee was about to start a count.

"When a man is helpless against the ropes I consider it a knockdown. It is the only way to give him a chance to come back and make a fight of it," Donovan explained.

German Plainly Whipped.

It was unfortunate, of course, that Schmeling was injured. According to physicians in the hospital, where a strict censorship was established shortly after the German arrived early this morning, it may be weeks before he can leave his bed. But it does not alter the fact that last night, before Schmeling rocketed to the ropes in anguish, he was whipped.

Schmeling didn't land a real blow in his effort to regain the heavyweight championship of the world. One blow, a short, straight right hand, the same punch which started Louis on the way to a knockout two years ago, whistled toward the Brown Bomber's jaw. But Louis said afterward he was pulling away and that the effect was no more than a light tap.

Pauses After Blow.

Even so, that punch, in retaliation to Louis' left hand lead, brought a pause. The champion hesitated. There was time to wonder whether he would recoil in memory of his previous defeat, but in a moment Louis stepped forward in relentless pursuit.

It was agreed that Louis must attack to win and that this attack would cover his defensive weakness against Schmeling's right. Louis did carry the fight to the German and he won.

Louis was razor keen in his marksmanship. Only two blows in the first 20 seconds failed of the target. In two minutes and four seconds, the shortest heavyweight title fight in history, the Brown Bomber erased the memory of Schmeling's victory two years ago. Last night the thousands saw the fight they had expected to see in 1936.

Today Louis stands without an equal. At 24 years of age, and in four years, he has earned more than a million dollars. He has knocked out Primo Carnera, Max Baer, Jack Sharkey, Jim Braddock, and Schmeling, all of whom once held the throne from which Louis now surveys his subjects.

Mike Jacobs, promoter of all these fights, now seeks to arrange a return match with Baer. That fight, about which Jacobs conferred with Louis' managers last night and again today, will be held in September.

BEARS TRADE FEATHERS FOR FOUR DODGERS

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, and Dan Topping, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today made a deal that sends Half Back Beattie Feathers, for four years an outstanding Chicago player, to Brooklyn, in exchange for two line men and two backs.

Halas also purchased Lester Corzine, a full back, from the New York Giants. Corzine, a former captain at Davis Elkins college, has been a full back with the Giants for four years.

The Brooklyn players who will come to the Bears for Feathers are Vannie Albanese, 190 pound half back who was a point scoring whirlwind at Syracuse two years ago; Bert Johnson, 215 pound full back from Kentucky university two years ago; Leroy Monsky, all southern guard at Alabama last year, and John Yerzerski, 230 pound guard from St. Mary's college, California.

Pollard, Seabiscuit's Jocky, Breaks Leg in Fall

Boston, Mass., June 23.—[Special.]—Jocky Red Pollard, who was scheduled to ride C. S. Howard's Seabiscuit in the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap next Wednesday at Suffolk Downs, suffered a fractured left leg when he fell today while exercising Modern Youth, a 2 year old horse owned by a friend. Physicians said the jocky will be unable to ride for six weeks.

STOCK PRICES RUN UP AGAIN IN HEAVY TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 23.—The stock market advance continued unchecked today and prices soared 1 to 6 points in the active issues. Buying orders from all parts of the country resulted in the liveliest session since last December. It was the fourth successive day of rising prices.

Sales totaled 2,403,270 shares, with the pressure of business so heavy at one time the ticker was forced six minutes behind floor trading. On that occasion the normal functioning of the ticker was broken to flash floor quotations for some of the leaders, as promised by the exchange authorities earlier in the year in the event the tape was more than five minutes late. It was the exchange's first opportunity to try out the system.

Runup Surprise to Many.

Many brokers and traders were surprised by the runup today. Some said that the rise appeared to be in response to numerous indications that the business slump may have touched bottom. These included new boosts in the prices of lead and zinc following advances yesterday; forecasts that tomorrow's report of freight loadings would show an upturn; brisker buying of textiles; indications that Washington authorities would rush the $4,000,000,000 "spend-lend" program to action, and hopes that railroads may pare expenses with wage cuts.

Another factor, it was said, was the ability of the market to take in stride the various efforts at profit taking and short selling and to continue the advance. Purchases for European account also helped the movement, it was reported.

Assert Market Was Sold Out.

Others offered the explanation that the market was in a "sold out" condition Monday when broad buying set in. For many weeks the market had been dull, traders were sitting idly on the sidelines, and there was little stock for sale. Even the severe break in the rails last week failed to generate much general selling.

Observers said that when a few buyers started acquiring shares Monday they found the markets so thin and offerings so scarce that prices went up easily. Rising prices, in turn, generated short covering and this activity attracted still more buying.

Carrier shares again assumed leadership of the entire list in the early trading and registered the largest gains, on the average. The Dow-Jones figure for twenty representative rails closed at 24.60, a gain of 2.14. The rise was 3.41 in the industrial aver-

Brokers Lay Gloom Aside; Trade Booms

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

As activity in the security markets rose to a new high level for 1938 and stock prices advanced again—for the fourth consecutive day—brokers in La Salle street yesterday paused to take account of the week's encouraging developments.

Ten days ago La Salle street could find nothing hopeful in the business and market outlook. With their commission business ebbing rapidly because of the near paralysis of the market, brokers were preparing new economy measures, including pay reductions and "Scotch holidays" [vacations without pay] for their employés.

Now, however, despair has vanished in the rush of business which brokers have been called on to handle this week.

House Rescinds Pay Cut.

One La Salle street house notified its workers yesterday that it was rescinding a 10 per cent pay cut which was put into effect June 20. Contemplated cuts in clerical staffs of several houses have been abandoned. As yet business has not waranted the hiring of employés but inquiries indicated that a continuation of the present rate of trading activity will necessitate the calling back soon of some of the workers laid off in recent months.

The swift reversal in the trend of stock prices, which began Monday, caught the majority of brokers completely unprepared. Saturday's trading on the New York Stock exchange had reached the lowest ebb in 20 years. That fact had been particularly discouraging to security brokers and dealers, who have been operating unprofitably for several weeks.

Appraise Reasons for Upturn.

With acute hindsight brokers yesterday were busy explaining to their customers that the upturn in the market was a perfectly natural development—one that was long overdue. Reappraising recent developments, they pointed out the following factors which are believed to have contributed to the sudden market shift:

Release of new government money under the spend-lend act, which is calculated to have an inflationary effect on business.

Emphatic denials by high administration officials that the United States is considering further currency devaluation, which is said to have bolstered the confidence of investors.

Foreign Capital Attracted.

The unsettled international outlook, which is reported to have attracted additional foreign capital to this country for investment in American securities.

The psychological effect of the steps taken by the treasury and the federal reserve board to increase the volume of lendable bank funds, including desterilization of the treasury's inactive gold fund, and the lowering of reserve requirements for banks by the reserve authorities.

Indications of a better outlook in the steel industry.

The source of the buying that has come into the market since Monday is a mystery to most brokers. Public participation in the market has been at low ebb for months. Monday's rise in prices revived the interest of speculators who had been on the sidelines for months, but they did not provide the initial impulse for the rise. Observers were inclined to think that a trickle of foreign buying was an important factor in starting the market up, after which speculative buying increased rapidly, adding momentum to the movement.

The Tribune average of twenty stocks advanced 0.41 to close at 9.62, highest closing average since March 4, when it stood at 9.75.

Yesterday's volume leader was Middle West, which advanced ⅛ to 6⅜ on sales of 7,100 shares. Other utilities also gained, with Commonwealth Edison up ¼ at 26¼ and Cities Service closing ¾ higher at 9¾.

Marshall Field climbed ¾ to 9⅜ on a turnover of 2,700 shares, and Zenith Radio was ⅞ higher at 14. Showing gains of ⅛ were Butler Brothers at 7½ and Chicago Corporation at 2⅛, both in active trading.

Edison rights closed 2 cents higher at 36 cents. Trading in the rights which expire today will be on a cash basis only in today's trading.

Of the 113 issues traded yesterday, 83 advanced, 12 declined, and 18 were unchanged. The number of stocks traded was the largest since March 31, when 120 issues figured in the session.

RAIL UNIONS ASK DELAY IN PARLEY OVER WAGE CUT

Washington, D. C., June 23.—(AP)—The Railway Labor Executives' association asked railroad managements today to put off a conference on a proposed 15 per cent wage slash until July 20.

The association sent a letter to H. A. Enochs, chairman of the carriers' joint conference committee in Philadelphia, advising him that negotiations between labor and management on the individual rail properties were not completed. The carriers had suggested June 28 as a conference date.

The association advised Enochs that the rail labor heads representing twenty-one brotherhoods would meet the conference committee on June 28 if necessary, but, in view of the unfinished negotiations on individual properties, asked that the wage conference be put off until July 20.

Fenner & Beane to Open Three Midwest Offices

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—Fenner & Beane, members of the New York Stock exchange, will open branch offices in Milwaukee, Wis., Davenport, Ia., and Rockford, Ill., on July 1, it was announced today.

METALS PRICES LEAD NEW RISE IN COMMODITIES

Cash Sales, Futures Contracts Higher.

Commodity markets continued their decisive advance yesterday, led by further boosts in the spot price of steel scrap, lead, zinc and export copper. Most futures prices also climbed.

The sale of steel scrap in Pittsburgh at $12.50 to $13 a ton for the No. 1 heavy melting grade marked the third advance of the week and was a jump of 50 cents to $1 a ton over the range on Wednesday. Scrap dealers predicted that the market would settle around the $13 mark in anticipation of mill buying in the fall.

Lead was marked up to 4.35 cents a pound, New York, from 4.25 cents, after Wednesday's increase of 0.25 cents. Zinc suppliers advanced the price of prime western zinc 0.15 cent a pound to 4.40 cent, compared with the 4 cent level maintained prior to Wednesday.

Export Copper Higher.

Export copper ranged up to 9.23 cents a pound yesterday, compared with a range of 9.06 to 9.18 cents on the preceding day.

Reflecting this strength in spot markets, metal futures moved higher. Copper contracts closed up 0.12 to 0.15 cents a pound. Lead contracts gained 0.14 to 0.16 cent, and zinc futures were 0.17 to 0.18 cent higher.

Contracts for futures delivery of tin advanced 0.15 cent in spite of an unfavorable report on production and consumption by the international tin research and development council. The report showed that world apparent consumption of tin in the first four months of this year dropped to 52,700 tons from 67,500 in the comparable 1937 period, but that world production fell less, dropping to 57,800 tons from 62,300. The consumption drop was heaviest in this country, where it fell 45 per cent to 18,187 tons.

Other Future Prices Higher.

Moving higher yesterday in futures trading were rubber, hides, cocoa, wool tops, cottonseed oil, sugar, and milk contracts. Coffee futures were irregular. Rubber contracts spurted 0.23 to 0.31 cent a pound, with the July delivery finishing at 13.60 cents. The price of smoked ribbed spot rubber advanced to 13.60 cents from 13.25 on Wednesday.

Hides advanced, with gains ranging from 0.11 to 0.40 cent a pound in Chicago, and from 0.03 to 0.13 cent in New York. Chicago sales totaled 880,000 pounds. The spot in Chicago hide market was reported active with sales ½ cent a pound higher.

The Dow-Jones index of commodity futures closed 0.36 higher yesterday at 48.70 [1924-'26 equals 100]. The Associated Press index of thirty-five weighted wholesale cash commodities advanced to 66.04 from 65.83 on Wednesday. [1926 equals 100.]

COTTON GOODS PRICES HIGHER; BUYING ACTIVE

New York, June 23.—(AP)—The biggest buying movement in unfinished cotton goods since early in the year brought about a general advance in printcloth prices today.

Worth street brokers reported buyers willing to pay ⅛ cent a yard overnight boosts in various constructions. Fine goods also were in active demand.

So far this week mills have sold more than 65,000,000 yards of print cloths and related items, or the equivalent of four times the present weekly rate of production.

Demand for wool goods was better than in some time and buyers found many mills unable to make delivery in August against current order. There was also more activity in rayon goods. Silk prices were higher and demand for hosiery showed signs of expanding.

Bond Prices Rise in Biggest Trade of Year

New York, June 23.—[Special.]—In the heaviest trading so far this year domestic corporation bonds moved upward vigorously today on the New York Stock exchange. Railroad obligations continued to hold the market leadership and pivotal issues in that group made gains of 1 to 7 points.

Transactions totaled $10,703,000, largest since Dec. 29, when the turnover exceeded $13,000,000. The total was $8,147,900 on Wednesday. Activity in corporate issues accounted for the larger part of the increased sales.

United States government obligations provided the only conspicuous exception to the upward trend, trading both on the stock exchange and in the outside market resulting in rather substantial declines in the treasury bonds. On a turnover of $549,000 on the stock exchange closing quotations showed declines of 2-32ds to 9-32ds point. Traders were reported unable to explain the sudden weakness satisfactorily.

Widest advances among railroad liens were shown by B. & O. 5s, up 4½ at 29; Southern Railway consolidated 5s, up 4 at 57; Northern Pacific 5s, up 4 at 57; New York Central Consolidated 4s, 3⅞ ahead at 59¾, and Great Northern 4½s of 1977 at 72¾, up 3¾.

Traders were influenced by an estimate of increased carloadings, indications of a settlement of the wage dispute in the carrier industry, and expectations of better business despite the statement of General Motors that its summer shutdown would be three weeks longer than last season's.

Foreign dollar obligations were firm to slightly higher in quiet trading. Fractional to point gains ruled over a broad list of southern American bonds.

Bonds on the Curb exchange were generally higher under the leadership of public utility issues.

SEARS-ROEBUCK SALES SHOW LARGER DECLINE FROM 1937 FIGURES

Sears, Roebuck & Co., yesterday reported that sales for the fifth period of its fiscal year, the four weeks ended June 18 were 18.9 per cent less than during the corresponding period in 1937. This is the largest percentage drop reported by the big mail order house this year, comparing with declines of 14.9 per cent in the preceding four weeks and 11.4 per cent for the first 20 weeks of the fiscal year through June 18.

Sales totaled $39,809,726 in the four weeks ended June 18, compared with $49,097,436 in the corresponding four weeks of last year. For the 20 weeks ended June 18 aggregate sales were $189,084,824, against the $213,346,125 reported in the corresponding part of 1937.

SeaboardRoad Orders 9 New Diesel Engines

Chicagoans who spend their winters in Florida will gain little from the Seaboard Air Line's expected movement.

The new Diesel electrics will be built in the La Grange plant of the Electro-Motive corporation, a subsidiary of the General Motors corporation, at a cost of approximately $1,500,000. Each of the locomotives will be of 1,800 horsepower similar in type to the high speed engines the company has built for the Santa Fe, Rock Island, Burlington, and other railroads.

The first of the new locomotives will be delivered about Oct. 1.

Officials of the Seaboard in New York refused to disclose what use would be made of the locomotives, but in Chicago railroad circles it was said that streamliners may be put in service to cut the time from the east to the Florida winter resort section.

UTILITY PROFITS VARY WIDELY IN LAST 12 MONTHS

Some Report Gains, Others Declines.

Divergent results for utility operating companies in April and in the 12 months ended April 30 and May 31 were shown yesterday in interim earnings statements. Several reported increased profits, but others showed declines.

Bernard W. Lynch.

With operating revenues in April falling to $8,253,419 from $8,867,237 in April, last year, the Standard Gas and Electric company's net income slipped to $63,393 from $620,765. This brought net income for the first four months to $822,076, compared with $2,367,421 in the like 1937 period. For the 12 months to April 30, net earnings were $1,792,005, against $4,334,601 in the preceding 12 months.

Lynch Analyzes Results.

Bernard W. Lynch, president, said in a message to security holders that the decrease was attributable largely to the Philadelphia company system, which serves the Pittsburgh industrial area. Philadelphia company reported earnings for the 12 months to April 30 of $6,385,677, compared with $8,505,645 in the preceding 12 months.

Net income of the Tennessee Electric Power company, a unit of the Commonwealth and Southern system, increased for the 12 months ended May 31 to $2,700,132, compared with $2,325,609 in the preceding 12 months. Georgia Power company, another Commonwealth and Southern unit, had a drop in net income to $4,368,393 from $5,215,229 in the 12 months ended May 31, 1937. A third subsidiary, Alabama Power, showed net income of $3,464,824 for the period, against $4,081,898 in the preceding 12 months.

Indiana Utility Earns More.

Northern Indiana Public Service company's net profit advanced to $2,002,754 in the year ended May 31, compared with $1,949,596 in the preceding year. In the first five months of 1938, however, profit declined to

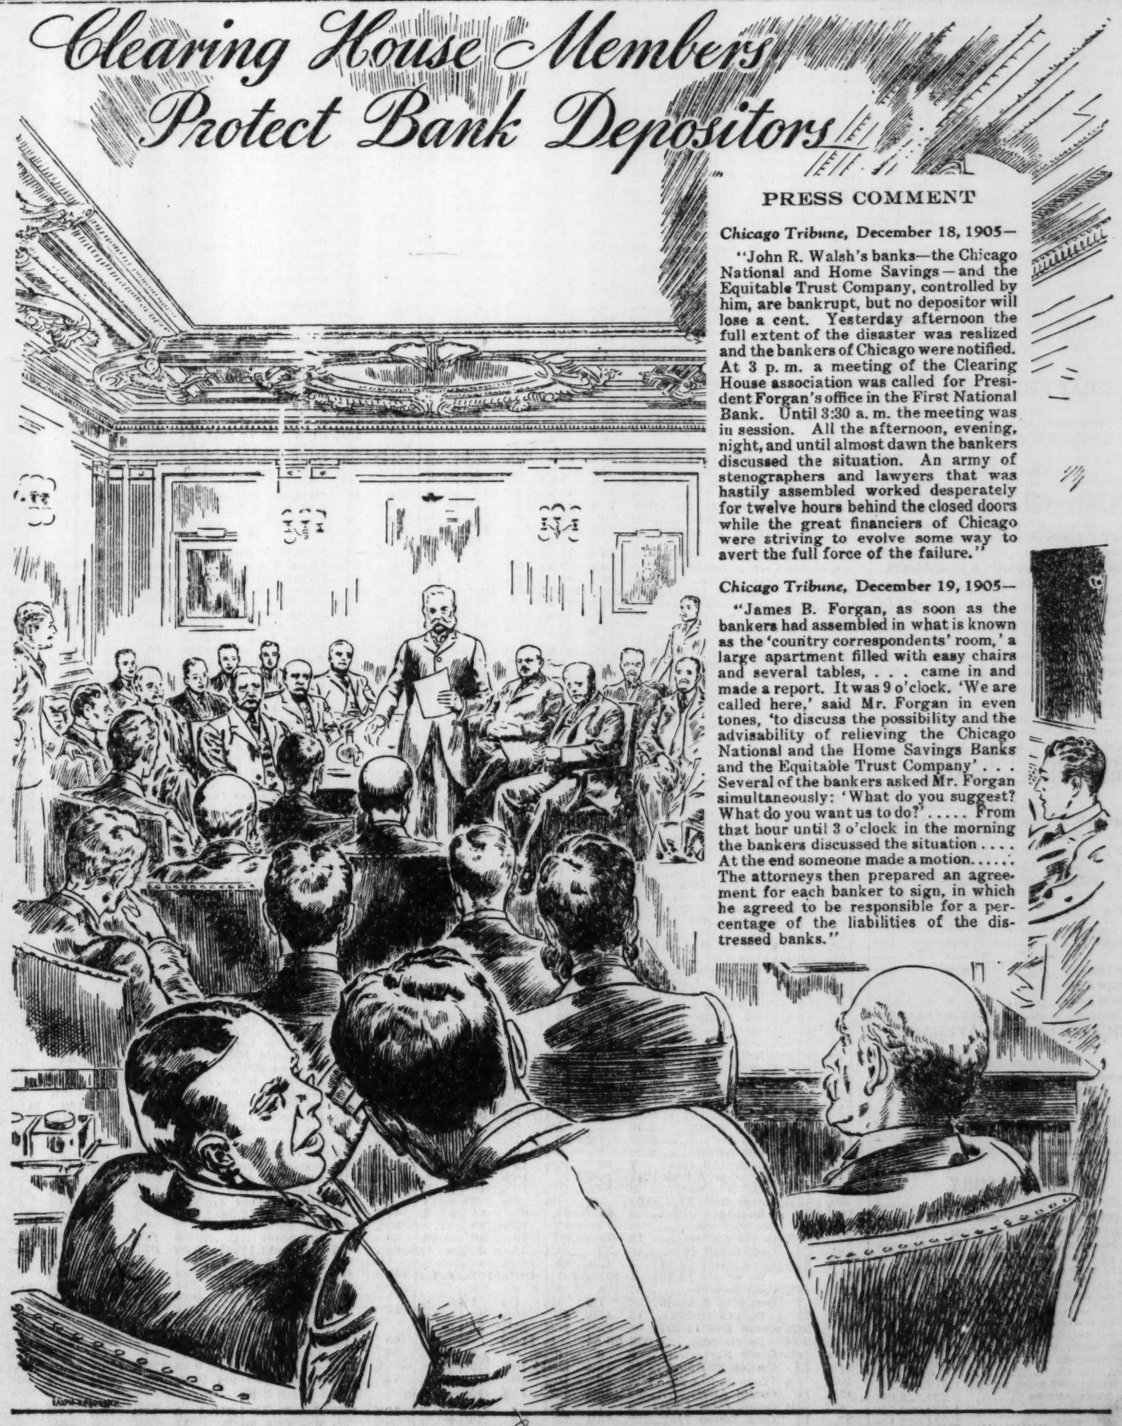
Clearing House Members Protect Bank Depositors



PRESS COMMENT

Chicago Tribune, December 18, 1905—

"John R. Walsh's banks—the Chicago National and Home Savings—and the Equitable Trust Company, controlled by him, are bankrupt, but no depositor will lose a cent. Yesterday afternoon the full extent of the disaster was realized and the bankers of Chicago were notified. At 3 p. m. a meeting of the Clearing House association was called for President Forgan's office in the First National Bank. Until 3:30 a. m. the meeting was in session. All the afternoon, evening, night, and until almost dawn the bankers discussed the situation. An army of stenographers and lawyers that was hastily assembled worked desperately for twelve hours behind the closed doors while the great financiers of Chicago were striving to evolve some way to avert the full force of the failure."

Chicago Tribune, December 19, 1905—

"James B. Forgan, as soon as the bankers had assembled in what is known as the 'country correspondents' room,' a large apartment filled with easy chairs and several tables, . . . came in and made a report. It was 9 o'clock. 'We are called here,' said Mr. Forgan in even tones, 'to discuss the possibility and the advisability of relieving the Chicago National and the Home Savings Banks and the Equitable Trust Company' . . . Several of the bankers asked Mr. Forgan simultaneously: 'What do you suggest? What do you want us to do?' . . . . . From that hour until 3 o'clock in the morning the bankers discussed the situation . . . . At the end someone made a motion. . . . . The attorneys then prepared an agreement for each banker to sign, in which he agreed to be responsible for a percentage of the liabilities of the distressed banks."

age and 0.15 point surge in utilities.

Gains in the rails ran to 2 points, with New York Central, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Baltimore and Ohio popular trading mediums. A spectacular 7 point jump for Union Pacific featured the group. The announcement by a director of the Baltimore and Ohio road that the line would meet the July 1 interest provided a stimulant for its securities.

Chrysler proved another favorite today, gaining 3¾ points. Other motors, notably General Motors and Yellow Truck, worked substantially higher in active trading.

Chemicals made big gains. Allied ran up 5½ points, du Pont rose 3½, and Air Reduction and Union Carbide each added more than 2 points. Equally large gains were registered by the farm implement shares, with Case, up 4 points, showing the way.

Moving in good demand, General Electric, among the electrical equipments, worked modestly higher, but Westinghouse advanced 3½ points. Power and light shares turned active and higher in the afternoon after lagging in the morning. The announcement by Public Works Administrator Harold Ickes that forty-nine power projects for which applications are pending with his agency would be held up until the administration's power policy has been clarified was regarded as favorable to the group. Net gains were mostly fractional, however.

United States Steel common met the best demand of the day to register a gain of 2¾ points. Bethlehem and National were other steels to net more than 2 points. Advances in Republic, Youngstown, and Crucible ranged up to 2 points.

In the coppers, Anaconda was leader with an upturn of 1⅛ points. American Smelting, International Nickel, and Kennecott closed at gains ranging from fractions to 2 points. Oils and rubbers worked modestly higher. United States Rubber gained 1½ points on good demand.

Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck continued buoyant in the merchandising group, rising 1¼ and 1⅝ points, respectively. Sharp advances were recorded by United States Gypsum and Johns Manville in the building shares.

Gold mining shares again pointed lower, Homestake and Dome Mines both losing more than 1 point.

FOREIGN MARKETS RISE.

Stock prices advanced on the principal foreign markets yesterday, influenced by the rise in American shares, and the dollar depreciated moderately in relation to foreign currencies.

Bank Stocks.

First National bank shares led an advance in Chicago bank stocks yesterday with a gain of $9. The shares were quoted at $183 bid, $189 asked. Continental Illinois National continued its rise, advancing $1.50 a share to $65.50 bid, $67 asked. Chicago Title and Trust company stock duplicated its Wednesday gain of $5 at $136 bid, $140 asked. City National moved up $2 a share to $120 bid, $124 asked. Northern Trust rose $5 at $485 bid, $495 asked. Harris Trust was an exception, declining $2 a share to $255 bid, $265 asked.

CUBA OFFERING BONDS TO REFUND EXTERNAL DEBT

Will Exchange for Older Higher Yield Issues.

The Republic of Cuba will offer by means of a prospectus today $44,000,000 of 4½ per cent external debt bonds, 1937-'77, together with coupons due on and after Dec. 31, 1937, in exchange for the outstanding $40,000,000 Republic of Cuba Public Works 5½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds, due June 30, 1945, together with interest coupons due on and after Dec. 31, 1933.

The offering is being made through Cuba's ambassador to this country, Dr. Pedro Martinez Fraga. The rate of exchange is $1,100 principal amount of new bonds for each $1,000 of the public works bonds.

It constitutes a part of an authorized issue of $85,000,000 principal amounts of Cuban 4½ per cent bonds, all of which are to refund other obligations.

Place Two Issues Privately.

Private placement of two large utility issues was indicated yesterday. The Maryland public service commission has been asked to approve the sale of $10,440,000 of 3¼ per cent first and refunding mortgage bonds of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power company of Baltimore. The sale is contingent on favorable action by the commission. The proceeds will be used to retire $10,440,000 of series L 3¾ per cent bonds.

The other issue consists of $9,515,000 of 3½ per cent debentures of the Yonkers Electric Light and Power company and the Prudential Insurance company. Proceeds will be used to pay advances made to the parent company.

Up to the close of business yesterday subscriptions were received for $23,500,000 of Commonwealth Edison company 3½ per cent debentures, or approximately 73 per cent of the total amount available, officials said yesterday. After 3 p. m. today warants entitling stockholders to buy the debentures will become valueless and all debentures not subscribed by the stockholders will be offered publicly by a group of underwriters headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co.

California Issue Well Taken.

Offering of $60,000,000 of Metropolitan water district of Southern California 4 per cent Colorado river waterworks refunding liens was reported yesterday to have met a substantial demand, especially from institutional buyers, such as insurance companies.

The Pennsylvania railroad in its first new financing this year yesterday asked bids on $6,330,000 of equipment trust certificates to finance the purchase of 1,000 gondola cars, 8 special type freight cars, 2 experimental passenger coaches, and 20 electric passenger locomotives, the total cost of which will be approximately $8,440,000. Bids are asked on two interest bases, one with interest at 2½ per cent and the other at 2¾ per cent.

Peoples Gas Rate Fight Carried to High Court

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday appealed to the Illinois Supreme court from a decree of the Cook county Circuit court last February approving an $800,000 annual rate increase by the People's Gas Light and Coke company. The money from the increase is being held in escrow for possible refunds should the high court uphold the commission's action.

General Motors Summer Closing to Be Extended

Because of unfavorable business conditions, the General Motors corporation this summer will close its plants about three weeks longer than a year ago, William S. Knudsen, president, announced yesterday. The shutdowns last summer for annual inventory and model changes, on the average, were two to three weeks, the shortest changeover periods in the corporation's history.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The market for hogs yesterday advanced 5 to 15 cents to the highest level since March 25. Top sales rose 15 cents to $9.25, indicating a gain of $1.30 in six weeks. The average was up 10 cents at $8.55. Light receipts offset the effects of warm weather and draggy wholesale markets for fresh pork.

A decidedly stronger undercurrent developed in the trade for most classes of cattle yesterday. All steers and yearlings met a dependable demand at strong to slightly higher rates.

WHEAT CANCELS EARLY ADVANCE TO CLOSE LOWER

Lack of Export Demand Keeps Price Down.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Wed.	Year ago.
Wheat	.75⅛	$ .75¾	$1.13⅜
Corn	.57⅜	.57½	1.19¾
Oats	.26⅞	.26¾	.40½
Rye	.52⅜	.52½	.85¾
Soy Beans	.84½	.84¾	1.26¼

Although strength in securities and commodities had considerable influence on North American wheat markets early yesterday, the buying was not aggressive and late in the session sufficient selling developed to cause a reaction of 1½ cents from the high point.

Closing prices were at the bottom with net losses of ¼ to ⅞ cent a bushel on the board of trade. Weakness in the northwest had some effect toward the end of trading, both the Minneapolis and Winnipeg markets losing as much as ⅞ cent as the result of reports of scattered rains being received where most needed.

Lack of European demand for North American cash wheat, both for nearby and forward shipment, again had considerable influence on sentiment.

Spring Wheat Belt Dry.

The dull export demand prevented the market from responding to any extent to official and private reports, indicating a serious lack of moisture over a large part of the spring wheat belt.

Threshing returns from the winter wheat belt showed a wide range in yields and quality. A considerable part of the grain moving in Texas and Oklahoma was reported being shipped by producers to interior terminal elevators for storage purposes in the belief that the government loan program will result in better prices than could be secured by selling at the present time.

Other Grains Narrow.

Corn and other grain futures held within relatively narrow price limits, corn and rye gaining small fractions of a cent a bushel, but oats and soy beans being slightly lower. Reports indicated a lack of aggressive export demand for cash corn, but this was more than offset by purchases of futures attributed to speculators and exporters.

BANK EXAMINERS GIVE APPROVAL TO NEW RULINGS

Washington, D. C., June 23.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today the government's new regulations for liberalizing and standardizing bank examinations had been endorsed by the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks.

He showed reporters a telegram from William R. White, New York banking commissioner, and president of the association. It said the agreement reached by federal bank examining agencies was in accord with recommendations of the state officials. The announcement assured extension of the program to every bank.

The secretary said he had advised President Roosevelt by long distance telephone of the agreement and would transmit a copy to the White House tomorrow. Promulgation of its details will be left to the President.

Mexican Oil Lands.—6.

In its finding in the oil companies-petroleum workers' syndicate case the Mexican labor board's special group made recommendations which oil company executives declare would have taken control of their properties from their hands and given it to syndicate leaders. Included among the terms, according to a summary published by the Huasteca Petroleum company, were the following:

Managers of refineries and of other high departments were to be appointed by the syndicate.

No reduction of personnel could be made without syndicate consent, but the companies were to discharge immediately all nonsyndicalized workers. Also, any worker expelled by the syndicate was to be discharged immediately.

Promotions were to be based solely on seniority.

Workmen discharged or laid off were to receive ninety days' pay plus twenty days' pay for each year of service.

Companies were to furnish free medical, surgical, dental, and hospitalization services to their workers; hospitals and maternity wards were to be built on company property.

In vocational accidents or illness full salaries were to be paid up to eighteen months. In event of death from vocational causes 1,280 days' salary was to be paid. In total disability cases 1,460 days' pay was ordered.
